'Victims' loaded on stretchers

Scene above could very well be the real thing. Victims from mock air crash at Metro Airport Saturday are loaded onto stretchers by medical personnel and rushed to one of 11 area hospitals which cooperated in the huge exercise. The simulated crash was held to test emergency and medical facilities in the area in event of a real crash at the busy airport terminal. Since its inception, Metro Airport has never had a fatality in its day-to-day operation.

4,000 Attend concert

Man charged for holding Huron show

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

An Allen Park promoter last week was charged with four violations by Huron Township for holding an unauthorized rock concert Sunday, Sept. 24, attended by an estimated 4,000 persons at Liberty Park east of New Boston.

Seven residents of the area on Bredow Road showed up at Wednesday night's meeting of the Huron Township Board to register complaints about the excessive noise, threats from concert goers and vulgar language directed at them.

Charged was Robert Hoffman, who Clerk Sandra Rhodes said was the promoter of the event, the first ever held in Liberty Park.

He was cited for: not having a permit from the township to stage the concert; advertising and selling tickets prior to obtaining a permit; conducting and operating an assembly which created a public nuisance; permitting any person on the premises to create a public nuisance through disorderly conduct and the use of obscene language.

The township board directed its attorney to send a letter to Hoffman informing him that no future gatherings such as the recent rock concert would be permitted in the township.

Further, in response to a request from protesting residents, the board said it will ask the Wayne County Road Commission for signs prohibiting parking along Bredow Road at the risk of having cars towed away.

Mrs. Rhodes said Hoffman will have to appear in the Romulus 34th District Court on the four charges levied by the township, all of which are punishable by fines.

Brought out at the board meeting by residents who lived near Liberty Park, between Inkster and Middlebelt roads, was their parking of farm implements in their drives to discourage parking by persons attending the rock concert.

The clerk said the township was not aware the concert was going to be held Sunday until about 4:30 p.m. on the preceding Friday when the Wayne County Sheriff's Department called.

Unable to contact its attorney, she said the township did not step in to stop the affair because it was unsure on what legal grounds it stood should concert promoters be sued for ticket refunds. Should that have occurred, the township could have been drawn into the suit on grounds that it was liable, she said.

Practice for real thing

Mock air crash at Metro tests emergency facilities

Detroit Metro Airport was the testground for a realistic mock crash-disaster of a commercial airliner Saturday—a drill involving numerous local, county, state and federal agencies— to test the airport's emergency rescue plan. (See additional photos on Page A-14.)

Metro Airport, the largest international jetport in the state, safely handled over eight million passengers last year at its three terminals, in addition to the millions of visitors who pass through the terminal complex annually.

Michael Berry, chairman of the Board of Wayne County Road Commissioner, operators of the Metro Airport complex that is ranked among the top 11 busiest airports in the nation, noted that "Metro has never had a fatal crash involving a commercial airlines".

"My fellow commissioners, Joseph M. Herron and Freddie G. Burton, also are extremely pleased with the excellent cooperation of the many hospitals, governmental agencies and citizens who have agreed to voluntarily participate in this exercise. It's a plan we all pray will never have to be used, but we must be constantly alert," Berry said.

The still vivid memory of the recent tragedy involving a commercial jet and a small private plane near San Diego, Cal., a mid-air crash which so far has claimed 150 lives, has redoubled the airport disaster teams' determination to utilize the drill to resolve any operational problems and totally refine the airport's emergency plan.

The mock airport disaster drill involved an estimated 600-700 individuals, including victims, firefighters, rescue teams, military aviation personnel, professional hospital personnel at 11 Wayne and Washtenaw county hospitals and private emergency ambulance services.

Detroit Metro Airport personnel, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, and Wayne County General Hospital were full partners in the airport disaster plan prepared several years ago.

To completely test the airport's emergency disaster plan and those of participating hospitals, coordination was established with the Michigan Department of Health, Division of Emergency Medical Services, the Wayne County Office of Emergency Preparedness, and local agencies, including the members of the Western Wayne County Fire Mutal Aid.

In addition, the Michigan State Police, the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Pan American and American Airlines, and the American Red Cross joined in the planning required to coordinate such a large exercise.

Approximately 50 individuals representing numerous governmental, hospital, medical and private emergency ambulance services, as well as local school districts who assisted in recruiting volunteers from their student bodies, also volunteered their time and expertise.

Trained personnel, including representatives from local, county, state and federal agencies, and hospitals, volunteered to serve as evaluators for the airport disaster test.

The evaluators, who prepared reports on the airport emergency procedures, also checked for the effectiveness of the medical triage (doctors and nurses) who respond to the emergency site to determine injuries and hospitals that mock victims will be dispatched to for treatment.

The drill site, on the southeast side of the airport, off Middlebelt Road, is remote from the airport terminal complex and the exercise did not interfere with normal airport activities.

"We had advised all passengers in the terminal areas that there would be a mock disaster drill taking place and did not envision any problems or inconvenience for the traveling

3 Tax amendments will be explained

The Tisch Amendment. The Headlee Amendment. The Voucher Plan. What are they? What impact will they have on the lives of Michigan's residents?

These answers and more will be provided for the residents of Western Wayne County at a meeting on Oct. 21 at 6 p.m. at the Westland Community Center, 36000 Ford Rd., Westland.

Following passage in June of California's Proposition 13, a measure drastically cutting that state's proerty tax, much discussion on the issue has evolved in Michigan.

That initial discussion soon took the form of citizen initiative petition drives to place similar tax reform measures on Michigan's November ballot.

In the weeks following Michigan's certification of the petition signatures, many residents have expressed confusion and lack of knowledge concerning all three of the tax reform questions they will be voting on in November.

In order to help promote the understanding of the three measures, which could dramatically affect the lives of Michigan residents, Associated Newspaper has contacted the authors of the three proposals. We requested that the three men, Robert Tisch, Richard Headlee, and Robert Lytle, jointly appear at a meeting in this area to explain the proposals and their potential impact on the lives of area residents.

Following much juggling of schedules and possible dates for the meeting, all three men have agreed to personally present their proposals and plans to the residents of this area.

For the first time, the three authors of the ballot proposals which deal with tax reform, and tax reform measures will appez together on the same program.

Associated's Managing Editor Dennis G. Fassett will moderate the meeting at the Westland Community Center. The prgram will begin at 6 p.m.with each of the three authors allowed 30 minutes to present his proposal.

Following a break, the speakers will discuss the differences between the proposals for 30 minutes.

The final segment of the program will provide residents with the opportunity of questioning the authors of the three proposals.

According to Publisher David J. Willett, 'Associated Newspapers is proud to provide residents of this area with this first. For the first time, the three men who are pimarly responsible for the tax reform proposals will appear on the same stage to discuss the questions. I feel it is only fitting that our readers will be the beneficiaries of this first."

Fashion show latest to aid Rishel fund

A benefit fashion show scheduled for Nov. 9 in Romulus is the latest in a growing list of fund-raising efforts by local groups and individuals to help pay medical expenses for a fifth grade girl who last July underwent a kidney transplant operation.

Most recently, the Romulus Rotary Club contributed a check for $500 to the Elaine Rishel medical fund-trust set up at the local branch of the Manufacturers National Bank.

The benefit fashion show, which will begin at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of Romulus High School, will feature a Christmas theme and will exhibit clothes for the entire family.

The 11-year-old Rishel girl has now recovered fully from the operation after three years of suffering and hardship. In fact, Elaine and her twin sister, Lorraine, will serve as models at the fashion show.

According to Mrs. Sandra Langley, a former school board member and one of the coordinators for the fashion show, clothes for the benefit occasion will be furnished by the J.L. Hudson Department Store, Southland branch.

Serving on the committee which put arrangements together for the fashion show are: Mrs. Langley; Mrs. Barbara Schuster; Miss Lynn Paris, special education teacher who tutored Elaine during her illness; Mrs. Gretchen Firestone, fifth grade teacher; Mrs. Sheila Stasak, second grade teacher; and Miss Fran Elser, fifth grade teacher.

Among the more than 20 models who will show wardrobe attire for all members of the family are: Rishel twins; Mrs. Mary Oakley; wife of Mayor William M. Oakley; Lisa Oakley, the mayor's daughter; Mrs. Mary Ann Banks, Romulus City Council chairman; Marvin Fisher, assistant superintendent of curriculum, Romulus Public Schools; and Terrel M. Lesne, principal of Mt. Pleasant School and mayor of Inkster.

Donations for tickets will be $3 for adults and $1.50 for children 12 years of age and under. For information, call Mrs. Langley at 942-0245.

Claims news stories misleading

Huron promoter tells his story

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

"A misunderstanding" and "blown out of proportion".

That's how George Moore, a Huron Township promoter, termed stories carried in the press on his involvement with rock concerts at Flat Rock Speedway and proposed construction of a theme park in the township.

The stories had stated that two rock concerts promoted by Moore at the Flat Rock Speedway had flopped. Further, they cited the low monetary worth of Space World of Livonia, developers of the theme park and questioned how the firm planned to raise some $40 million to build it.

Moore, who coincidentally is the Democrat nominee for Huron Township supervisor in the November election, told the Roman he is close to resolving the financial dilemma arising out of four rock concerts at the speedway.

"The Detroit News blew the story out of proportion," Moore claimed.

He said he and four other investors formed the National Service Organization primarily for the purpose of holding automobile and motorcycle races at the speedway.

Now, some two and a half years later, he said the others had flown the coop, leaving him holding the bag for some $42,000 in unpaid ticket refunds for four concerts in 1975.

"I've got the total down to about $10,000 now," he said. "If I can get the attorney general's office to get the J.L. Hudson Co., which sold the tickets, to release what they collected, I'll be able to pay off the balance of the $10,000."

Moore said the bad publicity generated by the news stories had hurt his standing with Space World, to whom he acted as agent for the purchase of 300 plus acres in Huron Township.

Claiming that "99 percent of the township" is in favor of the park, he contended that raising $40 million for its construction "would be no problem".

He said once the site plan approval is given to Space World by the township, "$50 million to $100 million" could easily be forthcoming from investors.

Moore pointed out that Space World did not talk to Romulus city officials last year about the theme park. Rather, it was a firm called Century World, represented by a Don Cox, whom Space World is now suing.

"Space World never presented the park proposal to Romulus," he maintained.

The site for the theme park in Huron township came about, Moore said, when an agreed-upon site in Ypsilanti was given up by Space World because of a long-standing hassle over a zoning change requirement that would necessitate a vote of the people in the general election.

"I told them I could put together two parcels for their park - one in Huron Township and one in Van Buren Township," Moore said. Space World choose Huron, he said.

Moore explained that his troubles at the speedway began when it was suggested that the incorporators of National Service Organization hold a country western concert to help defray mounting expenses connected to its purchase.

"We made two big mistakes," he declared. "We had printed on the tickets that refunds would be made in the event concerts were cancelled and we held the four concerts on the wrong dates."

In fact, he said, the first concert on June 15, 1975, was hit by the biggest rainfall recorded in the last 90 years.

"When the insurance company didn't pay off the $15,000 we were supposed to get because of the rain cancellation, we found ourselves $39,000 in debt," he said.

What the news stories did not state, he said, was that the first rock concert was moved over to the Sheraton Inn in Romulus and held

Was Nicholas Christ the Oakland County child slayer?

Christ, whose body was recovered last week from Upper Silver Lake in Oakland County, has triggered a police investigation in an attempt to link the former Wayne High honor student to the sex slayings in Oakland County two years ago.

At least one high law enforcement official, Johannes Spreen, the Oakland County Sheriff, wants "a thorough investigation into Christ's past."

But even Spreen admits "that there is only a remote possibility that there is a connection, however, I feel that a thorough investigation must be made to see if there is any link between Christ and the four brutal deaths of those children."

Meanwhile, funeral services for Christ were held last Monday at Uht Funeral Home in Westland, the Rev. Richard Schultz officiating. The interment was at Glenwood Cemetery in Wayne.

Christ is survived by his mother, Lucille, and a daughter, Amy.

Wayne High school officials remember Christ, who graduated in 1961, as a brilliant student,and was president of the graduating class. Christ had a 3.52 scholastic average. According to one of the teachers, 'Nicholas was a rare type among high school students - an original thinker - if anyone should succeed in college he should."

"Christ was an honor's student," said Wayne High principal George Bell. "He was one of our outstanding scholars, however, at the time he was in school I was the music teacher and had little contact with him."

Christ disappeared on Aug. 3 after he had informed several of his co-workers at the General Motor's Pontiac Division in Pontiac that he was going fishing. The co-workers had told police that they thought it was strange, "because Christ didn't like to fish."

But one of Christ's former friends in Wayne who said he wished to remain unidentified, said, "that Nick enjoyed fishing and I can't understand what made them believe he didn't."

Whatever the reasons, Christ, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Sgt. John F. Taylor, purchased some fishing gear on Aug. 2, the day before his disappearance.

"We don't know - and I guess we never will know - if Christ's disappearance was accidental, a planned suicide or a phony staging of an accidental death."

Sheriff's Department officials and the Oakland County police marine division dragged the lake for several days in August hoping to uncover Christ's body, but it wasn't until last Thursday that the victim's body was uncovered.

Oakland County Task Force, charged with finding the killer, revealed that it had questioned Christ about the child slayings.

"He (Christ) has been investigated by our unit probably four or five times and had been cleared as a suspect," said State Police Lt. Robert Robertson, head of the investigating team.

The Oakland County Medical Examiner's has not released its report on Christ's death and law enforcement officials said they will go over the findings to see if it will shed a light into Christ's mysterious death.

Christ was divorced and was living alone, according to police officials. They also said that he had been a psychiatric out-patient at Clinton Valley Center until June of 1974.

Have you heard about our "No-Payment" Pre-Plan Program?

Did you know you can pre-plan funeral services at no charge? You can. It will cost you nothing at all to make your wishes known as to your choice of service, casket, music, specific readings from Scripture — even arrange for your favorite flowers and your clergyman. And these arrangements-in-advance can be made without cost or obligation.
HERE'S HOW TO DO IT: First, come in and complete our Pre-Planning Form with our help. The form covers all the above-mentioned choices and many others. Second, you will receive copies of the Form for safekeeping with your lawyer, accountant, designated estate administrator or family member. Third, a copy remains with us which you may review from time-to-time and update as you require.
Pre-Payment Options:
Several pre-payment plans are available, too, if you choose to pay in advance. But pre-planning does not necessarily mean prepayment. Stop by for full details.

The Neighborhood Watch program in the Meadows Subdivision area will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 11 at the Hale Creek Elementary School, Romulus.

Snowmobile clinic set

A snowmobile safety clinic will be sponsored by the Romulus Recreation Department Oct. 7 and 8 at the recreation building, 36515 Bibbins St., Romulus.

The clinic will include certification for off-road vehicles for 1978-79. A fee of $2 will be charged for registration which will be held from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Oct. 7.

For additional information, call 941-0666, extension 67.

Huron to air school budget

The Huron Board of Education will hold a public hearing Monday, Oct. 16, 1978, on the 1978-79 school year budget. Copies of the proposed budget are available for inspection in the superintendent's office in the administration building.

Church ends drive

The Sunday school at the Romulus Wesleyan Church will conclude a membership campaign Oct. 15 with rally day activities.

Highlighting the day will be music by the Dave Thurston family from Battle Creek. There will be both vocal and instrumental numbers.

A potluck dinner is planned followed by a sing — spiration service and music by the Thurstons.

The 6 p.m. service with more music will conclude the day's activities. The public is invited.

Seeks residents' help

Council delays payment on vandal damage at park

Repeated vandalism at the Merriman Park pavilion has prompted Romulus City Council to delay almost $10,000 in repair work pending a meeting of city officials with residents of the area.

Last week (Tuesday), council refused to act on the damage inflicted by vandals to the pavilions roof, exterior, interior, plumbing, heating equipment, restroom and electrical system.

Instead, it requested Mayor William M. Oakley to arrange a meeting with the area's PTO and concerned patents. Council members said they want the major to find out if area residents would cooperate in efforts to curb mounting destruction at the park's pavilion.

Although a memo from J.R. Kochanoski, superintendent of the department of public works, to his superior, David J. Paul, director of the DPW, indicated "some type of protection or alarm system" be installed, an entirely different recommendation camefrom the department's maintenance divisions.

William Case, electrician, in a memo to Paul, commented, "Although I concur with the cost estimate submitted by Mr. Kochanoski, I cannot agree with any effort to renovate this building..."

He said that even at the time of initial construction, contractors were plagued with vandalism although they placed a steel fence around the site of the pavilion.

"No alarm system would preclude vandals from tearing out roof vents, thus entering the building through holes in the roof and ceiling. In my opinion, an alarm system would only arouse the vandals to a point where they would again attempt to burn the building to the ground," Case's memo stated.

Calling vandalism at the park pavilion "the worst type possible", Case's memo went on, "Only additional lighting and around-the-clock security would preclude this at an exhorbitant expense to the city."

He concluded his memo by recommending that "public toilet and pavilion facilities be permanently abandoned and portable facilities utilized during peak periods of use."

Much of the damage to the pavilion occurred during winter months when it was not in use.

Damage breakdown, provided by Kochanoski showed the following estimate of costs: replace burned roof section - $800; replace roofing - $2,000; paint building exterior - $400; paint building interior - $400; replace doors, frames and locks - $600; repair electrical system - $1,500; repair and replace plumbing - $1,800; repair or replace heating equipment - $1,200; repair restroom facilities - $300; replace ceiling tile - $400; and miscellaneous expense $200.

Inspects burn 'victims'

Four volunteer "victims" who participated in Detroit Metropolitan Airport's "mock" airline disaster drill Saturday receive close attention from Romulus Fire Chief John Wilhide, shown inspecting the various "wounds"-in this case theater makeup applied by a score of volunteers three hours prior to the drill. American Airlines donated the use of its huge hangar for the makeup crews and nearly 250 participants who assembled shortly after 6:30 a.m. to receive their instructions and "wounds". By the drill's end, every mock patient had received medical attention and approximately 150 patients were transported to 11 hospitals, including Detroit and Ann Arbor. Chief Wildhide and the Romulus Fire Department also participated in the airport drill—a test of the airport's emergency plan which everyone hopes will never be used. Metro Airport has never had a fatal commercial airline accident.

Truck terminal meet slated

Romulus City Council and the city planning commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday (tomorrow) to discuss two proposed amendments to the city's zoning ordinance that would confine construction of truck terminals to the northeast section of the city.

The M-T1 and MT2 amendments were drafted at a public hearing held Sept. 11 at Hayti Elementary School.

The special session Thursday will precede another public hearing, for which no date has been scheduled. That public hearing will mark the third held on thetruck terminal zoning amendments.

Presently, construction of truckterminals is permitted only in areas zoned M-2 (heavy industrial) which are located in various parts of the city.

At the first public hearing held June 8 at Hayti School, some dozen residents turned out to protest such construction in their neighborhood.

Amendment of an existing city ordinance requires a 5-2 vote of the city council.

United Fund kickoff meet slated Oct. 5

An organizational and recruitment meeting to get this year's United Fund drive in high gear in Romulus will be held Thursday, Oct. 5, 1978, at 7 p.m. in the Romulus Public Library.

Robert Morrison, drive chairman, said the goal for 1978 will be to surpass last year's total of $1,600 collected locally.

Addressing the group will be Diana Lodge, Wayne County coordinator for the United Fund. She will discuss how fund drives are organized and will show a slide presentation of how the United Fund has helped Romulus in past years.

Morrison said local residents interested in helping the United Fund drive are urged to attend the meeting.

He said this year's drive will depart from past ones which concentrated on collections from residential dwellers. Instead, this year, he said, the United Fund drive will call on small business owners in the community as the prime source for donations.

Morrison asked that individuals who wish to contribute to the United Fund drive are asked to send checks or money orders to : Robert Morrison, 35354 Vinewood, Romulus, Mich. 48174.

Promoter explains his side of story there that same night when rain knocked out its performance at the speedway.

"Some of the spectators came to Romulus and some didn't," he recalled. "But, we did pay all of the entertainers."

Moore said he had better luck with the second concert on June 22, 1975. After rain cancelled that performance, too, the insurance company did pay the $15,000 guarantee and ticket holders were refunded their money, he said.

For the third straight time, Moore said, the rock concert scheduled for July 11, 1975, was rained out and all money was refunded to ticket holders.

It rained all night before the fourth concert on Aug. 3, 1975, and the show did not go on, he said, because of excessive water on the field.

"At the end of 1975, we were $17,000 in debt from rain cancellations," Moore said.

He said the corporation and himself were sued by the state attorney general's office because the firm had not issued stock as required by Michigan law.

Moore explained that the group was not in a position to issue stock in their firm, because of the debts standing over their head.

As a result, the courts ordered Moore and the corporation to make refunds on all tickets still outstanding and levied a fine of $10,000.

Contending that he got "stuck for being honest" by having the refund statement printed on the tickets, Moore agreed ticket holders should and would be paid back. However, he said the fine was unfair.

Moore said the attorney general's office had agreed to a request from his lawyer that the case would be resolved if all refunds were made and would drop the $10,000 fine.

"Right now, we're in the process of doing just that and we should be all paid off by the end of the year," he said.

Council okays bid on center for city's senior citizens

Romulus City Council last week acted on a variety of matters, including the new senior citizens drop-in center and the Wayne-Beverly roads urban renewal project.

Construction on a new senior citizens drop-in center for Romulus is expected to begin in about three weeks with completion scheduled by June 30 of next year.

The way was paved for construction last week (Tuesday) when council approved the low bid of $171,281 submitted by the Marcelli Construction Co. of Walled Lake. The low bid exceeded the architect's estimate of $150,000 for the project.

According to Clerk Leonard J. Folmar, a grant from the state Department of Natural Resources will pay for $128,461 of the total cost, with the city picking up the balance of $42,820.

The drop-in center will be built as a one-floor addition to the recreation department building at Bibbins and Shook streets.

In other action, Patrick A. Hogan, the city's new director of community development and planning, was appointed by Mayor William M. Oakley to fill an unexpired term on the city planning commission. The seat had been held by Ray Cantrell, son of Councilman Raymond Cantrell. Hogan's term will run concurrently with that of the mayor.

Council accepted the recommendation of Hogan to apply for $250,000 from Wayne County for the city's housing rehabilitation program. Under the program, Romulus residents could obtain loans and grants for home repairs and improvements.

The mayor informed council that Hogan has been notified by the Wayne County Advisory Council that Romulus will receive $70,000 in a community development block grant. The funds will be used to clear up 258 urban renewal lots in the Wayne-Beverly roads area for sale to the general public.

In its application the county for funds to clear up the Wayne-Beverly area, the city hd sought $125,000. However, Hogan told Oakley that only Van Buren Township, which received $90,000 got more money than Romulus of surrounding communities applying for that particular type of grant.

The $70,000 will also pay for a market study of the area to determine the kind of houses to be built, site plans, type of buyers and market value of the land.

Council members also approved a request from Folmar to use $45,000 of city money to build an office on one of the lots in the Wayne-Beverly urban renewal area. The office, he said, would be used to sell other lots and would be sold as a residence when the selling of the lots is completed.

Building of the office was supported by the Citizens District Council, a body required by the government to be formed from area residents on urban renwal projects.

Mary Lou Carey to head 15th Democratic office

Mrs. Mary Lou Carey, Democrat candidate for Huron Township clerk, will serve as office manager on a temporary basis of the state Democrat Party's new 15th Congressional District office in Wayne.

Should she be elected to the clerk's post, Mrs. Carey said she would terminate her position with would terminate her position with the office in Wayne, one of 14 operated by the Michigan Democrat Part in the state.

Located at 3158 S. Wayne Rd., Wayne, the office will hold its grand opening Saturday, Sept. 30, from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. The public is invited and light refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Carey said volunteers are needed for the coming election campaigns and that interested persons should call her at 729-6680 or 729-6681 or come to the office in Wayne between noon and 8 p.m.

Mock crash tests facilities public," a spokesman for the Wayne County Road Commission said.

The drill revolved around the simulated crash-fire of a WOW-707 landing at Metro Airport from the West Coast. The jetliner, carrying approximately 250 passengers, "lost" its landing gear, a wing severed and the plane burst into flames. The fire was extinguished by the Metro Fire-Crash Department and rescue of mock victims proceeded.

"We feel this was the most realistic mock disaster drill ever. We know it was for Metro Airport since we've never had a real drill—only paper runthroughs," an airport spokesman said.

During the drill, helicopters from the U.S. Air Force Reserve, the Air National Guard, and the Detroit Police Medivac teams were used to transport mock victims to hospitals. An estimated 25-30 ambulance-emergency vehicles were also used in the disaster drill to convey mock victims to 11 local hospitals.

Hospitals participating in the exercise and receiving actual mock patients included: Wayne County General Hospital, which provided the first triage medical team; Annapolis, Heritage and Outer Drive hospitals, all PCHA hospitals; St. Mary's Hospital, Livonia; Garden City Ostepathic Hospital, Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn, Detroit General and Childrens' hospitals in Detroit, and, three hospitals in Washtenaw County, Beyer Memorial, St. Joseph and University Hospitals in Ann Arbor.

A number of state, county and local officials attended the airport exercise as observers.

'Walk for Underprivileged Children' set

The fifth annual Romulus Jaycee "Walk for Underprivileged Children" is getting into high gear for Saturday, Oct. 21 - day of the walk.

From 8 to 10 a.m., Romulus students will begin a walk starting at city hall that is scheduled for 20 miles. To be eligible, students must have collected at least $5 in pledges.

Proceeds from the annual walk will be used to sponsor a Christmas party for some 500 deserving children in the community. As in the past, the Romulus Senior High School Student Council is co-sponsoring the event with local Jaycees.

Parents, businesses and local townspeople are requested to contribute only to those students who show them a completed walk sheet.

Persons desiring to contribute are asked to send checks made out to the Romulus Jaycees and give them to walking students, or mail them to Fred Coleman, Romulus High School, 9650 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus. Questions should be directed to Coleman at 941-2170.

Students, who will receive a minimum of 10 cents per mile walked will again be vying for prizes. Every student who walks will receive $1 and a free drink at McDonald's in Romulus. Students who collect $100 or more will be awarded a prize and the high school class which collects the most money also will receive a prize.

A grand prize will be given to the student who collects the most money. All money must be turned in by Nov. 3.

New officers elected

ANP publisher to head Chamber of Commerce

David J. Willett, publisher and owner of the Associated Newspapers whose editions also include the Wayne Eagle, was elected this week to head the 130-member Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

Willett, 35, was elected by the 15-member board of directors who also selected new officers for the year.

Serving as first vice-president is Fred Harris, of Able Rental, second vice-president, Ronald Cobb, owner of Cobb Pharmacy, and Norman Wood, treasurer.

The board of directors will include: Whitney Ballantine, an attorney, Wood, owner of Glenwood Medical laboratory, William Mulholland, owner of Mulholland Dry Goods, J.J. Tigue, manager of industrial relations, Ford Motor Company, and Harold "Buzz" Bower, owner of Bower Cleaners.

Willett suceeds Connie Shotwell, the first woman to ever serve as the president of the chamber.

Willett said that one of the chamber's goals "would be to rebuild the membership."

"I'm going to be giving a lot of thought to what we can attempt to accomplish during the coming year," said Willett, "however, at present, I don't feel I should be making promises that I can't fill. If I tell the people I'm going to do something, I want to be able to deliver."

Willett is well-aware of the problems which have plagued the city and the business community. One of the major problems will be rejuvenating the downtown business area and bringing together the north and southside businesses.

Willett's father, Wes Willett, was a co-owner of the Associated Newspapers chain before his death in 1975. The senior Willett is one of a few men to have served as president of the chamber for two terms.

Wesley Willett served as president of the chamber for two consecutive terms (1961 and 1962).

The term of office for each officer is one year.

The objects of the local chamber of commerce as outlined in the charter include, "to advertise, promote, foster and encourage wholesale, retail, industrial, tourist business, professional, financial and educational, civic and recreational interests and advantages of the community."

Dave is a graduate of Wayne Memorial and attended Henry Ford Mateo Community College in Mateo California.

Married to Donna, the Willetts have two children, Douglas, 11, and Deborah, 9, and they make their home in Wayne.

With St. Mary's

Wayne-Westland schools eye teacher swap

The Wayne-Westland Schools and St. Mary Catholic School in Wayne have agreed upon a contract whereby public school teachers will teach the parochial students academics and the Catholic school teachers will instruct in religion.

The public and parochial schools will share the current St. Mary's School building, but one wing of it will be called the Wayne-Westland Public School annex. The principal of the annex will be James Lombard, head of the distrtict's continuing education.

The net result of the agreement will be to increase the Wayne-Westland student population by about 220 students, thereby dramatically increasing state aid the district will receive. St. Mary will benefit because it will no longer be responsible for salaries of six teachers, and it will be paid $5,000 per year rent by the district for use of the school.

Careful not to cross the line between separation of church and state, the Wayne-Westland officials pointed out at Monday night's board meeting that an identical program in Traverse City is in operation and has withstood the test of a state Supreme Court challenge.

The school board approved the agreement, with six affirmative votes and an abstention by Gerard McGrath, who said he had not had sufficient time to study the proposals and be comfortable with the agreement.

In essence, the Wayne-Westland Community Schools has hired six of the current staff teachers at St. Mary's. They will teach academics. The district will also supply the time of physical education, music and art teachers already in the district.

That will leave four teachers on the staff of St. Mary's, who will be responsible for religious instruction separate from academics, and the current school principal, Sister Paula, will be principal of religious instruction.

Wayne-Westland Supt. Timothy Dyer pointed out that St. Mary students already utilize Wayne-Westland buses, so transportation arrangements will not change.

The six teachers from St. Mary's, hired by the board last night, will join the teachers' union as regular members, and be paid union wages. All but one will be brought in on first year teaching wages.

The lease arrangement with St. Mary's also contains "escape language" that St. Mary's can use in the event of future teacher layoffs.

If layoffs were to occur, say next year, St. Mary's may terminate the contract in order to keep those teachers, since those teachers would have lowest seniority and be first to go if layoffs were to be done.

The "dual enrollment" concept was first proposed by Dyer as yet another aggressive means to add student numbers in the district which is suffering declining enrollment.

Because the St. Mary students will be taught only a certain percentage of the time by Wayne-Westland teachers, the district will only be able to count "part" of the student in its head count. Out of, say, 300 students, Wayne-Westland expects to get the equivalent of about 220 full-time students who can be counted for state aid.

This causes increase in revenue in two ways. Most obviously, the district is paid its aid on a per student basis. It is expected that the aid will be $960 per pupil, and if there are 220 pupils, that will be about $200,000. Subtract the expenses of the dual enrollment — teacher salaries, rent of the school, materials — and the district still expects to come out $90,000 ahead.

But also, additional students have another effect on revenue from the state. The more students there are, the less local wealth there is behind each student, and the more the state will pick up in paying for education of each student.

It is worked out in a complicated formula, but the result is more than $360,000 in aid to the district that would otherwise not be there, Dyer said.

Huron-Clinton Parks boast paved bike trail

The Huron-Clinton Metropark system has bike trails at Stony Creek Metropark near Utica and Kensington Metropark near Milford.

Stony Creek Metropark near Rochester and Utica has a paved bike trail, which covers 4½ miles.

It starts south of the park boundary near Shelby Road at 26 Mile Road, extends through the park entrance, then into or past Eastwood Beach site and ends near the Winter Cove Picnic Area on the west side of the 4,000-acre park.

Bring your bike and enjoy the fall color while traveling along the bike trail. Bikers should not mix with auto traffic and observe good safety rules while bike riding.

For information contact Stony Creek Metropark at 781-4242 (Washington exchange).

Kensington Metropark near Brighton and Milford has a paved bike trail, which covers 4¼ miles.

It begins at the east boat launching site near the first entrance to the park along the I-96 Freeway, passes through hilly terrain near the park office and then extends to a point near the Winter Sports Hill in the 4,300-acre park.

For information contact Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

U of M psychiatrist urges 'revolting' against disease

A University of Michigan psychiatrist is teaching patients to cure themselves of the effects of anxiety illness by "revolting" against the disease and taking over control of their own bodies.

This overthrow of stress control, reported by Wiecher H. Van Houten, M.D., does not emphassize psychotherapy or drugs, but instead employes biofeedback techniques at the University Hospital Psycho-Physiology Clinic.

A high degree of success has been achieved with a growing list of psychosomatic illnesses — hives, alcoholism, migraine, hypertension, difficulties in swallowing, chronic pain, severe anxieties, phobias, insomnia, "wry neck" and partial paralysis.

So far more than 100 persons have been treated over the past two years by biofeedback, according to Dr. Van Houten, who heads the clinic and is chief of the U-M Adult Outpatient Psychiatry Service.

He believes an even wider range of stress illness could respond to his treatment.

He explained that instead of the doctor giving and the patient receiving treatment, the clinic's method involves teaching and encouraging the patient to become an active participant in his own care. The patient is taught to utilize the body's own ability to turn off pain and turn down anxiety "instead of remaining the helpless victim of the dictates of his disease."

"No matter how bad the condition, the patient can be helped to do something for himself," the psychiatrist said.

The key is teaching patients to achieve complete relaxation—at will.

"This is very important because anxiety and relaxation are mutually exclusive. You cannot be completely relaxed and feel anxious, worried or tense at the same time," Van Houten said. "Some people cannot turn off stress, even when there is no reason for it. It's as if they are driving down the freeway 80 miles an hour and don't know how to slow down enough to turn into a rest stop. We teach them how to let up on the accelerator."

Since these patients don't know how to relax, they also don't know when they have achieved a state of relaxation, the physician added.

Biofeedback monitors are used to tell the patient by means of an audible tone when he or she has achieved relaxation as detected by forehead muscle tension, temperature in the fingers, perspiration and alpha brain waves.

The forehead and finger sensors are used most often, Van Houten said, because they are the best indicators of overall body tension.

New patients at the clinic are given a health questionnaire, receive a brief physical checkup, and then rate themselves on psychological and anxiety scales for later followup.

Treatment consists of seating the patient in a comfortable chair, in a quiet room, attaching the biofeedback electrodes and instructing him in person, reinforced by pre-recorded voice tapes, in two methods of relaxation.

One is progressive relaxation of the body's main muscle groups, first by tensing them and them letting go.

The second method (most prefer one or the other) is autogenic training. The patient is urged by a soft contralto voice on the tapes to recall a place in his childhood where he felt very safe and to imagine himself there now on a warm sunny day, "to breath softly and to inhale the warmth and let it suffuse his body."

Learning to hold that thought and maintain a steady state of relaxation, whenever and wherever desired, takes most patients about 10 sessions at the U-M clinic bolstered by practice with tape-recorded lessons at home.

According to Van Houten, the very feeling of relaxation is completely foreign to most over-tense patients. After learning how to relax, he said, they describe a sensation "of floating out of the chair," "a loss of feeling in their hands or legs," and, often, a euphoric high.

Because so many anxiety or stress disorders involve tension, this achievement of relaxation acts as a sort of psychic penicillin, the psychiatrist explained, whether the problem is a fear of flying or trouble sleeping.

It is useful in controlling chronic pain of an unknown cause because tension makes pain worse and patients can be taught to turn off pain or at least to reduce it to a tolerable level through methods taught at the U-M clinic.

Metro 'air crash' takes 25 lives

The jetliner left Los Angeles International Airport at 11 p.m. and was scheduled to land at Detroit Metro at 10 a.m.

The flight had been uneventful.

Most of the 250 passengers on the WOW-707 flight were asleep when the flight crew began preparations for landing.

Two young men engaged in a brief pillow fight while the conversation slowly returned to the recently silent cabin.

As window shades were lifted throughout the plane, the cabin's interior was bathed with the soft morning light. Most of the passengers were looking forward to landing. Some returning from their California vacation, others visiting Detroit on company business, and still others visiting relatives, the passengers were in good spirits.

Little did they know that within 15 minutes, 25 of their fellow passengers would be dead, and countless others severely injured.

Forward in the cockpit, the captain was going through the landing check-list.

The plane was now descending on its prescribed route to runway No. 2. There was little traffic at this hour and the captain was given landing clearance.

At 6,000 feet, the crew deployed the craft's landing gears and extended the flaps. As the plane slowed on its descent into Metro Airport, the passengers were instructed to fasten seat belts and extinguish cigarettes.

The plane was now only five minutes from disaster.

Dropping through 3,000 feet, everything appeared normal. Last minute instructions were radioed to the captain from the tower. The flight crew was busy guiding the huge machine through the still morning air. Passengers were now secured for landing as the plane dropped slowly toward the runway.

With the landing flight check list now complete, the crew intently watched the approaching runway.

Crossing the I-94 Freeway at 300 feet, the plane was lined up with the runway. At an altitude of 100 feet, the plane crossed the end of the runway.

The passengers felt the reassuring bump as the wheels touched down.

The right landing gear of the plane bounced gently off of the ground. As the craft settled again on the right wheel, the landing gear groaned and collapsed.

The right side of the plane instantly dropped to the runway surface. In a split second, the right wing, now carrying the full force of the plane's weight and grinding into the concrete runway surface, severed from the craft, spewing fuel which quickly created an inferno.

The plane, coming to rest, is now engulfed in flames. Metro Tower almost instantly has alerted the airport Fire-Crash Department, now racing across the field toward the scene.

Inside the plane, many passengers are unconscious, others are struggling frantically to flee the flames.

Within seconds, the airport fire fighting personnel are on the scene. The flames are extinguished and the job of removing passengers is begun.

The runway is soon littered with the bodies of the dead and injured. Seventy-five of the passengers have suffered internal injuries, broken or fractured legs, arms and ribs. Another 75 suffer second and third degree burns. Seventy-five others are in shock and suffering minor burns and abrasions.

And 25 passengers are dead.

Many of those now lying on the runway's surface will die unless they receive immediate medical assistance, but on this day there is no immediate medical assistance available. Today there is no comprehensive plan for saving the victims of such a disaster.

Last Saturday there was. At least there was a plan for that day.

When the above scenario was acted out at Metro Airport in conjunction with the Michigan Department of Public Health and Wayne County, victims of this mock disaster were quickly and efficiently evacuated to nearby hospitals where the necessary treatment could have been administered. But that was last Saturday.

In the coming weeks, Associated Newspapers will be providing readers with a series of articles dealing with the potential impact on area medical facilities that such an airport disaster would produce.

In addition, we will attempt to analyze existing procedures for dealing with such a medical disaster.

The passengers of the WOW-707 were lucky. They were a part of an organized plan for dealing with an airport emergency.

Today, there exists no such plan, other than in the minds of some officials. Today, more than 25 of those passengers would have died. They would have died because there is no comprehensive plan for dealing with such a disaster today.

We think it is time for a concerted effort.

Passengers place their lives in the hands of the airports and airlines. The airports, the airlines, and our medical community must not violate that trust.

November tax proposals outlined

Second of two parts

By STATE SENATOR
DAVID A. PLAWECKI

PROPOSAL H
The Voucher System: A Proposed Law to Abolish Property Tax For Funding Education

This proposed law would abolish the property tax as a basis for funding education and replace it with a voucher system. The Legislature would then be mandated to devise a method for taxation to replace the property tax void. Briefly, the voucher system would work in this way. Each school age child would receive a voucher equal to the average per-student expenditure in a school district.

Rather than being centrally funded, participating schools would receive vouchers from enrollees and redeem them, in turn, for cash from the state. Parents would be permitted to enroll their children in the participating school of their choice. In short, a school would derive its income from enrollee vouchers.

Proponents Say:

•• Schools would be forced to provide a quality educational product. If they were made to compete for students as a business competes for customers, they would have to give evidence of excellence.

•• Schools could tailor their programs to emphasize certain educational alternatives such as offering "open" or "traditional" classrooms.

•• Forced busing to achieve racial integration would no longer be required. Children would attend the school of their choice, regardless of race, color or creed.

•• The voucher system would offer build-in safeguards for culturally or educationally disadvantaged children. The "compensatory voucher", higher in value, would be assigned to schools.

Opponents Say:

•• Adoption of the voucher system would force the Legislature to find an alternative to the property tax as a method of financing education. This would be likely to result in significant increases in income and business taxes.

•• The voucher system would jeopardize the education system for a number of reasons. First, by promoting certain educational services, a school's advertising claims might outweigh actual educational performance. Also, once the voucher rate was established, schools could charge more for their service and thereby foster discrimination based on economic status.

•• Opponents also believe that the availability of vouchers by private and public schools could threaten the separation of church and state. Some believe the proposal is parochiaid in disguise.

PROPOSAL J
A Proposal To Reduce Michigan's Property Tax by 50 Percent

Proposal J would amend Michigan's constitution to reduce property taxes in the state by 50 percent. Modeled after California's Jarvis-Gann (Proposition 13) initiative, the proposal would:

—cut property taxes approximately in half, for all individuals and businesses by reducing the maximum assessment level from 50 to 25 percent.

—limit assessment increases to a maximum of 2.5 percent annually.

—continue the prohibition against a graduated income tax and limit the current flat rate of income tax to a maximum of 5.6 percent. This is one percent above the current tax rate.

—allow the legislature to provide for a local option school district income tax limited to one percent.

—prohibit the state from requiring any new activity or service from local governments unless financed by the state.

The impact of the proposal would be levied entirely on the services and programs provided by local governments, since the state receives no revenue from the property tax.

Proponents Say:

•• The property tax burden has become too great and should be reduced.

•• Local government has grown too large and should be cut in size.

Opponents Say:

•• The "Tisch" proposal is not a tax limitation proposal. It is a tax shift—it placed a cap on the state's ability to use its most equitable, most progressive tax, the income tax, but will not prevent increases in the rate or base of the single business tax, nuisance taxes and other taxes, imposition of users fees or new or increased local taxes.

•• The major winners as a result of the tax shift would be low-income persons, landowners and capital intensive businesses. The major losers would be high income persons, renters, and professional and service businesses.

•• Revenues to local units of government, including schools, community colleges, counties, cities, villages and townships would be slashed drastically.

In addition, these local units would lose state and federal revenue sharing funds unless compensating changes were made in those formulas. Unless replacement taxes were adopted, this amendment would force drastic cuts in local service, police and fire protection, and school programs.

Thoughts from the publisher

When day is done...

By DAVID J. WILLETT
Publisher, Associated Newspapers

The events of last week will linger in my mind for years. Three people who have touched my life are dead.

Sunday I learned that the body of Nick Christ has been found in an Oakland County Lake, and was at Uht's Funeral Home.

My wife Donna and I had graduated from Wayne Memorial High with Nick. He and I attended classes together, and had served as fellow class officiers.

Arriving at Uht's Sunday night, entering the room where Nick lay, Donna and I could not help but note the total absence of family and friends. Only two signatures preceeded ours in the guest book.

Nick's mother, we learned, had sat with her son's body all day. Weary from the ordeal, she had left to return to her home in Jackson.

In high school, Nick was one of the most brilliant and popular students in our class. Popular enough in fact to be elected Senior Class President.

At the age of 35, after a marriage, one child, a divorce, and years of anguish, Nicholas Christ's life came to an end. It appears a freak drowning accident had caused his death.

On Monday, thirteen people attended his funeral. Four of his former classmates carried his body to its final place of rest. What promise we had held for him, yet there he lay, his young troubled, perhaps wasted life, ended.

Monday afternoon I received word that Ted Kuckelman, that "Grand Old Man" of the Wayne, Westland and Belleville Chambers of Commerce, had passed on.

It was Ted's service with the Wayne Chamber, during my father's terms as Wayne Chamber President, that first brought me in contact with Ted. I will always remember my friendship with him, his glorious enthusiasm, as well as the example he set for others. Ted was deserving of the 90 years God gave him on this earth. He used his time to accomplish worthy deeds, and to develop lasting friendships.

Ted was eulogized in a service Tuesday night at Robert's Brothers in Belleville by his friend Rev. Skoney, before a packaged gathering of friends and relatives. Wednesday in a service at St. Anthony's Church, once again he was remembered by his loved ones.

Ted Kuckelman will be remembered with foundness and admiration for what he did with his gift of life.

On Thursday, we learned of the tragic accidential death of Dr. Gerald Davies, a brillant young eye doctor who had specialized in childhood eye problems. He was head of opthimology at Children's Hospital in Detroit.

Dr. Davies had been walking his dog near his home on Grosse Ile. He apparantly tripped on his dock, struck his head on a pipe, tumbled into the water, and drowned. At the age of 44 years, this gift to the world, was dead.

He had operated on our daughter's eyes twice, giving her, as he had so many others, a chance to live a normal life. His miraculous skill and precious knowledge, now taken from so many who so desperately needed him.

The ironies and contrasts of the vents of last week are numerous and obvious.

Young Nick, with his life misspent, is gone, leaving behind unused potential and regrets.

Ted, after 90 long years, with a list of accomplishments and acquaintanships too long to recount, has left us with only fond memories.

And Gerald Davies, needed by patients and family, and at the peak of a productive career, has been taken.

Nothing is so certain for man as the knowledge that one day we must all depart from this life on earth. Nothing is so uncertain to us as the time and place of our calling.

I cannot help but to pause and ponder, how fruitful will have been my life, when my ....day is done.

Reflections

Don't throw stones

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

The other evening my love and I went to see Neil Simon's play "Finishing Touches."

In case you haven't seen, or read it, it's the story of a middle-aged professor who gets the yens for one of his students, but then gets turned on by his son's mistress who tempts him to run away with her for a weedend.

Naturally, it didn't take much tempting since he was in the middle-age doldrums, but about the time his wife was ready to slit her throat, he came back.

He'd only been gone a half hour. And the reason he came back was because on his flight to loveland, he had his paramour stop by the local drugstore so he could get some Gel-u-cell.

When it got to that part of the play, I fell out of my seat, hootin' and hollerin'. My love looked down his acquiline nose and dragged me back to my seat. He then buried his nose in the program because when the middle-aged professor opened his mouth again, I fell out of the other side of my seat.

"I don't see what you think is so funny about that," he hissed at me.

"Can't you just see him making mad love to that young glamour puss and right in the middle having to pop a gellucel in his mouth," I roared. That's when he dragged me out of the theater and plopped me in the car. After I straightened my wig and pushed the stays in my "waist trimmer" down where they belonged I said to my love,

"I don't know why you're so mad. You don't take Gellucel."

"That's right," he snorted.

"But you're probably identifying, anyway," I said philosophically, "because you know no young thing is going to see you as romantic when she finds out you sleep with the heating blanket turned full on, and in your ski sweater and thermals."

"I wouldn't need all that with a beautiful young thing," he retorted, and that naturally shut me up, but only after I'd hit him on his bald spot with my wig.

But then I got to feeling sorry for him. Every woman knows that her man needs a lot of building up, so I put on my frilliest negligee and my best perfume and I went in and curled up beside him on the sofa.

"Honey," I said. "I think you're wonderful."

As he put his arm around me and smiled down at me, I popped a Rolaid in my mouth.

Voices from the past stilled forever

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

It's happened again, and I'm frustrated and depressed.

Another of my heros from the late 1930's and early 1940's has expired, and his passing was buried in the third section of one of Detroit's daily newspapers. For crying out loud, they didn't even print a picture this time.

Some readers may remember my sadness when a few months ago I wrote about the passing of Bill Kenney, the last surviving member of the 'Ink Spots'.

Well, now another magic name of the golen era is gone and I guess I'm the only one who feels this man and his craft should have gotten at least a few column inches in his memory.

His stage name was Bret Morrison — I suppose that could have been his real name too — and he thrilled countless youngsters and adults with a radio program in which the bad were always punished and the virtuous were always rewarded.

In his radio program he was known as Lamont Cranston, a wealthy man about town who had the power to cloud the minds of evil doers as he flitted about the city solving crimes.

According to the program, his true identity was known only to his trusted companion, a lady called Margot Lane.

Do you remember how the program was introduced? A sonorous voice would say, "Who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of men — the Shadow knows." That line was followed by a sinister laugh which warned all the bad guys that their time was indeed limited.

Oh my, how as youngsters we used to thrill to that introduction. That was radio, a medium sometimes called the theatre of the mind.

And it wasn't just the Shadow who kept us glued to the very large radios in our living rooms. In fact, the radio was generally the largest piece of furniture in the room.

We would camp in front of the Zenith, which had push-buttons to select stations, and we would be transported to wonderous adventures via the magic of that hugh talking machine.

There was one show, and I'm certainly not afraid to call it a classic, even though that honorable noun has been somewhat overworked in recent times, in which everyone was caught up in the action.

That show, called The Lone Ranger, used the famous William Tell overture as its theme. The monolouge used to introduce the program was priceless, and I still get goose pimples when I think of Fred Foy — the announcer — saying, "From out of the West come the thundering hoofbeats of the great horse Silver . . . the Lone Ranger rides again!"

I'm convinced that if the Lone Ranger didn't turn you on, then nothing would.

To my son and daughter-in-law, Matt Dillon, the fearless Marshall on the TV show Gunsmoke has always been played by James Arness, the gigantic man from Minneapolis. Not so Dan and Gail. On the radio version of Gunsmoke, Marshall Dillon was played by William Conrad, who was later to gain fame as a private detective in a TV series called Cannon.

If you have ever seen Conrad, you immediately recognize that a short, grossly overweight, slightly balding man could never play the visual role of a town Marshall. Yet, you still hear Conrad's marvelous voice doing the voice-over on numerous radio and TV commercials.

Jim and Marian Jordan had a radio show which took several Peabody awards (for the uninitiated, a Peabody is the quivalent of a movie Oscar). The Jordans lived at 79 Wistful Vista, and within that house was a closet which when opened each week would have all its contents come crashing to the floor.

Corny? I suppose so, but it never failed to get a laugh. That show was called Fibber McGee and Molly. With the advent of TV, an attempt was made to put the show on the audio-visual medium then in its infancy.

It just didn't work. All of us in my geriatric group had pre-conceived notions of what the house looked like, what Fibber and Molly looked like, and what the closet looked like. Radio, you see, forced one to think and use his imagination. And that, of course, was radio's greatness.

If you have ever watched the TV show Lou Grant, you will notice that the managing editor of Grant's paper is a man (called Charlie in the show) who has a somewhat different voice. You hear that voice almost daily in many, many radio and TV commercials. His name is Mason Adams, and years ago he starred in a radio show called Pepper Young's Family. Radio 'you see, did spawn some of today's TV and movie stars.

For instance, one of Warner Brother's great movies was The Maltese Falcon. Of the several stars in that film, the one probably best remembered is Humphry Bogart who played the super private detective, Sam Spade. Some radio producers were taken up with Sam Spade and they wrote a show to feature the tough, lady-killing, smart detective. They wanted Bogart to play Sam Spade.

Warner Brother's, and I think with some justification, refused to let Bogart do the weekly radio show. Thus, the producers had to find another man. That man who was to get a big break by being signed to do the radio show was Howard Duff, who later was to go on and carve out a career as a movie actor.

We'll continue with this trivia next week. Until then, Lamont Cranston, may you continue to punish the forces of evil, wherever you may be.

On the Brighter Side

Everyone else is older but Jim

By JIM BRADLEY

"If, while others around you are losing their youth, you can retain yours, then you'll be a (young) man, my son!"

With deep apologies to Rudyard Kipling, I paraphrase my feelings today. His poem, "IF", is one of my all-time favorites and I'm a lover of poetry.

My love for poetry really began in my teen-age years, back when I was attending Dearborn High School. I owe a debt of gratitude to my English teacher, Ellis R. Martin, for helping greatly to spark that love for prose in my soul.

Because it was Mr. Martin who spoon-fed me English and grammar until I ingested it. His Harvard-bred education and determined nature helped me swallow enough English know-how to get D-minuses in his class.

Much to my surprise (and his chagrin), he let me write for The Observer, Dearborn High School's weekly newspaper. I couldn't tell an irregular inflected form from a dangling participle. (But I did keep a pair of scissors handy to snip the dangling participles off evenly).

In spite of that, Mr. Martin let me write for the weekly school paper and perhaps that's the main reason I'm toiling as a columnist and reporter for Associated Newspapers six weeklies today.

But I have digressed—just like I used to do in high school. I don't know how Mr. Martin "came between" Rudyard Kipling's opening line and here, but he did.

I meant to go directly from my opening line into the fact that I have been invited to an "Old-Timers Ball" on Oct. 28 at the ritzy Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dearborn.

But I never could think straight. Just ask my high school teachers. And that, by the way, (it's about time) brings me to the topic of this column.

My class—the Dearborn High School graduating class of 1948—is having it's 30th reunion on Oct. 28 at the Hyatt Regency. I kiddingly call it an "Old-Timers Ball" because I have been invited and I don't know if I'll recognize all the middle-age folks who'll be masquerading as my former high school mates.

Don Ross and Helene Bogden are heading up the reunion and are trying to contact as many of the '48 Dearborn High grads as possible.

I haven't seen either one of them in 30 years. And I'm sure that they have changed a little in that time. That's what bothers me, I guess. Because I haven't changed much in the intervening years since Mr. Martin tried to ingrain English into my soul and mind.

I played with Don on the high school baseball team. He played two or three years as a regular and the only thing I can remember is that he once struck out five times in one game! Isn't it strange that's the only thing I can remember?

I never struck out five times in one game. In fact, I sat on the bench all the time. (It's awful hard to strike out five times from the bench—unless you have a very long bat).

Don was a great guy and we had some real good times together. That's why I was happy to receive his letter inviting me to the 30th class reunion. 30 years! I can't believe it. I haven't lived that long, have I?

My classmates aren't in their late forties, are they? Someone has played a joke on us and changed the calendar on us. Where have the years flown?

I just had a big slug of red pop and I feel like a kid again. But I don't know about the others in the '48 class.

How about Helene? She was an attractive long-haired blond with hair falling on her shoulders. (My hair falls on my shoulders—but it doesn't stop there, it goes all the way out.).

Helene was one of those sparkling girls that every boy would like to date. She was popular and happy and smiling and I remember calling her up once on the pretense of asking what our homework was that day.

I was so thin and forgettable, she had a hard time remembering my name (and I sat right beside her!). I took her picture for my photography class in the 12th grade and carried the 8 X 10 photo in my pocket. When the picture crinkled, Helene got early wrinkles in her face.

But I don't blame people for ignoring me when I was in high school. I was so homely I won first prize in the "Mortimer Snerd Look-Alike Contest". It's only in the past few years that I've gotten my rugged, handsome good looks. And I've added a few pounds.

I think that's the "only" difference between now and when I walked the halls of Dearborn High School in 1948. Don and Helene and other classmates have written and asked me to attend the 30th year class reunion.

It's only $40 a couple and my wife would enjoy it. Those '48 grads who want to go can call Don Ross at 565-7053 or Helene Bogden (Now Maldegen) at 565-2284 for information about the fancy ball.

Should I go? To tell you the truth, I'm scared stiff! I'll have to think it over and have to decide if I will go and see how time has made middle-age folks of us all.

But if I do go, you can be sure of one thing. I'll remind Don of the time he struck out five times in one game.

And I'll show attractive blond-haired Helene the picture of her I still carry folded up in my pocket!

Editor's note:

This page in the Associated Newspapers is being made available to the residents of the communities we serve.

Anyone of any age is invited to submit an open letter to their community or to the editor of Associated Newspapers.

We will publish letters on any subject. If you feel you have a plan for solving a city problem, or wish to comment on someone elses' plan, this space is being reserved for you.

If you or your group would like to address the community at large, or just an individual, this space is reserved for you.

If you think you can do it better, cheaper, faster, or with more flair, this is the place to tell everyone about it.

You are invited to send your opinions on events, or items of public interest, to the editor of Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Avenue, Wayne 48184.

Names will be withheld from letters published only for very good reason. The reason must be included in the letter.

The editor reserves the right to edit and-or condense letters where necessary.

Associated Newspapers has just given you a public voice. If a story is worth telling to your neighbor, why not tell it to your whole community.

Michigan's patchwork quilt of autumn color on the way

Leaves of bright red, yellow and gold form a patchwork quilt of autumn color that is at its vivid best on hiking trails and bike paths in city parks and urban nature centers.

Animals at the state's many fine municipal zoos can be a little friskier with the arrival of autumn's cooler temperatures. Arboretums, scenic gardens and island parks within city limits or easily accessible to urban dwellers become a riot of color at this time of year.

The Detroit Zoo is a lush, wooded sanctuary for people and animals alike. Visitors in autumn will find the colorful fall foliage an attractive backdrop for photographing some 500 species of mammals, including the largest collection of polar bears in captivity.

Lansing's Potter Zoo on the banks of the Red Cedar River is another favorite spot for fall color watchers, while visitors to Clinch Park Zoo at Traverse City see not only animals native to Michigan but also beautiful Grand Traverse Bay—at its sparkling best.

Deer, timber wolves, coyotes, bear cubs and a bobcat are the animal attractions at the zoo on Marquette's Presque Isle Park. Perhaps an even bigger lure is the riot of color awaiting motorists on a drive through the heavily forested peninsula jutting into Lake Superior.

At the 90-acre Fernwood Inc., near Niles, visitors who take the half-mile, 45-minute, self-guided nature trail can see 88 different ferns, a rock and bog garden and native trees in varying hues of crimson and gold.

Ann Arbor's Nichols Arboretum is a 138-acre tract of land situated along the Huron River in the center of town, and a winding trail leads hikers through lush foliage of rainbow colors.

Five miles of self-guided nature trails await fall color watchers at the Carl G. Fenner Arboretum in Lansing, where all the trees are labeled for easy identification. Battle Creek's Leila Arboretum contains not only native Michigan trees but many rare plantings on its 205-acre tract.

Combine fall color viewing with bird watching at the Wildfowl Sanctuary in Alpena, where a nickel buys corn from a machine to feed the ducks. Kensington Metropark near Milford is a photographer's dream. Its scenic overlooks capture a panorama of Canada geese swooping gracefully over lakes bordered by foliage in glorious color.

Two well-known Michiganians are responsible for the lush gardens which are among the state's most famous. The Gardens of Cranbrook surround the family home of publisher George G. Booth in Bloomfield Hills, near Pontiac. Dow Gardens at Midland were started in 1899 by Dow Chemical Co. founder Herbert H. Dow.

Some city-owned island parks give visitors a chance to combine fall color viewing with ship-watching. Belle Isle in the Detroit River and Ojibway Island in the Saginaw River are tree-lined with paths for walking and benches for sitting while watching giant freighters or pleasure boats pass.

Best color viewing in Michigan this year will be Sept. 22 to Oct. 15 in the Upper Peninsula and in the Lower Peninsula north of a line from Ludington to Standish. Advancing south to a line from Muskegon to Port Huron, fall color is at its peak in Michigan's mid-section Oct. 6-22. Extreme southern Michigan will have its best color viewing Oct. 13-22.

The fall color schedule was earlier the past couple of years because of lengthy summer dry spells, but with better rainfall last spring it is almost back on target.

Rain—or the lack of it—plays a major role in fall color. Chlorophyll, one of the many kinds of coloring matter in trees, makes it possible for trees to absorb energy from sunlight and turn carbon dioxide and water into sugars and starches. It is those sugars that help create the trees' colorful pigments.

Chlorophyll keeps leaves green but with less water in the soil, less of the chemical forms, allowing the other colorful pigments to take over.

Kensington Nature Centers feature seasonal exhibits

Fall is one of the most popular seasons at the nature study area of Kensington Metropark near Milford. Both the nature study building and trails are open year-around.

The nature center building features seasonal exhibits. Naturalists are on duty to answer questions or explain special features. Visitor hours are 10 a.m. to p.m. weekends and Monday rough Friday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. ornings are reserved for school oups during the school year

Four nature trails, from a half le to two miles in length are elled for self-guided hikes. Trail rs are daylight to dusk. Canada e inhabit Kingfisher Lagoon and welcome snacks from visitors.

Persons visiting the nature study area are prohibited from collecting flowers, leaves, rocks or animals. Family pets and picnicking are not permited in the nature study ares. However, there usually is a designated picnic site near the nature study area to accommodate school groups.

Special guided nature hikes are available to the general public on specific dates. For additional information call 685-1561 (Milford exchange) and ask for the nature center.

Metropark vehicle entry permits — annual regular, $5; senior citizen, $1, or daily, $1 — are required.

Canoe trips for rent

Fall rental hours now are in effect for canoe rental service for Hudson Mills and Delhi metroparks, located northwest of Ann Arbor near Dexter.

Skip's Huron River Canoe Livery, located at Delhi Metropark is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekends this fall

Rates are $10.50 at Hudson Mills to Delhi and $6.50 at Dexter to Delhi.

Gary Bartsch, park manager, said recently low water along the Huron River from Portage Lake to the Ann Arbor area has prevented canoe rentals on a temporary basis.

Therefore, persons are advised to make advance reservations for canoe rental service and get current information on water levels by contacting Skip's Canoe Rentals at (313) 769-8686.

The Hudson Mills Metropark phone is (313) 426-8211.

Should attract new interest

Inkster's Industrial Acres receives an 'A' rating

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

In days to come, Inkster officials may well circle September 26, 1978 on the calendar and mark it as a red-letter day in the overall industrial development of the city.

Because a major goal was achieved Tuesday when the state gave Inkster's Industrial Acres Subdivision a Class A rating.

A team comprised of two members of the Michigan Professional Development Association and one representative of the state's Office of Economic Expansion reviewed and made an on-site inspection of the industrial park at Henry Ruff Road and Penn Central Railroad.

"Now that Inkster has a Class A Industrial Park, it will attract much new industry," said Charles W. Hazen, industry representative for the Michigan Department of Commerce.

"The money that the city spent to put in these facilities will entice industries for a much-needed tax-base and also provide new jobs."

Hazen said that quite a bit of interest has been generated since the development of the park the past two months. "Within one year, I believe several industries will be in."

Joining Hazen on his inspection tour were Inkster Mayor Terrel LeCesne, City Treasurer Bruce Cook, George Lloyd, site location consultant for Detroit Edison; Ernest Maddock, manager real estate, for Campbell Development Co., and Elon Mickels, a city planner whose firm was hired in Janurary to made towards industrial and other develop new industrial and commercial ventures in Inkster.

Mayor LeCesne, who met with the review team prior to the land's certification as a Class A industrial park, was very optimistic about the city's future.

"Significant progress has been economic development of the city," he said. "This site is a major industrial location in Inkster and its development will serve as a stimulus to other industrial developers.

"The development of the parcel will strengthen the tax base and ease the burden for homeowners," LeCesne said.

The City of Inkster bought the 45-acre parcel of land from Wayne County on July 27, 1973 to develop as an industrial park. The city invested $400,000 into improvements in water, sewers and roadways to make the parcel attractive to industry.

Tuesday's certification will go a long way toward luring industries to the city. Inkster's industrial park scored 88.5 points out of a total possible number of 100 for its Class A rating.

Industrial developers have long since recognized the need for uniformity in use of the term "industrial park". The term designates certain kinds of districts or subdivisions set aside for sites to be occupied by groups of industrial facilities.

However, areas designated by tdhe name range from the highly sophisticated, organized industrial district, to an isolated dornfield completely lacking in basic services and amenities.

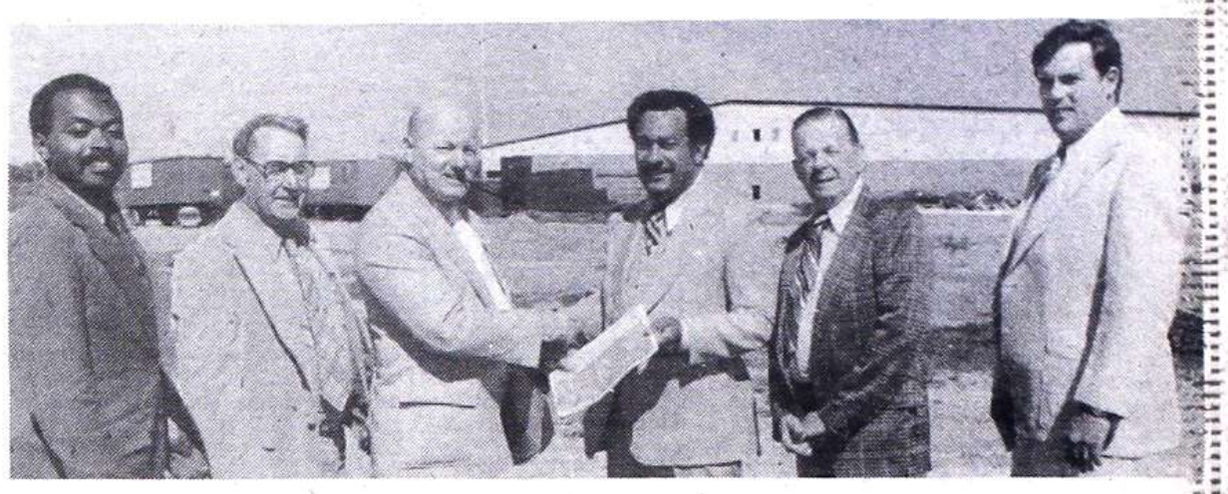
To give prospective occupants a better idea of what they can expect to find in an industrial park and assure them of high quality site characteristics and services, Michigan Department of Commerce has adopted a set of standards for qualified developments to be known as "Certified Industrial Parks".

To be eligible for state certification, an industrial park must meet the following basic requirements: 1) Minimum size of 40 acres; 2) Zoned for industrial use; 3) Have both external and internal paved streets; and 4) Have water and sanitary sewer installed.

Only a handful of cities in Western Wayne County have certified industrial parks. These include Wayne, two in Romulus, Canton, Taylor, Livonia and Dearborn.

Inkster's Industrial Park will now be promoted internationally through the Michigan Department of Commerce, which retains offices as far away as Brussels, Belgium.

In addition, Elon Mickels and Associates plan an aggressive promotional program toward industries most likely to be interested in Inkster's unique characteristics.



'A' rating

city officials were very happy when Inkster's industrial park was certified Class "A" by the state of Michigan Tuesday afternoon. Only a few cities in Western Wayne County have industrial parks certified by the state. Industrial Acres Subdivision, Henry Ruff Road at Penn Central Railroad, was given top rating when state officials reviewed its qualifications and made an on-site inspection. On hand for the historic moment in Inkster were Fred Huson, representative of Elon Mickels and Associates (from left); Bruce Cook, Inkster treasurer; Charles W. Hazen, industry representative of Michigan Department of Commerce congratulating Inkster Mayor Terrel LeCesne; George Lloyd, site location consultant for Detroit Edison; and Earnest Maddock, real estate manager for H.F. Campbell Development Co. LeCesne and Cook voiced optimisim that state certification of the industrial park would attract industries to give the city a strong tax base. — ANP photo.

Vet's book recorded

The Veterans Administration's basic booklet on veterans' benefits has been recorded on cassette tapes for use by the blind. The tapes are the work of the Blinded Veterans Association (BVA).

Two cassettes cover VA benefits for former servicemen and women and their dependents or survivors.

They are available to blind veterans on request by writing the Association at 1735 DeSales St., N.W., Washington, D.C., 20036, or by calling (202) 347-4010.

Sets of the cassettes have been sent to VA counselors who work with the blind and also were distributed to Blinded Veterans Association members at their recent annual convention.

BVA field director Charles H. Moore, Jr. said the cassettes contain "sic hours of information on VA benefits for blinded veterans, including compensation, pension, education and medical benefits."

The booklet from which the tapes were made, "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents", can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.D., 20402, orthe Consumer Information Center, Department 0297, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. The price is $1.

Heart line

Never been so scared

"I was scared, let me tell you. I'd never been so scared in my life. But I didn't really have any choice. I was all alone with him, and nobody else was around to help."

That's Johnny J. talking. Sixteen years old, wearing a Star Wars - shirt and frayed blue jeans—your typical American teen-ager—talking about saving his father's life.

"I didn't know if I could do it. But like I said, you don't have a lot of choice at a time like that."

"We'd gone up to the cottage, just the two of us, and we were having a great weekend together. We'd taken care of a lot of little jobs that needed to be done, and we were just getting ready to cut down some dead trees—when all of a sudden, he just sort of grabs his chest and keels right over.

"I remember yelling, 'Dad, are you okay—what's the matter?' And he didn't answer. I got down over him. He wasn't breathing. I felt for his pulse and couldn't feel that either.

"All I could think of was 'This is it. I wonder if I can do it?'

"See, last year in school, in our health class, we took a CPR course. It was taught by a fire department paramedic.

"We had a movie, got some literature from the Heart Association and even practiced on manikins. We had to do chest compression and breathing and everything.

I passed the course with no problem. Even got a wallet card from the Heart Association that says I know how to do it..."

At this point Johnny pulled out his wallet card and displayed it.

"But when it comes right down to doing it on a human being—your own father, for heaven's sake—that's something else again.

"I didn't know if I was going to remember everything you're supposed to do, like checking the person's eyes and stuff. But you haven't got time to ask yourself a lot of questions when something like that happens."

Johnny had remembered the most crucial fact of all. When someone has a heart attack, stops breathing and loses consciousness, brain cells begin dying within four to six minutes. Prompt action must be taken in order to avoid permanent brain damage.

Johnny continued his story: "So I just thought, 'Help or no help, right or wrong, I've got to do it.'" So I tipped his head back to open his airway. He didn't start breathing on his own again and I still couldn't feel his pulse. So I gave him the four quick breaths and started on the chest massage. All this time I was wondering if I was doing things right.

"It seemed like I did it for an awful long time, when finally I heard a truck coming down the road. I stopped just long enough to yell for help. Thank God they heard me. They called the sheriff's office and an ambulance came. I kept up the CPR till they came and took my dad to the hospital in town. He was there for about two weeks before he came home."

Johnny's father had had a heart attack. Doctors at the hospital he was taken to say he would not be alive today except for Johnny's prompt action.

The method Johnny used when his father collapsed—cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR)—can be taught to just about anyone. Last year the Michigan Heart Association's CPR instructors taught it to more than 90,000 people including physicians, nurses, firemen and policemen—and students like Johnny J.

If you would like to learn CPR, call any office of the Michigan Heart Association. They'll tell you when a class is being planned, or can arrange a class for your club or organization.

FASCINATING SAN JUAN

San Juan has no language barriers nor does it present any monetary exchange to worry about. The beaches are palm-fringed and both the big-spender or budgeteer can find his level in Puerto Rico. The Old City of San Juan is charmingly storybook for the wanderer on foot. The Spanish streets of blue cobblestones, lacy ironwork on facades, a true reminder of the days of its first governor Ponce de Leon who you probably remember best for his fruitless search in Florida for the fountain of youth.

The chief tourist attraction of Old San Juan is El Morro, the great fortress which the Spanish constructed at the northwest tip of the city in 1539. It covers more than 200 square acres, and rises 145 feet above the Atlantic.

If you plan to spend some time in San Juan, it's a good idea to rent a car. Then you can get the real feel of island life with a 3-day motor trip round the island with its green sugar cane, white birds, and mile after mile of exciting mountain driving. People who live in San Juan call this kind of exploring "out on the island" and everyone enjoys it.

Award winning series to begin its third season

"Visions," the Peabody Award-winning series of original television drama that showcases the talents of American writers of all ethnic backgrounds, begins its third season Oct. 9 at 9 p.m. on Channel 56.

The opening program is a dramatization of the life of America's oldest living citizen entitled "Charlie Smith and the Fritter Tree." Charlie Smith is a 135-year-old former slave who, as a boy, was coaxed aboard a slave ship with the promise of corn fritter trees. It stags Glynn Turman, who is Aretha Franklin's husband.

In the play, Charlies is bought by a Texas rancher and begins to live the life of a cowboy. Then, following the Civil War, he leads a rambunctious life as a cattle driver and saloon keeper, eventually outliving all the moralists and preachers who called him foolish.

Author-novelist Charles Johnson describes the film as "a meditation on longevity, on being black for more than a hundred years and on being one of life's privileged children." The story ends with the real Charlie Smith celebrating his 135th birthday in Bartow, Fla.

Other upcoming shows on "Visions" will include "Escape," a psychological absurdist play by Jonathon Reynolds; "Fans of the Kosko Show," the story of a young disc jockey's encounters with the drug culture and criminal underworld; and "Blessings," a touching tale of a Jewish mother on welfare who defies all logic to give her son a grand Bar Mitzvah.

Sit down to a fish dinner

There is nothing better than sitting down to a fine meal consisting of fresh fish and mixed vegetables. If you are a hearty outdoorsman or wife of a fisherman, and often find yourself preparing your own fish, this article will be of special interest to you.

Did you know that fish will spoil more rapidly than any other protein food? Nothing tastes worse than spoiled fish. So, to maintain high quality, fish must be processed rapidly.

Fish spoilage or decomposition occurs in two ways. First, bacterial decomposition is caused by bacteria which digests the fish flesh. When a fish dies, unless put on ice immediately and handled properly, bacterial decomposition will set in and quickly spoil the fish. The second type of spoilage, enzymatic decomposition, is the softening of flesh by enzymes. The best way to prevent your fish spoiling is to follow the proper methods for cleaning, storing and preparing the fish.

There are other ways to preserve your fish. Canning is more time consuming than freezing but the product can be stored on the shelf for many months. If you decide on this method, the fish must be pressure canned for safety.

The salting method, removes water and preserves the fish by increasing the salt to such an extent that many bacteria will not grow. Salted fish require freshening before eating.

Pickling, produces a very flavorful fish product which will keep for several weeks in the refrigerator. Pickled fish can be eaten without further preparation.

Use the method which will produce the desired taste you and your family like. The above are all good forms of fish preservation and will keep your fish from spoiling. If you would like more information about keeping fish fresh, contact your local home economist.

Applications currently are being accepted by Communities United For Action Inc. (CUFA) for its Graduation Equivilancy Diploma class and Civil Service examination preparation classes.

The classes are open to anyone who isn't currently enrolled in school and lives in Wayne County, excluding residents of Detroit, Livonia and Dearborn.

The classes will structured so that all participants, who are at different levels of achievement, will be able to work at their own speed. The classes also will be small and will be taught in a personal manner by certified instructors.

To apply for the two programs, stop in at one of CUFA's offices. Area units are located at 23501 Sumpter Road, Sumpter Township; 29150 Carlysle, Inkster; 27206 Eureka, Taylor; and its central office at 23900 Goddard Road.

Days-of-old

Children of the 5th grade class at Harrison School, recreated a bit of the glamour of the good-old-days, last week. Mrs. Geraldine Croft and her students returned to the days gone by with fashions of the period. Joining Mrs. Croft in the classroom fashion show, were Sheri Smith, 7, Randy Demmy, 7, and Jennifer Ruthoske, 7.

The Bible has the answer

The following question-and-answer column is supplied by The Rev. Ronald Elie, pastor of Zion Missionary Church of Belleville. Those readers with questions for the pastor can contact him at Zion Missionary Church, 89 Edgemont, Belleville, 48111.

Dear Pastor Elie,

We have just lost our little one year old. She died, and we had loved her so very much. We have heard that babies who die will go to Heaven. Does the Bible teach this? How can I be sure to see her again?

Searching Sue,
Ypsilanti

Dear Searching Sue,

The Bible has the answer. The Bible tells of wicked King Harod slaying all the babies in Bethlehem who were two years old or younger. (Read Matt. 2:16-18). You see, the Old Testament had foretold this tragic and cruel incident, and God told the mothers to stop crying because their children would one day come back to them. "Refrain thy voice from weeping . . . they (the slain children) shall come again from the land of the enemy . . . Thy children shall come again to their own border." Jeremiah 31:16, 17.

But remember, Sue, no one can see their children in Heaven unless they too are going to Heaven. To get saved, the Bible teaches, one must repent of their sins and ask the Lord to forgive them, and receive Jesus into their heart and life. This is done by a simple act of faith. Sue, I take it you want to see your baby again. Then make sure you are ready for Heaven. It only takes a simple prayer of faith, and God will leave you with such a peace through His Holy Spirit that you will know that some day you will join your baby in Heaven.

Your Pastor

Car thefts, an enormous cost to society, are avoidable

Every 32 seconds a car is stolen somewhere in the United States resulting in the theft of nearly one million cars annually, according to the National Auto Theft Bureau (NATB).

Many of these thefts can be prevented.

The enormous cost to society has been estimated to be as much as $1.6 billion. In addition to the cost and the personal inconvenience, stolen cars are 200 times more likely to become involved in a serious accident.

Basically, there are two types of auto thieves. Amateurs usually steal a car for joyriding and then abandon it after a few hours, sometimes after stripping it of tires and accessories.

Professionals make a living stealing cars. They account for most of the cars that are stolen and not recovered. These cars are taken to so-called "chop-shops" where they are dismantled for their major parts that don't carry identification numbers. Law enforcement authorities with help from insurance companies, trade associations and private citizens seek out and shut down these illegal operations.

Some professional thieves steal for "customers" who want a specific model car and may even have pointed out the car desired. If you live in one of the large metropolitan areas, your car may be singled out for theft.

Can you prevent auto theft? Yes, you can discourage thieves by making your car more difficult to steal.

The first and most obvious precaution is to remove the key from the ignition, since convicted thieves report that keys left in the ignition accounted for nearly one in five cars they stole.

The last thing a car thief wants to do is to attract attention on the job. He would be a lot more noticeable trying to jimmy a lock than seated at the wheel of a car that already was open. So one of the most effective security measures car owners can adopt is to lock their cars everytime they leave them. Make sure the car doors are locked, and all windows are secured, even when the car is parked in your own driveway. This will discourage amateurs and cause a professional to decide it is not worth the extra time and risk to force an entry.

If you do not feel secure without a spare key, keep it with you, not in the car in one of those "secret" hiding places under the floor mat, under the seat, or in the ash tray. The first thing a thief does when he gets into a car is to check the usual hiding places for a key.

Always park in populated, well lighted areas. The presence of a number of people gives a thief second thoughts, since he cannot know if one of them is the owner.

Park only in attended parking lots, if possible. Leave only the ignition key with the attendant and take your trunk key with you. Make sure that your key number does not appear on the key you leave.

Install an anti-theft device. Activated alarm systems will scare off amateur and professional thieves alike, since they don't want attention drawn to their activities.

Don't leave registration papers in the car unless it is required by law.

6A3. Motion by Cantrell, supported by McAnally, to adopt Resolution 78-462

RESOLUTION 78-462

WHEREAS: The Urban Renewal close-out activities are completed. As a result of the close-out activity, the City of Romulus is now the sole owner of 258 lots; and

WHEREAS: The Urban Renewal plan anticipated that these lots would be developed and the City would have 258 home owners paying taxes to the City of Romulus; and

WHEREAS: It is still the intent that this project be completed and to this end the City of Romulus has made an Innovative Grant Application designed to accomplish the marketing of this property, designated as Romulus Estates.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the City Council of the City of Romulus does herewith authorize the sale of all properties situated in the Romulus Estates. Said sale shall be at market value as established by the City Assessor and conducted in accordance with the rules and regulations as established by the Romulus City Charter.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Raspberry, Canejo, Block, McAnally, Carter, Cantrell, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

78-463

8A. Motion by McAnally, supported by Cantrell, to adopt Resolution 78-463.

RESOLUTION 78-463

WHEREAS: The City of Romulus, by Resolution 77-744, adopted December 6, 1977, established an Industrial Development District pursuant to Public Act 198 of 1974, as amended; and

WHEREAS: Haven Industries, Incorporated on February 14, 1978, filed an application requesting approval of an Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate, within the Industrial Development District, described as:

Lot 23 and W 100 ft. of Lot 24, Scherers Victory Garden Subdivision. T3S R9E, as recorded in Liber 69, Page 58, Wayne County Records.

pursuant to Public Act 198, Michigan Acts of 1974, as amended; and

WHEREAS: Said application conforms to all requirements set forth in Section 5, Subsection 1, of Act 198 of 1974, as amended, and meets all requirements prescribed by the State Tax Commission; and

WHEREAS: The City Council of the City of Romulus has completed a thorough investigation designed to determine the feasibility, acceptability, and legality of its methods of proceeding and on the proposed action based on the provisions of Public Act 198 of 1974, as amended, and have found all matters to be proper and in accordance with the requirements set forth in Act 198 of 1974, as amended; and

WHEREAS: The legislative body of each governmental unit which levied ad valorem taxes on said property has been afforded an opportunity to be heard on this matter at a Public Hearing held June 27, 1978.

WHEREAS: The Wayne County Board of Commissioners, the Wayne County Intermediate School District, the Romulus Board of Education and the City Assessor did not advise the City of Romulus of any objections to the City Council of the City of Romulus approving the application; and

WHEREAS: The City Council of the City of Romulus, by its independent investigation, has determined that the approval of the application will be beneficial to the City of Romulus and that Industrial Exemption Certificates for an amount exceeding the five percent (5 percent) limitation found in Section 9, Subsection 1, Subsection f, of Act 198 of 1974, as amended, would not have the effect of substantially impeding the operation of local government or impairing the financial soundness of any unit levying valorem tax within the City of Romulus on June 27, 1978.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: By the City Council of the City of Romulus pursuant to the authority vested therein by Public Act 198 of 1974, as amended, does herewith grant approval for Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate to Haven Industries, Incorporated, as requested in its application filed with the City of Romulus on February 14, 1978.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the limitation regarding the aggregate state equalized value found in Section 9, Subsection 1, Subsection f, of Act 198 of 1974, as amended, is hereby waived; and the City Clerk is hereby directed to forward a copy of the application of Haven Industries, Incorporated, for the Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate, together with a true copy of this resolution approving same, to the State Tax Commission of the State of Michigan for its consideration.

be and is hereby, declared to constitute an immediate threat to the health, safety and welfare of the citizens of the City of Romulus, creating a state of emergency with respect to all things relating thereto.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That a demolition hearing be scheduled for October 3, 1978 at 7:00 p.m. in the Romulus City Council Chambers, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan, to afford the beneficial owners and opportunity to establish why said property should not be demolished immediately by the City and same be assessed to the property tax.

BE IT FINALLY RESOLVED: That the Clerk of the City of Romulus is hereby directed to notify all owners of record of said hearing.

Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Raspberry, Canejo, Block, McAnally, Carter, Cantrell, Nays - None. Motion carried unanimously.

11. Motion by McAnally, supported by Cantrell, to adjourn the meeting. Roll call vote showing: Ayes - Raspberry, Canejo, Block, McAnally, Carter, Cantrell, Banks. Nays - None. Motion carrried unanimously.

Respectfully submitted,
Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk
City of Romulus

I, Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk of the City of Romulus, do hereby certify the above to be a true copy of the Minutes of the Regular meeting of the Romulus City Council, held on the 5th day of September, 1978.

Michigan Bell proposes rate revision

Michigan Bell has proposed revising rates for extension telephones, Touch-Tone calling and several other services to simplify charges and relate them more closely to their actual costs.

Donald M. Lambe, Michigan Bell assistant vice-president, said the proposal was not designed to increase company revenues.

"The overall revenue effect would be a wash because increases in charges for some services would be offset by decreases in charges for others," he said.

The proposal, filed with the Public Service Commission in Lansing, would break monthly residence extension rates into separate inside wiring and instrument charges, Lambe said.

Customers would be charged a 35-cent monthly inside wiring charge per extension plus a separate rate for each residence extension telephone provided by Michigan Bell. These rates would differ for various telephone models such as Princess, Trimline and Touch-Tone phones.

The company's proposal also calls for revised rates for residence and business Touch-Tone service.

Residence customers would continue to receive a standard rotary telephone at no additional charge as part of basic residence service. Under the proposal, the credit for customers who provide their own main telephones would be increased from 60 to 75 cents a month.

"There would be little change in the vast majority of customers' monthly bills," Lambe said.

In Detroit, for example, a residence customer with one-party flat rate service with one standard rotary telephone now pays $8.34 a month. This would remain unchanged. A residence customer with one-party flat rate service with Touch-Tone calling and one standard Touch-Tone phone now pays $10.24 a month. This customer's bill would be reduced 35 cents to $9.89 a month.

A residence customer with one-party flat rate service with Touch-Tone calling and two standard Touch-Tone phones now pays $11.37 a month. This customer's bill would be increased 47 cents to $11.84 a month.

A customer with one-party flat rate service who provides his own telephone now pays $7.74 a month. Under the proposal, this customer would pay $7.59 a month, or 15 cents less for basic service.

Over 200 "mock" victims, mostly young high school students and some parents from school districts around the area of Detroit Metropolitan Airport, received quick emergency treatment at the scene of a simulated crash-fire of a jetliner landing at Metro. Emergency medical teams from the Metro Airport Fire Department, rendered nearly immediate first aid while alerted rescue-medical teams from nearly a dozen local communities responded to the mock disaster scene last Saturday. The "victims" were transported to the emergency rooms of 11 local hospitals — some by ambulance and others, by military helicopters to Ann Arbor.

Detroit's Hayden featured

America's recent "poet laureate" and native Detroiter Robert Hayden, paints a poetic picture of his old neighborhood in its heyday in a special produced by Channel 56, "Detroit's Hayden: America's Poet Laureate," airing Oct. 11 at 10:30 p.m.

Hayden recently stepped down from his position as consultant in poetry at the Library of Congress (our nation's poet laureate) and returned to a teaching position at the University of Michigan.

He met with Channel 56's Ron Scott during a visit to Detroit to take a walking tour through his old Detroit neighborhood on Beacon St. near St. Antoine, talk about and read some of his award-winning poetry, and throw light on himself as a man and an artist.

Hayden grew up in Detroit during the early 1900s, '20s and '30s when St. Antoine was considered a "main street" for black Detroiters and was very much alive with a variety of characters. These characters—people like Bessie Smith and Billie Holiday, church goers, gamblers and prizefighters like Tiger Flowers—have found their places in Hayden's poetry.

On the walking tour, Hayden describes the St. Antoine of yesteryear, an area which produced a poet who attained the highest honor our country could bestow.

Village's Fall evening

Greenfield Village's "Village Fall Evening" dinner-tour offers a look at the cloth manufacture of our yesterdays—or rather our prepolyester days—when cloth-making techniques of weaving and spinning were crafts and not chemistry.

On selected evenings until Nov. 30, groups and individuals can have a dinner in Clinton Inn, an early 19th century stagecoach stop, and then tour craft buildings for a close look at various types and stages of textile production.

There will be wool spinning at the Plymouth Carding Mill and the operations of a hand loom at the Gardner House.

Individuals and groups can sign up for Saturdays and Sundays through Oct. 15; groups of 60 or more can be accommodated on other evenings. For more information, call the Travel and Convention Department, Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, at 271-1620, ext. 416.

Bob Hoeft, Jan Young marry in home ceremony Sept. 16

Wedding vows between Janice Young of Newport and Robert W. Hoeft of Belleville were solemnized Sept. 16 at a ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton L. Poupard of 716 Cass, Monroe.

The Rev. Joe Maxfield presided at the six o'clock ceremony before some 75 close friends and relatives. An arrangement of blue and white carnations and a unity candle adorned the fireplace for the occasion.

Musical selections were played by Clayton M. Poupard on the guitar and sung by Marty Haynes.

The bride carried a white Bible covered with orchids, white roses and baby's breath, a gift of her parents, as she walked down the long stairway with her stepfather. Her evening-length gown of powder blue jersey was designed in the blouson mode with a braided oval neckline, elbow-length sleeves and soft full skirt. In lieu of a veil she wore a rose and baby's breath in her hair.

As her sister's honor attendant, Mrs. James (Dianne) Crull donned a green jersey gown cut in evening length and carried a single long-stemmed white rose and baby's breath.

The bridegroom, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hoeft of 133 Wabash St., Belleville, asked his longtime friend, Tom Golka of Manchester, to serve as best man.

At the reception which followed in the garden and on the lawn of the bride's parents' home, some 125 guests were greeted by Mrs. Poupard in a wine-colored qiana dress in calf-length. Her white orchid was worn on her wrist. Mrs. Hoeft, the bridegroom's mother, donned a calf-length frock of rose-beige floral nylon with a companion jacket to which she pinned her pink orchid.

The young couple's wedding trip westward to Colorado and Nevada included a visit with Bob's newly wed brother and wife, Ron and Pat Hoeft, in Arizona. The young couple are now at home in Newport.

A graduate of Monroe High School, the bride attended Monroe County Community College and is now an administrative assistant at the Erie State Bank in Monroe.

Her husband, a 2-year veteran of the Vietnam conflict, graduated from Belleville High School and is co-owner of Casual Toggery Stores in Taylor and Monroe.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the bride's parents, was held at the Little Dixie Restaurant.

Stork shower given for Jean Hill

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Several cute stuffed animals, soft downy comforters, a stroller, walker, highchair and wee snowsuit are just a few of the pink and blue items helping to fill the waiting nursery at Greg and Jean Hill's new home in Midland.

In honor of the pending arrival of their first-born, guests gathered Saturday afternoon, Sept. 23, for a shower honoring the mother-to-be. Some 20 relatives and friends arrived from Hanover Park, Ill., Plymouth, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Brooklyn, Romulus, Milan and Belleville for the one o'clock punch and hors d'oeuvres party held at the home of the Arthur Hills on Van Allen Drive.

Co-hostesses were Diane Bodenmiller of Hanover Park, Ill., Betty Sanders of Plymouth and Laurie Hill of Belleville. Several baby theme games resulted in prizes for Alice Bitnar of Ypsilanti and Flo Hudge of Belleville with Mary Anne Hudge of Ann Arbor winning the house prize.

After the gift presentation the group enjoyed a frozen dessert served at blue and pink covered tables. Other decorative touches included matching streamers and balloons, tall candles and a teddy bear centerpiece.

Andrea Lynn is christened

The First United Methodist Church of Belleville was the setting Sunday, Sept. 24, for the christening of Andrea Lynn Owen, the 6-months-old daughter of Krik and Paula Owen of Charleston, S.C..

The Rev. George Q. Woomer came from Chelsea to preside along with The Rev. Joy Arthur at the noon ceremony. The infant's grandparents, Art and Imogene Pence and Wes and Clara Owen, presented the baby in baptism.

A host of relatives, who'd come from Pontiac, Mt. Pleasant, Alpena, Detroit, Taylor, Ann Arbor and Belleville, included Andrea's two great-grandmothers, Mrs. Clara Kremer of St. Petersburg, Fla. and Mrs. Evelyn Owen of Wyandotte.

The Pences later entertained at a buffet dinner on the lawn of their home on Ayres Road. Their daughter, Jill, assisted throughout the afternoon.

The new father, a chief petty officer with the U.S. Naval Submarine Service, and his wife have returned to the East Coast after a two weeks leave with local relatives.

Drysdales say 'bye' to Belleville

As of October 2, the Drysdales — Bob and Maryann — are (officially) no longer residents of the Belleville area. But just because they've made that big move to the Sunshine State doesn't mean they can't be honorary members of the community. We know they'd be welcomed back anytime, anywhere by those who've grown to kinda like them.

After nearly a quarter century (24 years to be exact) in Belleville, the Drysdales have taken up residence at 2673 Osaka Drive — in the Japanese Gardens Mobile Park — at Tampa Bay, Fla. (zip 33520 for those who'll want to write.)

Bob, whose face was a familiar part of Belleville's Main Street when he operated the Gamble's Store, has been retired since 1972. His wife, who was equally familiar to those at Belleville High School (where she headed the English Department) decided not to delay her retirement. She joined her husband that same year for the "golden years" routine which, we know, was anything but relaxed and leisurely.

Here's to many years of sunshine and contentment in that new southern "pad".

On 50th anniversary

Mass, reception honor Gorneys

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD C. GORNEY

The 50th anniversary of their marriage was celebrated Sunday, Sept. 24, by Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Gorney of Hudson, Fla., one-time residents of the Belleville area.

With their nine children as hosts and hostesses for the day, the couple was honored at a mass of thanksgiving at St. Anthony's Church in Temperance. A former Temperance man and friend of the Gorneys, The Rev. Dan Nusbaum, came from Emmitsburg, Md. (where he is on the professorial staff at Mount St. Mary's College) to preside at the 12:30 rite.

The couple renewed their wedding vows and exchanged rings before an altar banked with yellow and white mums and lighted tapers. At the offertory each of the Gorney offspring and their families placed single long-stemmed yellow roses in two golden vases which flanked the aisle.

Following the service, the jubilarians received some 300 relatives and friends at a reception and dinner-dance in the church hall. Guests from Okeechobie, Fla., Toldeo and Sylvania, Ohio; Houghton Lake, Caseville, Almont, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Samaria, Temperance, Elmira, Alanson, Romulus and Belleville were registered in the guest book.

For her special day, the "bride" donned a long yellow chiffon gown with a sheer overcape. Her corsage of yellow rosebuds was pinned at the shoulder. Her husband wore a single yellow rosebud in his lapel.

A 5-tiered wedding cake adorned in gold and centered with a lighted fountain was served following the buffet dinner. Another cake was made by the couple's son-in-law, Rudolph Burgherr of Alanson, who received his pastry chef's training in Switzerland. It featured (in individual sections) the names and birth dates of each child born to the honored couple with the added notation to his wife's reading, "and Mary, the sweetest of them all."

The couple's eldest son, Richard, presented the champange toast and Fr. Nusbaum offered the blessing.

The only member of the original wedding party present was Alfred Chudzinski of Belleville who had served as an usher when his sister, Virginia, was married on Sept. 28, 1928 at St. Anthony's Church in Belleville.

After their marriage the Gorneys resided on Savage Road where seven of their 10 children were born. They later went into the grocery business at the corner of Willis and Rawsonville Roads and then moved to Temperance where they purchased their own store which was in operation for some 12 years.

Following their semi-retirement, they changed their address to Gaylord where they resided until retiring to Florida in 1974.

The Gorney family tree includes 10 children: Jerome, deceased; Richard of Sylvania, Ohio; Kenneth of Okeechobie, Fla.; Mrs. Frank (Barbara) Gotha and Mrs. Ray (Kay) Shepherd of Temperance; Ronald of Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. Ralph (Patti) Robarge and David of Elmira; James of Toledo, Ohio; and Mrs. Rudolph (Mary Claire) Burgherr of Alanson.

There are also 34 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren who helped make the golden wedding day one long to be remembered.

Rotary announces dinner-dance date

Club President Robert Baker announces that the Belleville Rotary Club will present its 6th Annual Harvest Dinner-Dance Nov. 4 at Local 157 Hall, 29841 Van Born Road, west of Middlebelt. The evening will start with a cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m. and buffet dinner at 7:45. The menu will highlight a choice of three meats, vegetable, salad, dessert and beverage.

Dancing to the music of the Zug Island All Stars will take place from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. with the bar being open throughout the evening.

Tickets are $15 per person and may be purchased from any Rotarian.

In conjunction with the evening activities, a door prize drawing will take place and a lucky couple will walk away with a free mini-weekend at a local inn.

Local 157 Hall at 29841 Van Born Road, west of Middlebelt, has been reserved for the occasion.

Activities set for September Days seniors

A free preventive health screening will be available to members of the September Days Senior Citizen Center tomorrow—Thursday, Oct. 5—from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Van Buren Township Hall on Tyler Road.

The screening, consisting of a check of both weight and blood pressure, as well as a urinalysis, is available to September Days Seniors on the first Thursday of each month.

"It's very important that seniors come each month," urged Virginia Melcher, director of the center," so that findings can be identified and any problem brought to the attention of that person's doctor."

September Days Senior bowlers will meet at Lodge Lanes Friday morning, Oct. 6th, to begin, the new mixed league season.

The first session will begin at 9 a.m., according to Emma Sala, league secretary. Thereafter, bowling will start at 9:30 a.m. every Friday morning.

Lodge Lanes will furnish shoes free of charge to senior bowlers.

Senior Center students interested in learning more about art and leathercraft techniques are urged to meet each Friday at 1 p.m. in the Van Buren Township Senior Center on Tyler Road.

Art students, taught by Garnett Zilka, are presently working with charcoal and the basis of perspective in painting.

Shirley Strochine urges more seniors to take advantage of her leathercraft class, which also meets at 1 p.m. every Friday.

Both classes are free of charge.

Senior citizens will be displaying and selling useful and beautiful handcrafted articles and art pieces at the Parks and Recreation Art Fair Oct. 28 and 29 at the Van Buren Township Center.

Why not plan to get a head start on your Christmas shopping at the Art Fair?

September Days Senior Citizens are planning their first party to be held Oct. 31 in the newly completed Van Buren Township Recreation Center on Tyler Road.

This will be a Halloween costume party, from 1 to 6 p.m. with prizes for the best costume and cider and donuts for all. The Center will furnish meat for the luncheon and members are asked to donate their favorite paty dish.

Space is limited, so phone in your reservation now to 699-7474.

September Days members must show their membership cards to get in. Guests may join the party for a $2.50 donation.

Wright on! It's a boy — the first in 25 years

There are new sounds being heard these early autumn days at the home of Bill and Deanna Wright in Canton — those of their new son, Nicholas Keith, who put in an appearance Sept. 20 at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti.

Nicholas, who was an 8:21 p.m. delivery, tipped the scales at nine pounds and measured 22 inches.

The young Wrights are justifyably proud to have produced the first male heir in the family in a quarter of a century. Sharing their pride are their three daughters, Kimberley, nine; Melissa, seven; and Billie, two.

Grandparents spreading the news are Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Wright of Lexington, Ky. and Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Green of Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Troy Ford of Belleville are the baby's great-grandparents.

Check your pressure

Everyone has blood pressure. Without it, blood couldn't circulate through your body.

In all human beings, blood pressure varies from day to day. It goes up when you become excited and down when you are calm or at rest. These changes are normal, but when your blood pressure becomes higher than it should be, it can lead to a stroke, kidney failure or a heart attack.

The volunteer nurses of the Michigan Heart Association's Western Wayne County Heart Unit are serving area residents through their hypertension screening and detection program. Every Monday, these nurses take blood pressure readings and answer any questions the public poses on the subject.

For a free blood pressure reading, visit the Western Wayne County Unit between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. The area's heart center is located in the Wonderland Shopping Center, 29987 Plymouth Road at Middlebelt Road in Livonia, or call 425-2333.

The Kiwanis Club of Belleville, the Van Buren Department of Parks and Recreation and the September Days Senior Citizens Center have combined efforts to bring a merchant discount plan to the senior citizens of the townships of Van Buren, Huron and Sumpter, as well as the cities of Belleville, New Boston and Waltz.

A photographic ID card and directory of merchants will be available to all residents who are not working full time and who are aged 60 or more on Tuesday, Oct. 10, at the Van Buren Township Hall, 46425 Tyler Road, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Bring proof of age (driver's license) and social security number. A dollar is asked to cover costs. For further information call 699-7474.

Toronto, Niagara Falls trip follows Meier-Spino vows

A honeymoon trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, Canada, followed the recent marriage of Debra Spino of Belleville and Wayne C. Meier of Ypsilanti. St. John's Catholic Church in Ypsilanti was the setting for the summer ceremony at which The Rev. David Harvey presided.

The six o'clock rite united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Spino of 14260 Haggerty Rd., Belleville and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Meier of 3665 Cloverlawn, Ypsilanti.

Organ music for the occasion was played by Mel Light with Mrs. Ruth Lorenz as soloist.

For the double ring ceremony the bride chose a toe-touching bouffant skirt comprised of tiers of lace which fell into a chapel train. Fashioned of organza over satin, the dress featured a boat neckline with a cape collar effect of rosepoint lace dropping to the waist at the back.

A little cap studded with seed pearls held her fingertip veil which was edged with handclipped lace. Completing her bridal ensemble was a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis, all in silk, made by Mrs. Myrtle Wells of Belleville.

Six attendants preceded the bride and her father up the white carpeted aisle. Heading the bridal coterie was Linda Spino of Belleville, the bride's sister, who donned a powder blue frock with a floral chiffon overdress fashioned with a tiered A-line skirt and cape effect aththe bodice. Her white picture hat was sashed in blue and her bouquet was made up of blue and white silk carnations and white silk roses.

Claire Steinman of Belleville; Marlaine Meier, the bridegroom's sister from Minneapolis, Minn.; Cheri Riefel of Mt. Pleasant; Karen Spino, the bride's cousin from St. Claire Shores, and Cindy Hammond of Belleville were bridesmaids. Their white nylon dresses were covered with a blue print overlay in the same style as the honor maid's.

Seven-year old Christina Ercoloni, the daughter of the Andre Ercolonis, served as flowergirl. She wore a miniature version of the senior attendants' frocks and carried a tiny replica of the bridal bouquet.

Sean Laycock, five, the son of the Dennis Laycocks, carried out the duties of ringbearer.

The bridegroom chose his brother, Ron Meier of Ypsilanti, to be best man. Others on the esquire side were Mel Meiser, another brother from Minneapolis, Minn.; Jim Williams, a cousin of the bride from Detroit; Dr. Carl Leier, uncle of the bridegroom from Columbus, Ohip; Bruce Leier, cousin of the bridegroom from Linton, N.D.; Larry Spino, brother of the bride from Belleville; Jim Schweigert of Belleville and Allan Sperle of Ypsilanti.

Both mothers of the bridal couple wore pale blue outfits and corsages of white roses as they greeted some 300 guests at the dinner-dance reception at Roma's of Ann Arbor.

The newlyweds are graduates of Belleville High School. The new Mrs. Meier earned her bachelor of arts degree at Central Michigan University and is now employed by the Van Buren Public Schools as a physical education teacher at both Elwell and Rawsonville Elementary Schools.

Her husband attended Ohio State University and currently works for Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors in Ypsilanti.

The bridegroom's parents, the Steve Meiers, entertained at the rehearsal dinner which was held at Haab's in Ypsilanti.

If you've never been to an apple orchard and cider mill (or if you've sorta put it out of your mind for awhile) you are missing one of life's really great pleasures.

"Doing the bit" (picking up the Courtlands which'd dropped from the sagging limbs) at Wiard's last week caused a flood of nostalgia and, wow, did I miss those kids of mine.

It was a fall tradition for us (when they were smaller — and available) to visit one of the local orchards where we picked our own (climbing up into the sprawling arms of our favorite variety), then stopped for warm donuts and chilled cider.

This opening bit is not being written for the purpose of selling you on a trip to the apple farms (although — why NOT!) but instead to share a very nice and somewhat surprising experience.

Isn't it remarkable (yet sad) that we have to equate KINDNESS with surprise and amazement?

While parked amid the Jonathons, Mackintoshes and spies, I suddenly heard someone yell and ask if that was my car over there. Acceding as to how it was, I received the pronouncement that he thought I had a broken spring (or I'd picked up a piece of applewood somewhere, he added.)

Now this concerned old gent (a worker at the complex) had not only noticed I might have a car problem, but he BOTHERED to inform me, check on it and have his companion (who turned out to be the company mechanic) take a look.

THEN he told me just how to get out the place to go "across the road where they're repairing that big red piece of equipment" so the afore-mentioned mechanic could repair it for me!

CAN YOU BELIEVE IT? Well, it wasn't a broken spring, thankfully, but something WAS drooping and in a matter of minutes, he'd secured the whole thing and assured me I'd be able to get home with no problems.

What a nice day!

Okay, so while we're on the subject of Johnny Appleseed's great contribution, let's get down to what can happen to a passel of "drops" once you get them home. This is just in case you're wondering what a bushel will yield.

Well, there are now 13 quarts of frozen applesauce in the freezer, the remains of one 9-inch pie and about a dozen in the crisper for other uses.

And I've just got to pass on what I consider a real do-it-yourself savings. Not figuring electricity (I only steam 'em 'til they're soft and don't re-cook 'em) or the containers (reuseable year after year) each quart of applesauce cost me a mere 20 cents. No, I don't add sugar since so many of the varieties have their own natural sweetness. And, if they don't, THEN we can go the sugar route.

That golden anniversary I mentioned a couple issues back is now just one big happy memory for all the participants. And, as planned, I cornered each of my first cousins for a run-down (countdown) on their families. Whew!

For those fellow-kinsmen who might care to know: my paternal grandmother (she might be your mother-in-law, mother, great or great-great grandmother), has 134 direct descendants! I'd have been WAY off had I dared a wild guess.

For Americans who came of age in the 40's (and for those who'd like to have been there), "The Last Convertible" by Anton Myrer is for you. The 526-pager is loaded with memories-plus for those who endured the highs and lows of World War II (the "Big One" as Archie describes it.) This little book review should be credited to Judge Jim Stone who recommended my reading it, who was in the throes of WW II himself and who lost a twin to a conflict which never resolved itself.

And for "big band" buffs, the theme of the Dorseys, the Ellingtons, the Helen O'Connells and the Glen Millers is carried throughout with a bittersweet touch from chapter to chapter. Spanning three decades, the novel paints a portrait of the way things really were for those caught up in the war days.

It's amazing where one will find the most poignant bits of philosophy.

The following piece of wisdom was copied from under the glass at the service counter at Westland Tire while I awaited the installation of four new Michelin tires. Steve, the manager, couldn't remember where he'd found the poem or who had written it. Credit is hereby being given to whomever penned the verse (and to Steve who recognized its message.)

If you think you are beaten, you are. If you think you dare not, you don't. If you like to win, but think you can't, it's almost a cinch you won't.

If you think you'll lose, you're lost. For out in the world we find, success begins with a fellow's will, it's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are. You've got to think high to rise. You've got to be sure of yourself before, you ever can win a prize.

Life's battles don't always go, to the stronger or faster man. But sooner or late, the man who wins is the man who thinks he can!

Can't help but wonder if President Carter remembers what a "pardon" did for his predecessor. Like . . . lost him the election?

"Potpourri" hears (via its spy network) that one W. Harold (alias "Bus") Roberts, is hiding out in the Grand Canyon state. It seems that everyone's "favorite mortician" had really given the staff at St. Joe's a rough time for about three weeks and when they finally decided to release him, it was on the condition he go directly to Arizona (they wanted him as far away as possible) to bask in the sunshine and enjoy a little "R&R". In the capable hands of his wife, June (are you making him behave?), Bus is staying with his son and daughter-in-law, Ron and Joanne Roberts in Scottsdale.

And, Bus, don't do anything dumb . . . . . .

THE BOTTOM LINE: If you're being run out of town, get in front of the crowd and make it look like a parade!

Smolinski-Busby vows solemnized

An archway festooned with blue and white carnations and a 15-branch candelabra in the home of the bridegroom's parents formed the setting for the candlelight rite which united Sandra Sue Busby of Detroit and John Hubert Smolinski of Belleville in holy matrimgny. Double ring vows were exchanged Sept. 15 before The Rev. James C. Southward of Belleville.

A close friend of the young couple, Thomas Murphy of Detroit, gave the bride in marriage. For her wedding Sandra wore a pale blue fitted gown and tucked sprigs of fresh baby's breath in her hair. The bouquet she held was comprised of white carnations, blue-tipped roses and baby's breath intertwined with long blue streamers.

Mitzi Smolinski performed as maid of honor dressed in a peach gown with a corsage of white carnations and peach-tipped roses worn on her wrist.

Some 40 close friends and relatives congratulated the newlyweds at the reception which followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Smolinski, parents of the bridegroom.

Following a week-long honeymoon in Memphis, Tenn., the young couple took up residence in Detroit.

Time saver

Time is very precious these days to the busy homemaker and using the speed-set method is the easy way to prepare a delicious gelatin dessert for family meals.

Dissolve a 3-ounce package of your favorite fruit flavor gelatin in 1 cup boiling water. Add 2 cups ice cubes and stir until the gelatin starts to thicken, 3 to 5 minutes. Remove any unmelted ice and chill.

The dessert will be soft-set and all ready to serve in 30 minutes.

A new flavor

Try new blackberry flavor gelatin to perk up everyday meal plans. Prepare it plain or for a special treat, enhance the delicious fruit flavor by adding ¾ to 1½ cups fresh, frozen or canned fruits to the partially thickened gelatin. (Do not add fresh or frozen pineapple).

Newest Brooks is Kristina Renee

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Brooks announce the birth of their first child, a baby daughter, Sept. 14 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. The newcomer, who made her debut at 9:47 a.m., weighed in at seven pounds - one ounce and measured 19¼ inches.

Named Kristina Renee, she is the first grandchild for Stanley and Stephanie Soja and the former Margaret Schultz, all of Belleville, and Donald G. Brooks of Denver, Colo. Mrs. Lena Frigard of Belleville is the baby's great-grandmother.

The new mother is the former Terry Soja.

Raisins damaged

Unpredicted September rains have destroyed at least 65 percent of this year's raisin crop, reports the California Raisin Advisory Board (CALRAB), the industry organization representing all California raisin growers and packers.

The normal harvest of all raisin varieties is 240,000 tons or more, but this year, according to Clyde Nef, CALRAB manager, "we will be lucky to produce 65,000 tons." The full extent of the loss, however, cannot be assessed until the entire crop is in, sometime in late October.

The immediate result will be sharply higher raisin prices during the coming months, but how high they will go is unknown.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL E. GUSTITUS

Gustitus-Wilcox rite held in Ann Arbor

Sixty guests were in attendance Aug. 26 for the nuptial of Debra S. Wilcox and Paul E. Gustitus at the University Lutheran Chapel in Ann Arbor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Wilcox of Wines Drive, Ann Arbor. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Gustitus of Twin Lakes Drive, Ypsilanti.

For the afternoon ceremony the bride wore a floor-length, princess line gown of satin with an under- and overlay of organza. Accenting the gown was beaded lace. Her handmade veil was of layered organza, trimmed in matching lace.

Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of baby's breath and pink roses.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride said her vows before Alfred T. Scheips. Flower arrangements for the ceremony were by Bernadine Byk, sister of the groom, while the organist was Karl Osterland, a graduate student at the University of Michigan.

The bride asked a friend, Barbara C. Fuester, to serve as maid-of-honor. The honor attendant's ensemble was a salmon colored sleeveless gown, with a floral chiffon cape, which she made. Her bouquet was of mixed daisies and roses.

The groom asked a friend, Lurence Kahn of Chicago, Ill., to act as his best man. The ushers were David B. Gustitus, brother of the groom, and Charles Rickel of Wayne.

Mrs. Wilcox chose a floor-length silver blue gown for the afternoon ceremony, while Mrs. Gustitus attire was a streetlength navy blue dress with white trim.

The newlyweds flew to California for a motor trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco

The new Mrs. Gustitus is a 1973 graduate of Ann Arbor Pioneer High School. She received her bachelor of science degree from the University of Michigan and is employed as a registered nurse at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Her husband graduated summa cum laude from Wayne Memorial High School in 1973. He received his bachelor of science degree in computer science from the University of Michigan and currently is employed as a staff analyst on the warehouse expansion project of Detroit Diesel Allison in Romulus.

Young couples plan weddings

BATZER - SKELLY

A summer wedding in 1979 is being planned by Cheryl L. Batzer and Ladd M. Skelly, both students at Capital University in Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde W. Batzer of 119 Clarence St., Belleville, are announcing their daughter's engagement and nuptial date.

A 1975 graduate of Belleville High School and a senior nursing student at CU, the bride-elect is employed at Children's Hospital in Columbus.

The prospective bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Skelly of 50 Beacon St., Woburn, Mass., is also a senior at CU majoring in elementary education. He is affiliated with Kappa Sigma Upsilon, social fraternity, and Delta Phi Alpha, national honorary German society.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Ypsilanti has been reserved for the young couple's Aug. 11 altar date.

CARNILL - DICK

The engagement and approaching wedding of their daughter, Linda Kay Carnill, and Ronald Anthony Dick, are announced by Mr. and Mrs. Duane K. Otter of 38185 Judd Rd., Belleville.

Miss Carnill graduated from Huron High School and then attended Central Michigan University for two and a half years. She plans to continue her studies of communication disorders within the next two years.

Her fiance, who resides at 40011 Expressway, Belleville, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Dick of Latrobe Pa. He attended school in Latrobe and is now working as a boiler operator at the Ford Motor Company's Rawsonville plant.

An October 14 wedding at the Christian Church of Wyandotte is planned.

Send us your bridal information

Want to share that "special day" with those who are unable to be present in person for your wedding ceremony? We'll write the details of your wedding in story form for you — and at no charge — if you'll simply follow a few guidelines.

The Belleville Enterprise and The Romulus Roman offer bridal questionnaires for you to fill out as well as engagement forms for announcing the "start of it all." These forms include all the pertinent questions involved with your marriage or betrothal.

Forms may be picked up at our office, 116 Fourth St., Belleville (we're in the old Township Hall, side entrance) anytime during the week between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

We will also mail forms if a telephone request is made. Call Lee Smith, Suburban Living Editor, at 697-9191.

Formerly married invited to 'Y' confab

An all-day conference for both men and women who have been previously married will be held Saturday, Oct. 14, from 8:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the YWCA of Western Wayne County, 26279 Michigan Avenue.

The program will begin with a keynote address, "How to be Single and Successfull" and will be presented by Sherwin T. Wine, Rabbi, Birmingham Temple and director for the Center for New Thinking.

Fourteen workshops will be offered delving into areas of concern and interest pertinent to living effectively as a single person. The program has been planned so that each participant may attend three workshops in addition to the keynote address.

The day will begin with registration and coffee at 8:45 a.m. with the keynote address beginning at 9:15 a.m. The cost of the workshop is $10 which includes a luncheon.

Caucus to hold meeting

A "Women in Politics and Public Life" conference will be held Oct. 7 by the Second District Michigan Women's Political Caucus.

The conference, to be held at Schoolcraft College Liberal Arts Auditorium, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia, will feature Olivia P. (Libby) Maynard, the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor in the Nov. 7 election.

The conference, to run from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m., will enable people attending to talk with women elected and appointed to local, county and state offices — both Republicans and Democrats.

Those in attendance also will be able to obtain information on appointive positions on local, county and state levels. A personal assessment of "Where do I go from here" will conclude the conference.

Energy vital, but...

Energy-wise kitchens in our future

Most of us today cannot live without energy — it's vital. However, we need to learn to live with less of it.

New kitchen equipment such as a microwave oven and small electrical appliances, when properly used, can help save cooking energy. Electric toaster-ovens, portable broiler-ovens, grills, toasters and waffle irons use less electricity than a range for special jobs. Along with the new appliances, the more novel Chinese wok offers quick cookery. Then, too, efficient use of a conventional range can keep your energy expenditures in line.

It also pays to plan energy-wise menus. A variety of beef cuts, such as tender steaks, cubes and strips and ground beef cook quickly. An example would be this Southwestern Beef and Biscuit Bake, cooked in a microwave oven. This new, fast kind of cooking directly penetrates food without heating the oven cavity and can represent a significant energy saving.

This recipe also makes for a quick energy-saving meal when prepared on a surface unit of a conventional range. Tender-tasty corn meal-cheese biscuits tops the juicy beef strips and vegetable mixture.

SOUTHWESTERN BEEF AND BISCUIT BAKE

1¼ to 1½ pounds beef top round steak, cut ¾ to 1 inch thick
¼ cup cooking oil
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon sugar
1 small onion, thinly sliced
1 small green pepper, cut in thin strips
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 to 2 teaspoons chili powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup flour
1 can (16 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained

Slice round steak in strips ⅛ inch thick and about 2½ inches long; place in plastic bag or deep bowl. Combine oil, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce and sugar, mixing well; pour over beef. Tie bag securely or cover bowl; marinate in refrigerator 4 to 6 hours, or overnight. Pour off marinade; place beef, onion and green pepper in 11¾- by 7½-inch glass baking dish.

Cook in microwave oven, uncovered, at medium 3 minutes. Stir; continue cooking 3 minutes. Combine tomato sauce, chili powder and salt. Sprinkle flour over beef; mix well. Stir in seasoned tomato sauce and corn. Cover dish with wax paper; cook in microwave oven at high 3 minutes.

Prepare Corn Meal Biscuits; drop by rounded tablespoonfuls around edge of beef mixture. Cook in microwave oven at high 6 to 7 minutes, rotating ¼ turn every 2 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before serving.

To cook on conventional range, brown steak strips in large frying pan. Add all ingredients except flour. Cover tightly; cook slowly 45 minutes. Reduce flour to 3 tablespoons; blend into one-third cup water. Gradually add to beef mixture; cook, stirring constantly until boiling. Prepare Corn Meal Biscuits, except increase flour to 1 cup; drop biscuit batter onto beef mixture as directed. Cover and continue cooking over low heat about 25 minutes.

CORN MEAL BISCUITS

½ cup milk
1 egg
2 tablespoons cooking oil
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
¾ cup flour
Two-thirds cup enriched corn meal
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup (3 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese.

Mix milk, egg, oil and mustard; mix flour, corn meal, baking powder and salt. Add combined liquids to dry ingredients, mixing just until dry ingredients are moistened. Stir in cheese. Proceed as above recipe directs. Yield: About 12 drop biscuits.

Cider and doughnuts, football and fall

Sipping fresh cider while munching hot doughnuts is as much a part of fall as football and fall color, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Combining a trip to a cider mill with a Saturday football game or a fall color tour is an invigorating way to get into the spirit of the fall season," stated Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke.

To help motorists plan fall trips which include stops at cider mills, Auto Club's 1978 Cider Mill Guide lists 85 southern Michigan operations—16 more than last year. Thirty-one mills are located in southeast Michigan, 27 are in east Michigan and 27 in west Michigan.

"Although many cider mills are open all year, it is in the fall when apples are harvested that customers flock to their favorite mills," Ratke explained.

Visitors can watch ripe firm apples being washed, ground and pressed into pure apple cider. Close attention is given by operators to the blending of different varieties of apples for the best cider.

Visiting a cider mill can be an all-day activity since some of the mills feature such attractions as flea markets, horse-drawn wagon rides, gift shops and animal farms.

Some of the area's cider mills include:

—FRANKLIN, 7450 Franklin Road, Franklin, open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday through Dec. 3.

—PARMENTER, 714 Old Baseline, Northville, open 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily through Nov. 19.

—FOREMAN'S, 50050 W. Seven Mile Road, Northville, open 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily through February.

—WIARD'S, 5568 Merritt Road, Ypsilanti, open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. year-round.

—SOUTH HURON, 38035 S. Huron Road, New Boston, open 9 a.m. to dusk through December.

—SALINE, 9365 Saline-Milan Road, Saline, open 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday year-round.

—SCHLUBATIS, 209 N. Angola Road, Coldwater, open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. through May.

—McCOLLOUGH, 540 S. Angola Road, Coldwater, open 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. year-round.

THE DIET CORNER

By FLORINE MARK

Many factors can play roles in making a person overweight. Thus many techniques can be implemented in the quest to lose excess weight.

No technique is more important to a successful diet than being aware of our eating patterns.

The idea is simple, but don't let its simplicity fool you.

How many hours yesterday were you aware of the food you were allowed to eat? How many times did you eat something you shouldn't have? What were the conditions under which you ate properly, improperly or not at all?

If you can't answer those questions accurately, you are missing out on a valuable method of controlling your diet.

To make sure you can answer such questions in the future, I recommend that you begin charting your eating day-by-day in order to keep track.

Charting is a way of recording the important aspects of our eating, in a way which allows us to draw accurate and useful conclusions in time to take advantage of what we learn.

It has a number of advantages.

When the information, or "feedback," from the chart is positive, we get reassurance and well-deserved pats on the back. When things apparently need some improvement, we get clues as to what steps can be helpful.

I like to compare the value of a chart to a dieter with the value of a compass to a hiker who is trying to find his way out of the woods. The hiker can get out sooner or later by trial and error, but the compass will help him get out a lot sooner. Similarly, you may detect your problem areas without use of a chart, but it's far more likely to be easy if you get proper "feedback."

I like a charting technique which takes just two steps.

First, devise a form of your own that will allow you to keep an exact record of your eating habits by the hour each day.

Second, devise a simple system of entries which will allow you to draw conclusions from the basic information.

Next to each hour, write entries which will tell you whether you ate foods allowable on your diet, not allowable on your diet or nothing at all.

After a relatively short period, patterns will emerge from which you can gain valuable insights into your eating behavior.

Do you stick to your diet better on certain days? At certain hours? Under certain social conditions?

Knowing the answers is vital to dealing with the problem areas.

One final urging! Don't give up on the charting plan just because you slip and forget to make a few entries before you get used to the idea.

FAMED AUSTRIAN IMPEREAL TIARA

There's a gem of a show coming up on Oct. 13 — 15 at the Lightguard Armory on East Eight Mile Road in Detroit. It's the Greater Detroit Gem and Mineral Show, hosted by the Michigan Mineralogical Society, and it's one of the world's top gem and mineral affairs.

This, the 15th annual show sponsored by the Michigan society, will feature a wide variety of exhibits presented by some of the nation's most outstanding museums.

Highlighting these exciting displays will be the beautifully jeweled crown which once belonged to the Imperial Family of Austria. Like old King Tut, whose royal family left many memorabilia for the modern world to see, "rags to riches" Napoleon Bonaparte and his queen Marie Louise, also have provided something in which today's public can revel.

Back in 1811 when Napoleon's second spouse gave birth to a son and thus assured the empire of an heir, Napoleon in his enthusiasm presented his fruitful wife with beautiful tiara studded with 950 brilliant Indian diamonds and a generous sprinkling of sparkling emeralds. The diamonds alone totaled something like 700 carats.

Some years later this jewel-studded diadem passed from the hands of Marie Louise to the Archduke of Austria to become the property of the Imperial Family of Austria. Just recently, the headpiece was donated to the Smithsonian Institution.

With its emeralds now replaced with choice turquoise cabochons which set off the priceless array of diamonds and adds to the general symmetry of the piece, this fascinating crown is one of the many unusual things to be seen at the gem and mineral show.

The lineup of museums furnishing exhibits, in addition to the Smithsonian, includes the Geological Museum of Copenhagen, Denmark; Canada's National Museum of Ottawa; the Royal Ontario Museum of Totonto; the American Museum of Natural History; the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences; the Denver Museum of Natural History; the Paterson Museum of Paterson, New Jersey; Seaman Mineralogical Museum of Michigan Technological University; Cranbrook Institute of Science; Illinois State University; University of Cincinnati; and Detroit's Wayne State University.

Besides these many exhibits there also will be a host of individual displays featuring gems and crystalled minerals, fossils, crafts, and specialized creations of many kinds. There also will be a special "Club Alley" section featuring a variety of club exhibits presented by the region's mineral clubs.

The three-day exposition opens officially for the general public at 6 p.m. Oct. 13. It will be open until 10 p.m. Hours on Oct. 14 will be 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Oct. 15.

For buying or just browsing, some of the nation's leading mineral dealers will be on hand with an offering of unusual mineral specimens, cutting materials, gemstones, fossils, books, and jewelry items.

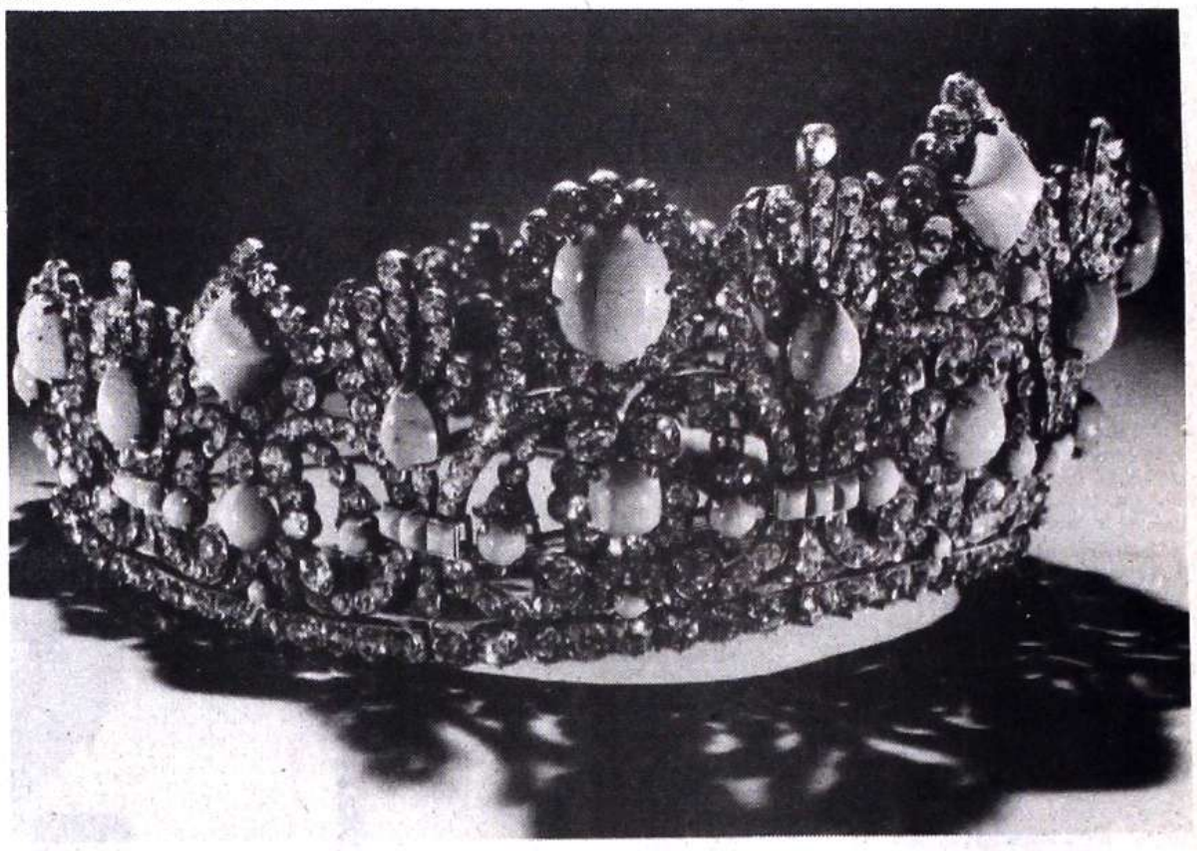
Also on hand will be skilled craft operators to explain and demonstrate several facets of the hobby including the techniques of micromounting, tumbling, faceting, carving, sphere making and cabochon making. Uniquely, the cabochon demonstration, which will operate continuously during the show, will offer the beginner—child or adult—the opportunity to complete and polish a cabochon with the material and instruction being furnished by the Mt. Clemens Gem and Lapidary Society.

As always, a full line-up of special speakers will be on hand both Saturday and Sunday to lecture on key facets of the hobby.

Lecturers will include David Wilbur, well known mineral dealer who will discuss "The Preparation and Care of a Mineral Collection", Wendell Wilson, editor of the Mineralogical Record, who will take his listeners "Behind the Scenes at a Mineral Magazine", and Pete Dunn, Department of Mineral Sciences at the Smithsonian Institution who will talk about the "Highlights of the U.S. National Gem Collection".

A special feature of this year's show will be the Neal Yedlin Memorial Symposium. The topic to be covered is "Minerals of the Arctic Region." Dr. Joseph Mandarino, mineral curator of Toronto's Royal Ontario Museum, will be the moderator, and Dr. Ole V. Peterson from the museum in Copenhagen, D. D. Hogarth from the Department of Geology at the University of Ottawa, and B. D. Sturman from the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto, will serve as panelists.

Admission is $2 for adults and 50 cents for children 12 years and under.



Vial-of-Life

County-wide Walk is set

Plans for a county-wide "Walk for Life", to distribute Vial of Life kits to households throughout Wayne County, have shifted from Oct. 7 to Oct. 21.

"The change from Oct. 7 to Oct. 21 was necessary to accommodate groups which want to participate and to permit more time for organizing of this gigantic project," explained Erv Steiner of Grosse Pointe Farms, the county commissioner who first suggested the county-wide program.

Meanwhile the program received a major boost from donations by Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan and Cunningham Drug Stores Inc.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield donated $3,000 to underwrite the distribution of some 56,000 Vials of Life to senior citizens and low-income families.

"This gift is consistent with our objectives of improving the health of those in the community and helping to contain health care costs. We are especially pleased that the program may quite literally save lives," said Richard Whitmer, Blues executive vice-president, in presenting the check to Steiner.

Cunningham Drug Stores made a $600 direct contribution and announced that Vials of Life are available free at all 104 Cunningham Drug stores in Michigan and Ohio.

"Since the door-to-door (distribution) method depends entirely upon the voluntary efforts of such groups as students, Scouts and members of public-spirited organizations, we are pleased to be able to help defray part of the cost of the county's program," said Jack Zurawaka, director of professional services for Cunningham's.

The Vial of Life kit consists of a small plastic pill bottle containing a Health history for each family member. Vial of Life stickers posted on the refrigerator door (the vial is placed where designated in the refrigerator) and the home's front door alert emergency personnel in a medical emergency.

Some 10,000 would be given to Livonia senior citizens, according to Tom Klowsowski, Livonia Jaycees Vial of Life chairman; Kathy Montgomery, the city's senior citizens coordinator; and County Commissioner Mary E. Dumas of Livonia.

Vial-of-Life distributions also are planned in Highland Park, Dearborn Heights, Wayne, Southgate, Trenton, Grosse Ile, and by the Detroit East Side Home Owners Association, County Commissioner Rosemary C. Robinson, Peace Baptist Church, the Detroit "Food and Friendship" and Wayne County senior citizens nutrition sites, as well as by chapters of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Steiner urged interested groups to attend or to call the County Information Office at 224-5025 for more information.

Developmentally disabled sessions are scheduled

The Wayne County Association for the Retarded is sponsoring a sessions, entitled "Major Concerns for the Developmentally Disabled", at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 20 at John Glenn High School in Westland.

This information night will explore the issues of community residential homes, funding and placement of adults over 26 years of age in community day programs.

Speakers include Marjorie Green, manager of the Special Housing Section of the Michigan State Housing Development Authority; James Glick, director of Alternative Intermediate Services for the Mentally Retarded, Northville Residential Training Center; Eranel McIntosh-Wilson, acting director of the Plymouth Center for Human Development; and Dr. James Greiner, assistant superintendent for Special Education, Wayne County Intermediate School District.

Also attending will be Dr. Mel Ravitz, director of the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Services Board; David L. Horling, regional program executive, Metropolitan Region, Michigan Department of Mental Health; Harvey Zuckerburg, executive director of the Michigan Association for Retarded Citizens; and Thomas Presnell, chairperson of the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Services Board and a member of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

The meeting will outline the most pressing concerns for the developmentally disabled, as well as offer constructive means of alerting our legislators to meeting these concerns.

Undefeated Churchill clips Canton

Melee mars Chargers' 4th triumph, 26-14

By ERIC GEARNS
(Special to ANP)

The old song goes "when the irresistable force meets the immovable object something has gotta give."

And last Friday night the irresistable force was Livonia Churchill who moved the immovable object, Plymouth Canton, out of its Western Six Conference Football title path.

Churchill unveiled a balanced offense and rolled to its fourth straight - second in the league - victory, 26-14 over the Chiefs who have lost both of their conference encounters.

Coach Ken Kaestner's Churchill squad can now look to perennial power Farmington Harrison and to the possibility of a Class A state championship playoff berth. The Chargers are presently in a battle in Region III for the playoff spot with Plymouth Salem and Detroit Catholic Central.

Meanwhile, Coach Dave Schuele and the Canton Chiefs are not going to the state playoffs or are they likely to win a league title, however, they would like to win their first ever Homecoming game Friday night when they host Waterford Mott.

The Churchill-Canton confrontation was a well-played and extremely physical game. As an indication of just how physical, three players were ejected from what Schuele described as a "war."

And the game was closer than the score might indicate.

The Chargers won the first down duel 17-12, while in rushing yardage Canton held a slim edge 165-161. In passing, Churchill QB Rick Coppola was seven of 11 for 144 yeards while his Canton counterpart, Scotty Dawson, hit on eight of 18 for 127 but had two aerials intercepted.

Total yardage showed the Chargers outgaining the Chiefs 305-292. The one statistic with which Schuele was upset was penalties: Churchill was penalized four times for 50 yards; there were 11 flags against Canton for a total of 105 yards.

Churchill took control early in the game, building up a 13-0 first quarter lead. The Chargers grabbed the opening kickoff and moved 70 yards in seven plays that was highlighted by two long completions from Coppola to Mark Liedholdt - good for 23 yards, and to Steve Zabrowski for 26 yards and the touchdown. That was all accomplished in less than four minutes elapsed.

The Chargers got a break on the ensuing kickoff as their kicker Darrel Copley caught his cleats in the turf and booted the ball a mere 12 yards

The unintentional onside kick was recovered by Churchill's Paul Neville and Coppola again led his team 42 yards in eight plays going the final 10 himself with 2:06 remaining in the first stanza.

Copley's conversion gave the Chargers a 13-0 budge at that point.

Canton then dug in deep to avoid the letdown that occurred against Northville. The Chiefs took the Charger kickoff and marched steadily downfield. Canton picked up key first downs on a 35-yard pass from Dawson to Mike Mullen and on runs of seven yards by Steve Gray and a 12-yarder by Bob Hamblin.

With 8:26 remaining in the half, Hamblin popped through a gaping hole made by Charles Nyhus and Frank Kellogg for 16 yards and a Canton touchdown. The Chiefs weren't finished. After key defensive plays by Canton sophomore Craig Gearns and senior Mike Phillips, they took possession of the ball and once again Dawson began toomove the club.

This time the drive was marred by the ejection of Canton's Jay McKinley and Churchill's Zabrowski for fighting.

With the best receiver (McKinley) gone, Dawson began to go to Gray, Hamblin and Rusty Mandle. With less than a minute to go Dawson hit Mandle in the end zone for a 22 yarder and an apparent touchdown.

The officials however ruled that Mandle didn't have complete control of the ball prior to dropping it and the TD was disallowed. On the next play the Chargers' Ken Katschor intercepted on the one and Churchill protected its 13-6 lead the rest of the half.

The third quarter belonged primarily to the defenses. Dave Tanner, Phillips and Gearns provided the stonewall for Canton's defenses and Neville, Tim Osowski and Ron Schuenman stood out for Churchill.

Schuenman stopped one Canton drive with an interception, while Gearns halted a Charger attack with a fumble recovery. With four minutes remaining, Coppola started a Charger drive in which he carried the ball six straight times before he scored from the seven. Copley's extra point gave the Chargers a 20-6

Coppola on the go

With Plymouth Canton's Steve Eddy(74) and Charles Nyhus(61) zeroing in from behind, Churchill's elusive quarterback Rick Coppola(dark jersey, at right) bolts for yardage during the key Western Six Conference showdown. Coppola shattered Canton's plans of an upset as he led the Chargers to a 26-14 victory, the fourth straight for Coach Ken Kaestner's club. While Canton will attempt to recover from their second league setback at the expense of Waterford Mott Friday night at home, Churchill seeks to keep its hold on first place as the Chargers take on Farmington Harrison, the defending league champ, Saturday afternoon in Farmington.

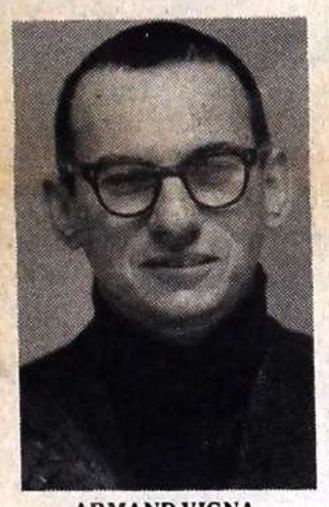
Alcohol and athletes

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

No coach wants to boot an athlete off of a team. But, there are rules and if rules are violated then disciplinary action must be taken.

And with alcoholic beverages available to 18 year olds, an age-group that is still in high school, the problem of discipline in the classroom and on athletic teams is compounded.

Alcohol and athletes don't mix.



ARMAND VIGNA

"Alcohol is one of our most dangerous and yet widely used drugs," said Franklin football coach Armand Vigna, "and it is a common commodity on the high school scene today because we have 18 year olds who legally can purchase it and through them it filters down to the younger kids.

"We talk about the rest of the drug scene," Vigna continued, "but alcohol cripples more people than all of the rest of the drugs combined."

Vigna says he is one who strongly advocates abolishing the law giving 18 year olds the right to purchase alcoholic beverages.

"I am not so naive to believe that if we return to the old ways, hiking the age to 21 before a person could legally buy alcohol that we will be eliminating the problem, however, it becomes tougher for the 18 year old to get the booze, therefore, making it even harder for the 17 and under age group."

Vigna has been coaching junior high and senior high football teams for over 21 years, "and it's getting tougher to deal with the alcohol problems as each year goes by."

Last week some of his players were involved in a fracas which ended with three of his players handing in their uniforms.

"It is as difficult for me to ask these kids to submit their uniforms as it is for them to hand them in," Vigna said, "but what are we trying to teach these kids? They knew when they came out for the team that there were certain rules they had to abide by - they violated them and therefore must pay the penalty.

"I don't think any coach wants to boot a player off a team that the kid has tried so hard to make --- the disciplinary action is an act of failure of communications on all sides and when it occurs it hurts everyone."

The problem, of course, isn't unique to Franklin or Livonia.

Like the Man said, "Let he who has not sinned cast the first stone."

Area swim listing on its way

Ann Massey, the dynamic girls' swimming coach at Plymouth Canton, has agreed to compile the Top Swimming & Diving Listing for the Associated Newspapers again this year.

The listing will appear each week in the sports section and will include the outstanding performances of girls' swimming teams from Canton, Salem,Wayne Memorial, Westland John Glenn, Belleville, Livonia Churchill, Livonia Franklin, and Cherry Hill.

In order to expedite the initial listing, coaches from these high schools are urged to contact Mrs. Massey at 453-3100 (Canton High) or at 455-9021(at home).

Wayne beats Belleville

Tolson sets another record

Doug Tolson, Wayne Memorial's sensational 16-year-old junior distance runner, added another record to his cross country accomplishments this season.

Tolson, considered the No.1 harrier on the high school scene this year, established a course record in pacing Wayne to a 24-32 victory over out of league rival, Belleville.

Tolson hit the finish line in 15:34, eclipsing the old mark of 15:50. Teammate Paul Spencer was second with a time of 15:39.

Belleville's Bob Oakley finished third with a 15:49, setting a school record for his efforts and running partner, Darrel Thompson came in fourth. Thompson's time was 16:20.

Cagers needed for loop

The Wayne Parks and Recreation Department and the Wayne Continuing Education have teamed up to form a Junior Basketball League for boys and girls.

Teams will be made up of players in the fourth and fifth grades for one division along with players in sixth and seventh grades for a second division, according to Bill Hawley, the director of the league.

Registration will be accepted the next two Saturdays - Oct. 7 and Oct. 14, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. at the Wayne Community Center. There is a $1 registration fee.

"One of the reasons why we need such a league is to provide continuity in our basketball programs," said Hawley. "We hope that these youngsters will become interested in the program and continue to play on the junior high and later high school levels."

Further information may be obtained by telephoning the recreation offices at 721-7400 or Hawley at 729-6461.

Wayne's grid ship out of orbit

Fordson shoots down Carter's troops

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Like the Battle Star Galactica, Wayne football machine is entering a great, black void.

And where commander Floyd Carter and his warriors land, after their devastating defeat at the hands of arch enemy, Fordson, last Friday, depends upon a couple of shining stars, namely, Mike Wilson, and Mark Zerona who have been put out of commission because of injuries.

Despite the 28-15 setback by Fordson which slashed a three-game Wayne winning streak, Wayne still is in contention for the Great Lakes 8 Conference title. However, Carter's troops can't afford to lose another battle and expect to win their first Great Lakes 8 Conference football crown.

With Lincoln Park invading the Zebra grounds Friday, Wayne will need to recoup and mobilize its forces which were torn by injuries. Zerona, a key to Carter's offensive strategy, was sidelined with a knee injury while Wilson, who teams with Ed Turbeville in the backfield, provides the 1-2 running punch.

Wayne will have a homecoming crowd and queen on hand Friday night to help it recuperate, but Carter doesn't expect any cooperation from Lincoln Park, which is also in the midst of the battle for the title.

"They(meaning Lincoln Park) are bigger than Fordson," said Carter, "and, I expect a very hard-hitting game." Carter also said that Zerona probably won't be ready for

Heading for a fall

Plymouth Canton's Rusty Mandle(white jersey), who is seeking to become the Chiefs first "1,000-yard rusher" runs up against Livonia Churchill's Dave Krick(43) in the play above. Though Mandle managed to amass 87 yards in 13 carries, the Chiefs couldn't muster enough scoring power to cool Churchill's title express which coasted to its fourth victory and remains atop of the Western Six Conference standings.

Churchill remains unbeaten lead with 1:24 remaining in the third period.

In the fourth quarter Churchill picked up where it had left off as Coppola moved the ball on the ground using his ace runningback, Doran Mason, and coming up with a 61-yard pass run play to Brian Hirami. Coppola again culminated the drive himself with an 18-yard jaunt up-the-middle for his third TD of the evening. That was with 5:04 remaining in the game.

Dawson engineered a final drive for the Chiefs, hitting Gray for 22 yards and getting a 20-yard romp from Mandle. The drive ended with a four-yard Dawson touchdown pass to Mike Path and a two point conversion toss from Dawson to Mandle with 1:20 left in the game.

The third player ejection occurred seconds later when Canton's Gearns departed from the game because "of excessive roughness."

Schuele said he was disappointed with the officiating and commented "that I feel the officials let the game get out of hand, then tried to recover by ejecting players for very slight offenses.

"I thought we played well enough to win," he added, "and I won't use the officiating as an excuse , but it sure didn't help."

Offensively, Mandle led Canton with 87 yards in 13 carries, while Mason also netted 87 yards in 19 tries. Defensively, Schuenman paced the Chargers with four unassisted tackles, and 10 assists in addition to the interception.

Gearns was the stalwart for the Chiefs with five solo tackles, 10 assists and a QB sack to go along with a fumble recovery.

Kaestner also felt the game was poorly officiated. "This game doesn't sit very well with me and I blame it on the officials," Kaestner said. "The officiating crew was extremely poor. They lost control of the ball game and as a result some of the kids were able to do things which they normally wouldn't even think of."

Kaestner felt that the TD taken away from Canton was a properly called play, but disagreed with the ejection of Gearns from the game. "That kid played a beautiful ball game," said Kaestner, "and the tackle was a good clean one."

Kaestner went on to say that his team "was at the crossroads and Harrison will be a key test.

"Harrison is a team of great tradition and we have to be ready for them Saturday night."

Canton's record dipped to 2-2 while Churchill remains perfect in four outings.

Through the middle

Two fallen Plymouth Canton defenders are no match for Livonia Churchill's streaking runningback Doran Mason(with dark jersey) who is eventually brought down by Russ Shuman(53). Coach Ken Kaestner's Chargers managed to keep their streak intact as they put down the ever-improving Chiefs for their fourth consecutive victory of the 1978 campaign. Churchill will place its 4-0 record on the block Saturday when it clashes with Farmington Harrison, the defending Western Six Conference champ. Canton, meanwhile, will attempt to bounce back at home, hosting Waterford Mott.

Romulus hopes to pull out of losing skid at Willow Run

After losing their second consecutive football game, Romulus is looking to Willow Run as a "skid stopper" this week.

Willow Run, which bowed to Inkster last Friday, has had its problems but Romulus coach Don Foley warned: "that they (Willow Run) is a better team than they showed against Inkster.

"It is a team that can put points on the board and we're going to have to generate some offense to beat them."

Foley's Eagles have been shut out for the past two weeks, the latest was a 9-0 blanking at the hands of Gabriel Richard.

"In the past our nemesis has been the defense," noted Foley, who is in his first year as head coach. "However, this isn't true about this team. Our kids have been playing defense, but we have our problems executing."

Willow Run will entertain the Eagles Friday night at 7:30 p.m. and while the Flyers are looking for their first win in four starts, Romulus will attempt to make it 2-3 on the year.

Romulus had its chances against the downriver representatives. The Eagles were inside the Richard 15 yard line at least three times and couldn't capitalize. After Richard scored on Larry Leighton's one-yard sneak in the first quarter, Romulus had an opportunity to tie it up when Richard Lewis ripped off a huge amount of Richard dirt, reaching the enemy 11 yard line after a 40-yard sprint before being thrown out of bounds.

The Eagles failed to get on the board in the first half, and in the fourth quarter quarterback Darryl Lewis, inserted midway in the game for the injured Mike Brooks, engineered a drive to the 11 where he attempted a pass to Vince Bean that was intercepted at the Richard one, snuffing out the threat.

Richard Lewis also nearly broke one open when he took a kickoff in the Romulus end zone and meandered 50 yards before he was detoured by a host of Richard defenders.

Richard sealed the victory when it managed to block a Romulus punt and turn it into a 30-yard field goal.

"It was a kind of game you felt you could win," said Foley, "but we just didn't come up with the big plays. We had our chances and when you don't use them you can't blame anyone but ourselves.

John Kersey spearheaded the Romulus defense corps as the rugged senior linebacker made numerous tackles. Lewis, and Bean both playing safety also gave excellent accounting of themselves on defense as did roverback Michael Johnson.

Brooks, who pulled a groin muscle, is expected to return to his quarterback job this week. Meanwhile, the Eagles will be putting in overtime on offense to get the kinks out, according to Folev.

Les Beregsasy, a senior middle linebacker, received credit for 18 tackles and eight assists against Richard, for his best individual performance of the season.

Richard dominated the statistics as it compiled 12 first downs, 188 total yards(11 by passing) as compared to Romulus' four first downs, 70 yards total (14 by passing).

Romulus' leading ballcarrier was Richard Lewis who picked up 55 yards on four attempts.

"The key to the game, I feel," said Foley, "was that they had possession of the ball for 50 plays while we ran only 28."

Want to play volleyball?

There will be an organizational volleyball meeting for women who wish to compete in the Westland Parks and Recreation League.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 17 at the Melvin G. Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford Rd., located behind the Westland City Hall.

The league is open to women 18 years of age and older who should contact the recreation department to be placed on a prospective team member list.

For additional information, call the rec. offices from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., at 261-7030.

Canton crowns champs

After 16 weeks of competition, Dick Kraft and Tony Valenti emerged with the Canton Parks and Recreation men's golf championship.

Kraft and Valenti clinched the title by sweeping five points from Bruce Watt and Bill Lindley.

Kraft shot his best round of the year as he posted a 38, while his partner Valenti carded a 42.

Bruce Watt registered a47 and Lindley turned in a 53.

Watt and Lindley won the first eight weeks league play, then Valenti and Kraft picked up the second eight weeks of competition, forcing the playoff.

The plot thickens as Huron awaits undefeated Monroe

Playing more the role they were expected to at the beginning of the season, New Boston Huron has cleaned up its football act to show a Monroe Catholic Central audience Friday night.

With Fred Block and quarterback Randy Pichan each scoring touchdowns, Coach Tom LeBeau's Chiefs scapled Grosse Ile 14-8 to manuever into contention for the Huron Conference championship.

But blocking LeBeau's path is his former school - Monroe Catholic Central, a team that has unveiled title plans of its own. Monroe jolted Tecumseh a week ago and has moved to the top of the conference standings. MCC shares the limelight with Flat Rock. Both are 3-0 while Huron has a 2-1 record.

"Monroe has an excellent team," said LeBeau who has coached at MCC. "They have a fine football tradition and when you look at what they did to Tecumseh you have to respect them."

Monroe held the defending champs to a mere four first downs and a total of 75 yards.

"I don't have to tell our kids the importance of Friday night's game," added LaBeau. "They know what is at stake."

Huron scored early in the first quarter against the Islanders who found the Chiefs' ready on both fronts - offense and defense. Fullback Fred Block capped a 70-yard drive which featured a 24-yard pass reception from quarterback Randy Pichan to Kelly Summerfield with a four-yard touchdown plunge.

Pichan, one of the most sought-after prep gridders in the state, booted the extra point to lift the Chiefs to a 7-0 lead.

Huron scored an insurance TD in the final quarter, again with Pichan taking it in from the three to polish off a 77-yard drive. He also converted.

"We had some excellent drives earlier but they were thwarted with turnovers," said LaBeau.

Grosse Ile managed to avert the shutout with a strike from quarterback Dave Fairweather to Mike Alexander which covered 58-yards. They got the two-point conversion on the same pass combination.

The Islanders attempted an onside kick but, thanks to Huron's Bruce Wood, were unsuccessful. Wood gave Huron the ball at midfield and the Chiefs managed to control the game the rest of the four minutes.

Huron's defenders, with Bill Manny and Pichan at the ends, tackles Mark Morris and Mitch McHugh, who check in at 240 pounds apiece, linebacker Ed Emin, Bob Boker and middle guard Ron Teets played the roles of misers as they allowed on 11 yards rushing.

"We have played well on defense all year, but this was by far our best," said LaBeau.

The statistics will defend LaBeau's conclusions.

Ex-Romulus harrier stars at Adrian

Adrian College's cross country team lost its MIAA (Michigan Intercolliegate Athletic Association) dual meet opener to Alma College, 19-42, Wednesday Sept. 27 afternoon.

Sophomore Joe Schieda (Romulus) was the first Bulldog to finish. Schieda's five-mile time of 28:17 around the Adrian campus placed him third. Mark Boyd, a sophomore from Garden City, captured sixth place in 29:06.

Other Bulldog scorers were Tom Eddington (Stockbridge), tenth, 30:01; Steve Zimmerman (Romulus), eleventh, 31:19; and Jim Bicknell (Claire), twelfth, 33:15.

Alma's John Whitney earned individual honors with a 27:15 clocking in the Scot's first dual meet of the fall campaign.

The Bulldogs run against defending MIAA co-champion Calvin College Tuesday Oct. 7 at 4 p.m. p.m.

Salem's indestructible grid machine rips Belleville, 66-0

If there are any flaws in Coach Tom Moshimer's football machine at Plymouth Salem they weren't visible Friday night when winless Belleville took on the defending Suburban 8 Conference champs.

Using a potpourri of offenses, and nearly impregnable on defense, Salem subdued Coach Pat Stokes' Tigers 66-0 for their fourth consecutive - third in the league - victory of the season.

But while Belleville tries to recover from the shock of their worst beating in recent football history, Salem has to embrace itself for what could be a crucial game with Redford Union.

R.U., though winless in the league - it has lost to two undefeated teams - Trenton and Edsel Ford - Moshimer feels his Rocks will have their hands full Friday night in Redford.

"We're going to have to execute very well and be much quicker," warned Moshimer who is wary that usually went a team puts so many points on the board as his team did against Belleville, it is due for a letdown.

"Redford Union is a much bigger team than we are and we're going to have to use our speed to beat them."

Salem also has lost - probably for the season - starting guard and defensive tackle Scotty Piper who broke a finger and needed surgery to patch up.

Meanwhile, Belleville has to contend with Dearborn

While not on the field, John Glenn's energetic tackle Jim Demaray (above) is a cheering section in himself. Demaray and the Rockets are rolling along on a four game winning streak and will meet Redford Thurston Saturday afternoon in Redford for their second Northwest Suburban Conference test. Heading into the second half of the season, Coach Chuck Gordon has some real 'toughies' lined up. On subsequent weekends his Rockets will face:North Farmington, Livonia Franklin, Livonia Stevenson and arch-rival, Wayne Memorial.

Wayne's grid ship is out of title orbit

Friday night's encounter.

He viewed Zerona's injury in the second quarter "as the turning point of the game."

"We definitely had the momentum but when Mark got injured it took the sails out of our offense," Carter said.

Fordson drew first blood, but it didn't take long for Wayne to bandage up the wound. The Tractors scored on the first play from scrimmage after Wayne was forced to punt. Steve Attard went up-the-middle and eluded a host of Wayne tacklers to go 90-yards for the initial Fordson touchdown.

However, Fordson missed the point after and Wayne got the ensuing kickoff and went to work. Quarterback Mark Korte used a mere four plays - to take the Zebras 64 yards and scored on a direct hit to Zerona which covered the 41 yards.

With the score deadlocked at 6-all, Skip Walker made the conversion to give the visitors a slim, 7-6 edge.

Wayne got the next break.

After Walker's kickoff, Fordson's Ariano Guido fumbled and Emery Biggerstaff recovered for the Zebras at the Fordson 35.

Korte then used the talents of speedy Turbeville and he raced off tackle for 26 yards and scored Wayne's second TD. A pass from Korte-to-Zerona increased the Wayne bulge to 15-6.

It was to be, however, Wayne's last score of the game.

With 2:21 remaining in the initial period, Fordson took over and scored in the next three quarters.

Zerona departed from the game early in the second quarter when he was hit on a running play.

Attard provided the Tractors with a 21-yard touchdown run early in the period and John Gross went over for the two point conversion to make it 15-14 at halftime.

Fordson finally took the lead in the third quarter with two seconds left in that period. A pass from Gross to receiver Ken Latin was good for a 14-yarder, giving the Tractors the edge 24-15.

Wayne was still in the picture. With Korte at the throttle and Turbeville grinding out the yardage, the Zebras strung together a drive that took them inside the Fordson 25 where a holding penalty dissipated their dreams.

Fordson added injury to hurt, or is it the other way around, by scoring again on a two-yard dive by Latin with 23 seconds left in the game.

Rockets have 'toughies' in the stretch

Glenn gets down to business

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

"Light and Lively"—that's a good description of this year's John Glenn football squad.

The Rockets are not very heavy but their tremendous speed and sturdiiness carried them to their third shutout Friday night as they devastated Garden City East, 42-0, in their Northwest Suburban League opener.

Glenn owns a 4-0 record but the next five weeks will "separate the men from the boys"—as they say—when the Rockets are tested by some pretty good football teams in this area.

Glenn goes through the "meat grinder" part of its schedule in the next five weekends. They begin with Redford Township Thurston this Saturday afternoon before tackling undefeated title favorite North Farmington, Livonia Franklin, undefeated Livonia Stevenson and traditional rival, Wayne Memorial.

Any one of those five could knock off Glenn if the Rockets are not ready for them. "There's no doubt about it, the next five weeks will be a real test for us," said Gordon, whose coaching staff could hardly take time to savor Friday's satsifying league opener.

With only one player tipping the scales more than 200 pounds, the Rockets have relied on toughness and tenacity in rolling to their 4-0 record.

Sparked by its defense, which has allowed only six points in four games, Glenn's offense usually gets rolling about the second quarter.

That's what happened again Friday night as the Rockets blitzed the Panthers with three touchdowns in less than four minutes in the second quarter for a 21-0 halftime lead.

East, which came into the game winless in three starts, played Glenn surprisingly tough in a scoreless first period.

The Rockets only managed 10 offensive plays in the first quarter of their Northwest Suburban League opener, and one was a punt and the other was a missed 37-yard field goal attempt by Kal DeLuca that fell inches short.

However, like in other games this year, the Rockets got things rolling in the second quarter. Sparked by defensive halfback Dale Luke's interception of Panther Quarterback Randy MacDonnell's pass, Glenn took over on East's 47-yard line.

In two lightning bursts, the Rockets had a quick 7-0 lead. Tailback Tim Ruark took a perfectly timed pitchout from Glenn quarterback Rob Suida and blazed 25 yards down the left sidelines to the Panther 25.

East's offside penalty took it to the 20 yard line, from where junior tailback Scott Thornton, Glenn's other "bolt of lightning" flashed 20 yards off tackle untouched into paydirt. Kal DeLuca added the extra point with 7:54 left in the first half.

Glenn got a big break when East's center snapped the ball over the punter's head and the Rockets took over on the Panther's 27.

It was all Ruark then as the

Whoa there, Chief

Canton split end Jay McKinley made his reception, but Livonia Churchill's Ron Schuenman(23) is making sure the elusive receiver doesn't do any further damage in last Friday's Western Six Conference confrontation. Canton made the undefeated conference leaders sweat before yielding to the Livonians for their second loss in four starts.

Vigna will need miracle to stop power laden North

With Garden City East and Thurston behind them, Livonia Franklin prepares to meet the preseason title favorite, North Farmington.

North, ranked as high as sixth in some Class A state football polls, covets the Northwest Suburban Conference crown presently shared by Franklin and undefeated John Glenn and Franklin Coach Armand Vigna reluctantly points out that "North is awesome."

"They beat Flint Northern 40-0," points out Vigna, commenting on North's invincibility. "This is a super ball club and really I feel that it's going to take a miracle to beat them."

But Vigna is quick to offer, "however, I do believe in miracles."

North will entertain Franklin Saturday afternoon with kickoff scheduled for 2 p.m.

Making adjustments in his sputtering offense, Vigna and the Patriots managed to stretch their conference winning streak to two games by pulling out a 13-10 win over Redford Township Thurston last Saturday.

Thurston had the lead twice: 3-0 and 10-7, but the Livonians refused to give in to their visitors from Schoolcraft Street.

"I feel they had outplayed us," said Vigna, "and we're very fortunate to win."

Thurston broke a scoreless first quarter with John Klopcic's 30-yard field goal after a 13-play, 76-yard drive had stalled.

Franklin took over and with junior quarterback Jon McCarthy at the throttle marched 67 yards in 10 yards and scored on runningback Jerry Cifor's one-yard slant. Cifor kept the drive alive with a 30-yard run and, after Don Boka kicked the extra point, the Patriots took the lead 7-3.

They saw that lead erased in the third quarter when Thurston quarterback Mike Fitzsimons connected on a 30-yard touchdown pass to William Gibson. Klopcic again made good on the pointafter.

Franklin began what proved to be the winning drive after the kickoff. The Patriots launched their attack from their own 22 and drove 78 yards with Cifor racing over the goal line from 37-yards out.

Franklin had at least two good shots at the Eagle goal line, advancing inside the Thurston 10 on separate occasions but then finding the rest of the good earth inaccessible.

Thurston controlled the fourth quarter and made the Patriots sweat as it plowed its way through the drizzle to the Franklin four where, with the alert defensive play by Boka, Andre Mondouz along with Dave Retig, Doug White and Dave Kroll, Vigna's troops held.

"Our kids played a gutty game," said Vigna. "The defense bent but when it had to be tough it was."

Cifor continues to be the Franklin workhorse on offense as the speedy senior compiled 108 of the 224 total yards. He had 17 carries. McCarthy, who appears to have solved Franklin's QB needs, rushed for 25 yards on eight tries.

Though Thurston had the edge 13-7 in first downs, it couldn't cash in on its superior field position at times.

"We played with a juggled line-up due to injuries," offered Vigna. "And, like I said we were lucky to win this one."

Friday night, a team that still has high expectations of catching the fleeing Salem and Trenton title expresses.

Scoring the first four times they had possession of the ball, Salem put 21 points on the scoreboard in the first quarter and, for all purpose, the game was all over then.

Belleville rushed for 170 yards in the first half, "and had nothing to show for it," according to Stokes.

All-State Salem quarterback Rich Hewlett tuned up for the night with a 63-yard touchdown pass to Rick Hanschu, then Hanschu kicked the extra point and with little less than three minutes gone into the quarter, the Rocks had a 7-0 lead.

Hewlett then reduced the deteriorating Belleville defenses to shambles as he zipped off the next three Rock touchdowns. The volatile quarterback tallied on runs of 51 and 53 yards in the first period and scored on a one-yard sneak in the second quarter after Belleville gave up the ball via an anemic punt which wound up at the Tiger 19.

Before the half was to end, Hanschu successfully botted a 30-yard field goal to widen the margin to 30-0 at intermission.

Salem came back to score 14 points in the third period and 22 in the fourth, using basically its team of the future.

Craig Stack's 34-yard run of a scooped up kickoff return to start the second half; Phil Anderson's 15-yard return of an interception and Sam Merrill's 53-yard return of a stolen pass accounted for other Salem touchdowns. Jim Daratony also scored and a pass from Jim Anderson to Dennis Odgen was good for a 32-yard TD.

Though Belleville had the edge in first downs 10-6, Salem was overpowering on the ground and in the air as they amassed 404 total yards as compared to the Tigers' 232. Belleville had 106 yards rushing to Salem's 295.

However Belleville lost four of its passes by interceptions.

Barry Reddick led the Tiger rushers with 56 yards in 12 carries, while Brian Brinkerhoff racked up 52 yards in 13 attempts before a second quarter injury sidelined him for the evening.

"Needless to say we were disappointed by our performance," said Stokes. "It was our best offensive game, but our worst defensive - we just weren't ready to play on defense."

Plot thickens

Huron's overwhelming edge in stats included 16 first downs to 3; 296 total yards to 96; 249 rushing to 11. While Pichan completed seven of 13 passes for 46, the Islanders made good on four of eight for 84. The Chiefs also had four fumbles and lost three, an area which they can't afford to win on Friday.

Block led the Huron ballcarriers as he chalked up 95 yards in 18 attempts.

Wayne's grid ship

in the fourth quarter drive," said Carter, "and force the issue into an overtime. It was a tough one to lose, but offensively, they controlled the game and had the ball, especially in that third quarter, most of the time."

"Fordson was just too physical for us up front," he added, "and to beat them I felt we had to shy away from key injuries and not make mistakes. Unfortunately, that's just what happened."

Statistics can be deceiving and in this game they were. Wayne had the edge in first downs 9-5 and chalked up 242 yards - 105 of those by Turbeville(18 carries) - on the ground. Korte completed eight of 14 passes for an additional 92 yards but he had two intercepted.

Mike Mason, who counted nine solo tackles and four assists, led the Wayne defensive corps from his linebacker's slot, while Ted Salvadori played another exceptional game. He collected seven solos and two assists and one of his jarring tackles caused a Fordson fumble. Keith Kolehmainen contributed six unassisted tackles and one assist.

If Wayne is to salvage a share of the championship it must get past Lincoln Park or the meeting with Monroe, a week from Friday in Monroe, would be meaningless for the Zebras.

Volleyball deadline set

The Romulus Parks and Recreation Department has set an October 20 deadline for players and teams wishing to enter the 1978-79 mixed volleyball league.

The league is opened to men and women, 16-years-of age and over. Games will be played Wednesday and Friday evenings at North Junior High.

There is a $75 registration fee for teams made up of local residents or players who work in the city; the fee for non-resident teams is $100.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning 941-0666, extension 67.

Inkster's Kenneth Crouch(84) goes up and grabs this interception during the recent Robichaud game and erased a scoring threat. Though Coach Arnice James' Vikings were turned back 12-0 in their Suburban 8 Conference opener they came back to beat Willow Run Friday to win their first game of the 1978 campaign.

talented tailback carried four straight times—the last a 9-yard burst—to up the score to 28-0 as DePendable DeLuca again split the uprights.

Linebacker Andy Pucci was like "bookends" on the next Glenn score. He recovered a Panther fumble on East's 34 and then capped the scoring drive by taking a 10-yard scoring pass from quarterback Suida as the third quarter ended. Delightful DeLuca made it 35-0 a moment later.

Junior quarterback Ken Liedel added the finishing touches on the rout. The smooth Rocket field general moved his troops half the distance of the field for their final tally.

Liedel passed 17 yards to Hagemann for a first down on the East 12-yard-line and senior fullback Jim Hendrian barrelled over on the next play.

Gordon singled out center Russ Hall, tackle Jeff Killingbeck, and Ruark and Thornton for fine offensive games, while linebackers Dan O'Brien and Andy Pucci and defensive lineman Brad Jennings also were outstanding.

Ruark gained 130 yards in 25 carries, Thornton rambled 54 yards in four tries, Hendrian rambled 83 in five, and Hagemann ambled 26 in two carries for Glenn, which totaled 298 yards on the ground. The Rockets added 61 through the air on five completions in 12 attempts.

For contrast, Glenn had 14 first downs to East's four, just one in the entire second half. Jeff Sikora gained only 21 yards in 12 attempts to lead the Panthers.

Dale Luke and Dan O'Brien intercepted passes for Glenn, who have momentum in approaching Thurston's Saturday afternoon game which starts at 2 p.m.

Dunking party for Zebras

Wayne welcomes back Truman's gal swimming

Wayne, the defending Great Lakes 8 Conference girls' swim champs, renewed competition with league rivals, Taylor Truman last week and Coach Jim McPartlin's tankers really lived it up.

The champs won a 119-53 victory over their rivals to serve notice that they are ready to defend their title. They are seeking an unprecedented fourth successive championship.

"Taylor didn't field a team a year ago because of financial problems in the school district," said Coach McPartlin, "they are reorganizing and will be stronger later in the year."

Meanwhile, Wayne swept all but two of the 11 events to dominate the opener. The Zebras will face Riverside, a Tri-River Conference representative on Thursday at home at 7 p.m., after getting their first look at neighborhood foes, John Glenn (Tuesday night).

Wayne also had the fifth, seventh and ninth spots nailed down thanks to Mark Michalowski, Andy Stopchinski and Dave Kose, while Belleville came up with a sixth in Tim McIntire, eighth, Mark Barrera and 13th, Tod Mlsna.

Belleville had no problems with non-conference rival, Taylor Kennedy, amassing a 16-47 victory over the Eagles while Wayne turned back Kennedy 15-49 in a double dual meet.

Meanwhile, Edsel Ford, the defending Suburban 8 Conference champ, received a record-breaking performance from Bill Fluharty who led the T-Birds to a 22-37 victory over Coach Dave Medley's Tigers.

Fluharty toured the three-mile course in 15:17, leading Belleville's Oakley to the wire. Oakley was second with a 15:27 and the Tigers also finished fourth with Thompson(15:51), eighth with McIntire, 11th and 12th with Mark Barrera and Mlsna, respectively.

Cougars are 'spoilers'

The Belleville Cougars tossed a wrench into the Westland Meteors' homecoming ceremonies as they took two of three football games from their arch rivals.

Derrick Dowling and Danny Ziegler scored touchdowns to spark the Cougars to a 12-0 victory over the Meteors' freshmen unit.

Meanwhile, the Junior Varsity clubs clashed head on and the collision produced a narrow 13-12 Cougar victory over the Meteors.

The Meteors estalished a 12-0 lead after two quarters but the Cougars refused to quit and came back to dominate the second half thanks to Mike Cameron who scored both Cougar TDs.

The Meteors managed to salvage the final game between the two varsity squads as the Meteors came out on top of a 18-6 battle. Brock Nigg's touchdown prevented the Westlanders from claiming a shutout.

Earlier, the Cougars picked up two victories and a tie from another Westland club, the Rockets, who dropped the freshmen game 19-0 and the junior varsity competition 6-0 but came back with their varsity unit to a 6-all tie.

Joy St. Andre, Lisa Scarano and Jane Kause were selected by the players to reign as Homecoming Queen for each squad.

Derrick Dowling, John Andrews and Danny Ziegler each scored for the freshmen in the 19-0 victory. Andrews contributed the extra point.

Jerry Umin sprinted 25-yards for a touchdown to provide the junior varsity with the winning margin, then a strong Cougar defense hung on for the victory.

James Daniels blocked a Westland punt on the Belleville 30-yard line to spark a 70-yard drive which culminated in Eric Ball's touchdown. That was the equalizer in the varsity confrontation.

Romulus touch gridders launch '78 campaign

A field of six teams have gathered to compete for the 1978 Romulus Parks and Recreation men's touch football league championship.

The league is made up of teams representing Walter's Bar, Ye Ole Mustache Lounge, Michigan Contractors, Lambart's, Hull Brothers and Chilcote Aluminum.

It didn't take long for Chilcote to serve notice that it is dead serious about winning the title as they blanked Hull's 18-0 in their first encounter of the season.

Pazowichski got Chilcote's insurance TD as he hit Fortier with a 25-yarder in the second half and Rathhate tallied the final six-pointer for the winners.

Ye Ole Mustache turned back Walter's 22-6 as Mach Stevens was at the throttle of the winner's offense. Stevens and Rich Bessaga combined on the first touchdown, a pass that covered 35 yards with 1:58 left in the initial quarter.

The winners built up a 12-0 lead before halftime when Joe Sommers raced over the the goal line and a pass from Stevens to Ollie Malta accounted for the two-point conversion, making it 14-0 at the half.

Ron Bostick tallied Walter's first touchdown of the season to narrow the gap to 14-6, however, the loungemen countered with Stevens capping a sustained drive with another TD aerial to Bessaga.

Michigan Contractors also got off to an excellent start as it crushed Lambart's 22-6. Lambart's drew first blood though as Lansky scored on a pass interception with 2:23 remaining in the first quarter.

McMann tied it with a long TD sprint and the contractors made the two-point conversion to go ahead for good.

Bilbury returned the second half kickoff for a touchdown to widen the margin to 14-6 and Jerry DeBuysscher's two point conversion made it 16-6.

Security lighting has always meant "Glad to be home."

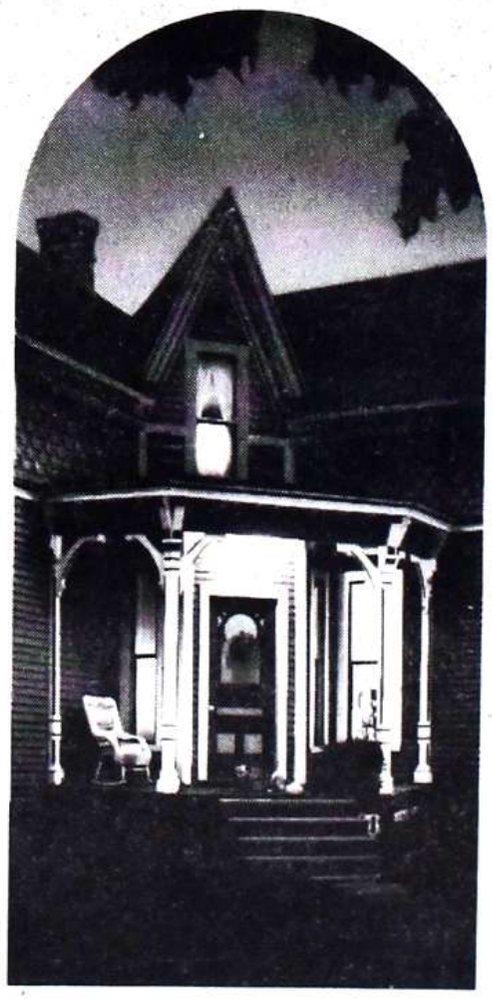
Seeing the lights on, waiting for you to arrive home after dark, has always been a welcome sight.

And when you're at home, lights can give you a feeling of security.

In the old days they didn't call it security lighting. But that's what it was. Because lights at night have always offered safety and protection.

Today you have a wide choice of security lighting. Including electric post lanterns for your front and back lawns that operate only from dusk til dawn. Floodlights to light your driveway and garage. And garden lights that not only protect, but add new dimensions to outdoor living.

Even the lights inside your home can be part of your security lighting system and, with automatic controls, can give your house a lived-in look when you're away.



Security lighting costs less than you might think. Neither energy nor dollars are wasted when your system is automatically controlled with timers or photoelectric cells to go on only when needed.

Detroit Edison can help you plan energy-efficient security lighting for your home or business. Call or stop in at any Detroit Edison Customer Office.

Security lighting. It's a bright idea that's come home.

Save where it really counts. The power is in your hands.

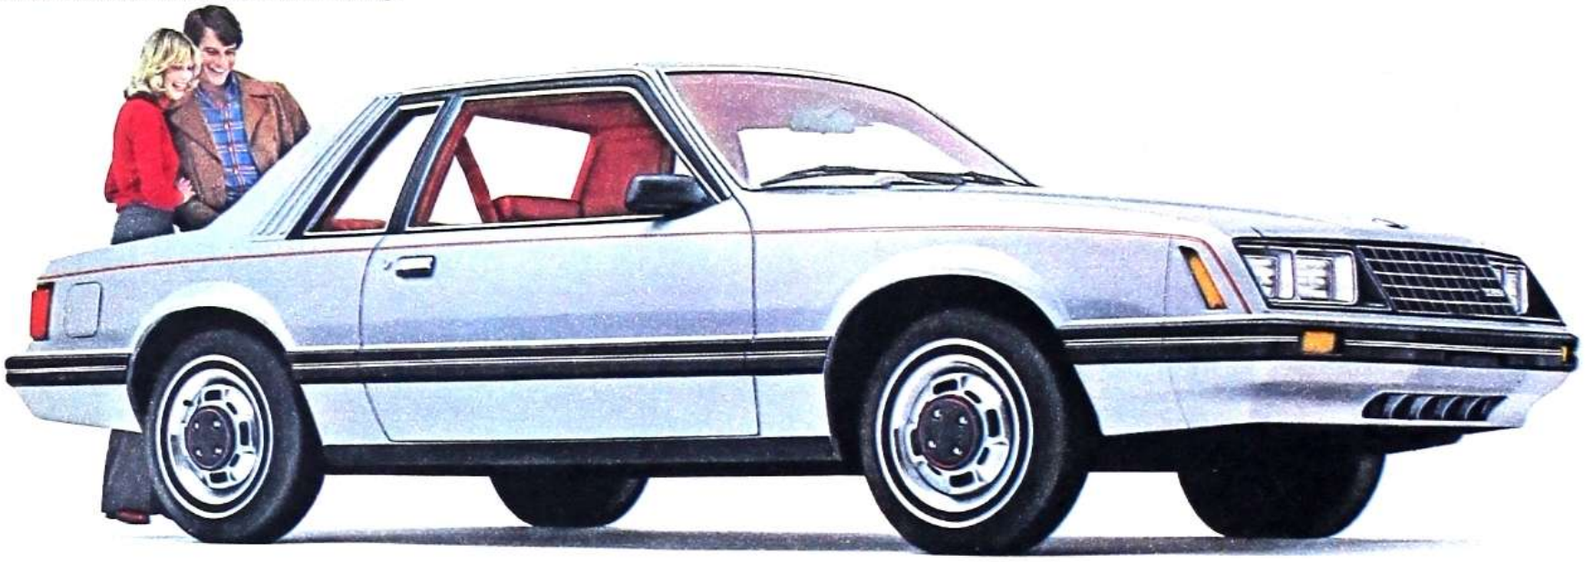
MUSTANG
1979: The New Breed.

"A whole New Breed with sportscar styling."



Mustang 2-door Sport in Silver Metallic

Presenting a whole New Breed of Mustang for 1979—with dramatic new sportscar styling giving it one of the most aerodynamically efficient designs of any car now built in America. And precise handling with sportscar features like rack 'n pinion steering and a suspension system that helps flatten corners. Choose from four engines: a standard 2.3 litre overhead cam engine or options of V-6, V-8...even a Turbocharged Mustang. This Mustang is roomier and wider than last year. Yet, with all this, it's still sticker priced to help you bring one home. In 2-door or 3-door models. At your Ford Dealer's...take a test drive in the new 1979 Ford Mustang.

"Let's go for a test drive."

Mustang 3-door Sport in Tangerine

LTD
1979: A New American Road Car.

"It's sure got the room we need."

"And the luxury we've been promising ourselves."

Ford LTD Landau 4-door
in Red Glow with Dark Red vinyl roof

Introducing the most completely new LTD in 14 years. Truly a new American Road Car for 1979. With more passenger room than last year for road car comfort on long trips, more handling ease and more window area. In addition to its standard 5.0 litre V-8 engine, every 1979 LTD comes equipped with important full-size car features in 2-door, 4-door and wagon models. LTD for 1979—a road car to take you across town or across the country. Prove it...take a test drive.

More about mileage. At the time of publication, 1979 EPA estimates were unavailable. See your local Ford Dealer for actual 1979 EPA mileage economy estimates.

"Test drive it and see why we call it the New American Road Car."

Ford LTD Landau 2-door in Black with Camel vinyl roof

FAIRMONT

The best selling new car ever introduced.

Fairmont 4-door in Dark Pine Metallic with Chamois vinyl roof

In the 1978 model year more Fairmonts were sold than any other new car nameplate ever. Now Ford introduces the 1979 Fairmont. Priced right, it provides roomy comfort for five. In fact, Fairmont has almost 90% of the room of most full-size cars* and great EPA mileage estimates† In 2-door, 4-door and 4-door wagon models.

*Based on EPA Interior Volume Index compared to 1978 models. †See mileage box on page three for more information about EPA mileage economy ratings and estimates

FUTURA

The Futura is now.

Sporty Futura Coupe in Midnight Blue Metallic

There's a unique personal car for now—the '79 Ford Fairmont Futura. Futura gives you advanced styling with the look of tomorrow, now. Futura has the space efficiency for now ...with comfortable seating for five. Futura has great EPA gas mileage ratings† and a price that says why wait. With Ford's Fairmont Futura...the future isn't someday. It's here right now! Take a test drive at your local Ford Dealer...today.

PINTO

"A new ESS model with sporty European styling."

New Pinto ESS in Silver Metallic

"Another new model... with all of Pinto's standard features."

New Pinto 3-door with Cruising Package in Polar White

"And new inside."

New Pinto 2-door in Bright Red

A new look inside and out for '79. Pinto, more than 2½ million sold since its introduction, offers fresh choices like the new ESS with a sporty European look. And Pinto comes with standard equipment like bucket seats, AM radio (may be deleted for credit), electric rear window defroster, front disc brakes, tinted glass all around, electronic ignition, rack and pinion steering and more. All this value... at a surprising price.

FIESTA Wundercar.

"Built in Germany and backed by Ford."

"No wonder it's Europe's success car."*

Fiesta Sport in Yellow

Fiesta Ghia in Dark Blue

Ford's imported Fiesta really is a little Wundercar. It has front-wheel drive and Michelin steel-belted radial tires for sure-footed traction to handle ice and snow. There's rack and pinion steering and other standard features that would warm a car buff's heart. And over 5,400 Ford Dealers coast to coast provide convenient service for your Wundercar. Take a test drive, now.

*Per sales comparison of new car nameplates in the first 16 months

THUNDERBIRD

Come fly with me!

"It's more than a car. It's a legend."

Thunderbird Heritage in Maroon

This new 1979 Thunderbird Heritage is the most exclusive Thunderbird we offer. As you'd expect from a car that has become a legend in luxury, this very special Thunderbird comes with power front disc brakes, automatic transmission, AM/FM Stereo Search Radio, power steering, power windows, six-way driver's seat, power door locks, air conditioning and more. See what it's like to drive a "legend." At your Ford Dealer's.

Traditional style and value in a sporty mid-size car.

If you're in the market for a 6-passenger car, 2-door or 4-door, take a ride in Ford's LTD II. It's a trim, sporty, mid-size car at a surprising price. But you get the room, luxury and standard features which are optional on many other cars: automatic transmission, power steering, power front disc brakes, V-8 engine, steel-belted radials and more.

LTD II

"It's like they made it for me... sporty and practical."

LTD II 2-door Brougham in Pastel Chamois

GRANADA

An American Classic.

"It sure looks like a Mercedes."

"Except for the price."

Granada Ghia 4-door in Silver Metallic/Black

If you want the best of both worlds—European luxury car styling—and a Granada price—see your Ford Dealer. Make your own comparison.

Compare Granada's elegant styling and clean functional lines with far more expensive cars like Mercedes-Benz. Its ride is largely due to Granada's independent front suspension with stabilizer bar and Hotchkiss rear suspension. In 2-door, 4-door, Granada Ghia and ESS models.

For the past 13 years in a row, Ford's Wagon line-up has outsold all others.*

Ford LTD Squire Wagon in Medium Blue Glow

*Per R. L. Polk registration data through May 1978.

Fairmont Squire Wagon in White

*Per R. L. Polk registration data through May 1978.

LTD Here's a new wagon for the American Road from the Wagonmaster. Ford's all-new 6-passenger LTD for 1979 (eight passengers with optional dual-facing rear seats). A wagon with more handling ease, more window area, more passenger room than last year's Ford Country Squire. That's efficient design! That's riding in comfort! Try it.

FAIRMONT America's favorite . . . the best-selling 1978 wagon in the country. Fairmont is trim, sleek and easy to handle, with plenty of room and comfort for five and a generous cargo area. Try this one on for size.

Pinto Squire Wagon in Tangerine

Captain's Club Wagon in Walnut Glow/Light Sand

PINTO Since its introduction in 1972, Pinto Wagon has been a sales success. It has room, surprising cargo space, sporty good looks and many standard features for added comfort and convenience.

CAPTAIN'S CLUB The new 7-passenger model (shown above) has quad swivel/reclining seats and a seat-bed combo. Other Captain's Club models seat up to 15.

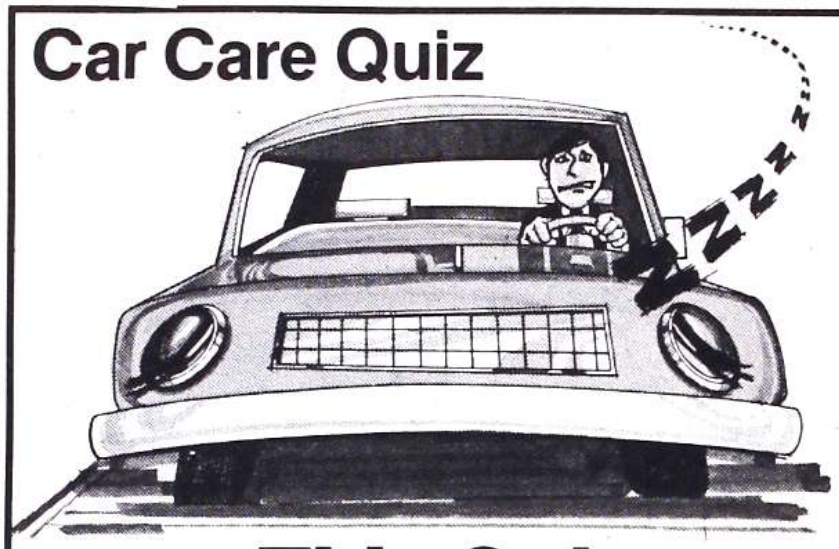
Car Care Quiz



This Quiz May Give You A Start

Somewhere, some time, when you least expect it, your car will encounter a starting problem. According to statistics issued by AAA, that's one of the safest bets you can make.

About 50 percent of the calls AAA's emergency road service answers are for starting assistance.

This quiz is intended to provide information on starting problems to help you avoid them this coming winter.

1. According to a nationwide survey report, the best way to correct a starting problem is:
- A. Replace the battery.
- B. Recharge the battery.
- C. Tune the engine.

2. According to the same survey the geographic area encountering the least problems last winter was:
- A. The Western Mountain states.
- B. The Pacific Coast states.
- C. The Southeastern states.

3. The area with the highest rate of starting trouble last winter was:
- A. The New England states.
- B. The Middle Atlantic states.
- C. The West North Central states.

4. Comparing motorists in Louisiana and Minnesota last winter, who had the highest rate of starting problems?
- A. Minnesota.
- B. Louisiana.
- C. No difference.

5. When the battery is at full strength and the temperature is at freezing (32° F), at what percentage of power does the battery operate?
- A. 90 percent.
- B. 60 percent.
- C. 45 percent.

6. The primary reason cars will not start is:
- A. Voltage available in the ignition system exceeds voltage required to fire the spark plugs.
- B. Voltage required to fire the spark plugs exceeds voltage available from the ignition.
- C. There's a leak in the transmission linkage.

7. If you turn the ignition key and all you hear is a click, probable cause is:
- A. Spark plugs are worn.
- B. Coil wire is loose.
- C. Battery problem.

8. To help a car start in cold winter weather, one should:
- A. Operate on as little gas as possible in the tank so fuel won't freeze.
- B. Keep tank as full as possible to avoid fuel line freeze.
- C. Use only premium fuel because it doesn't get as cold.

9. If you don't have a garage, the way to help start a car on a cold morning is:
- A. Park vehicle with back to prevailing wind.
- B. Park with the hood close to any building.
- C. Put a blanket over the hood.

10. One reason motorists in the Sun Belt areas have as much starting trouble as those in cold weather states is:
- A. Ozone levels in warm climates hamper starting.
- B. Battery water levels are allowed to drop.
- C. Ignition system maintenance is poorer.

Answers: 1:C (Engines that are tuned after starting trouble have less than half the incidence of repeated trouble than do engines with batteries serviced.) 2:A (The area including the Rocky Mountain states had fewer starting problems than did areas including California and Florida.) 3:B 4:C 5:B 6:B 7:C 8:B 9:A,B and C 10:C

Ladies: Start your engines

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

Man or woman, young or small . . . Nine times out of 10 you've driven a car. When it needed gas, you pulled into a gas station and a pump jockey — at your bidding — filled it up.

When you got a flat, it was simply a matter of calling for road service. And if the air was low in a front or rear tire, friendly mechanic, with a handy-dandy guage, corrected the deficiency.

But more and more gas stations a swinging away from full service. Now it's self-serve at the gas pumps, clean your own windows anc check your own air pressure, or it's frequent a service station that offers those nicities at a price.

Being a woman, the workings of an internal combustion engine just doesn't have the appeal that a sewing catologue does. But in the past few years I have found out about my "wheels" through experience.

I've had close encounters with a flat tire in the dead of winter, a malfunctioning air conditioner in the hottest part of the summer, and a passing gear that didn't know when to quit.

Out of an urge to save money, I learned to pump my own gas, and out of need for more windshield wiper solvent I learned how to put the hood up on the car and locate the holding tank.

But by far my coup'd etat was the air conditioning fuse.

It was by chance I discovered where the gadget—no larger than a pill box—was located. When a big car gets hot in the summer, its gets hot. And when the air conditioning unit is blowing out hot air like a blast furnace, it's a good indication that there's something wrong.

A quick trip to our friendly mechanic corrected the situation, and it was by watching him that I found out where the fuse was.

Little did we know that the blown fuse meant a larger problem — a freon leak — and less than two weeks later in small town up north, the unit again was blowing hot air.

I headed to town to get the fuse replaced. I stopped at one gas station, and had to show the attendant what I was talking about. His directions to me were simple.

"Lady, you seem to know what you want. Why don't you drive down to the auto parts store, buy the fuse and replace it yourself."

It was my moment of triumph. I not only got the right part, but managed to get the hood up and the new fuse in without incident.

The moral of the story is this. Your car isn't just a piece of smelly machinery that gets you from one spot to another. You take care of it, and it will take care of you.

A total lack of knowledge about your car can prove to be disasterous. I found that out when I had to change a flat tire. I knew how to get the tire of the tire out of the trunk, but where the jack went and lifting the wheel onto the axel . . well, I had th stand around and look helpless.

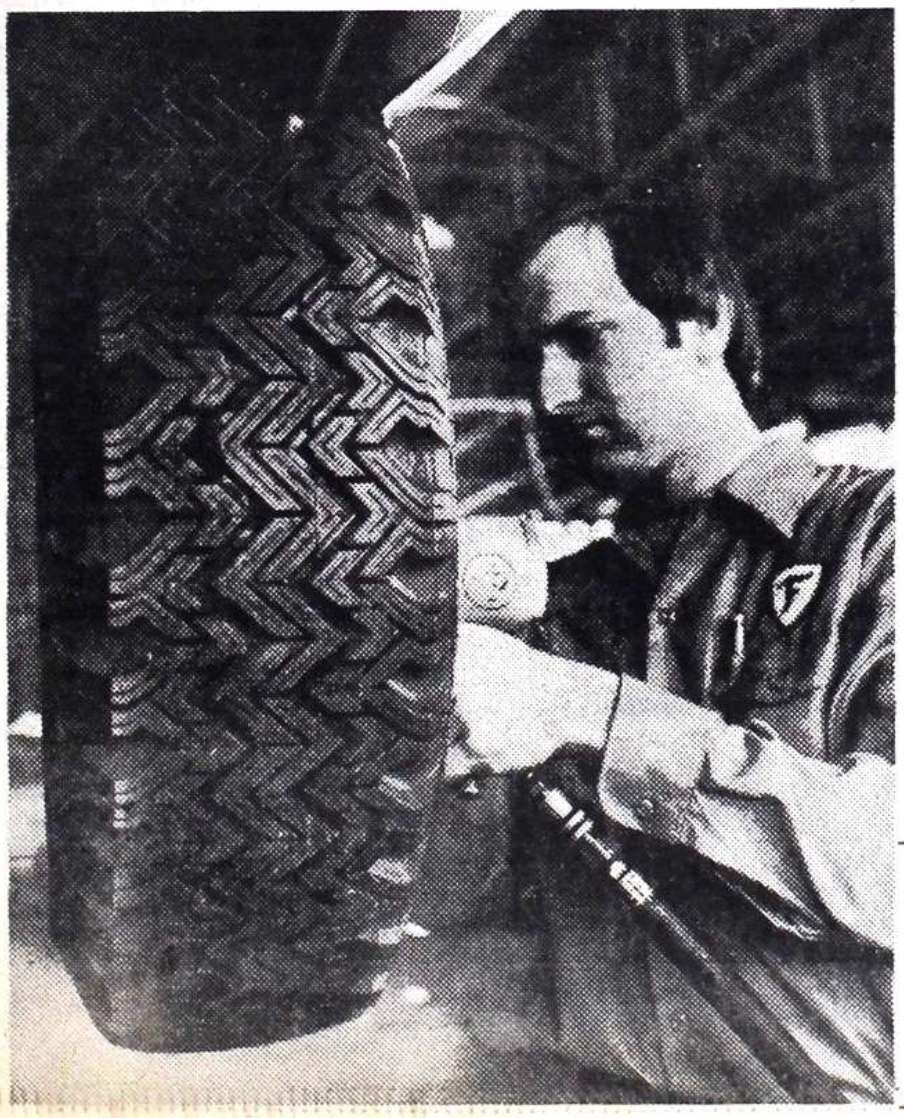
Simple know-how goes along way. That's why every chance I get, which is mainly at tune-up time, I have my head under the hood finding out what the thing-a-mabob or which-a-jigger is.

Now, if only someone would show me how to check my oil . . .

Locating the key parts of the engine, such as the air cleaner housing, is indispensible to performing maintenance. A free publication, Guide to an Easy Car Tune-Up, provides such information.

A growing trend

'Powder Puff' mechanics bloom



By CONNIE MILFORD
ANP Staff Writer

Ah, the intricacies of the modern motor vehicle!

The automobile is annoying enough to deal with when it leaks oil, loses brake fluid, gobbles gas, or blows a tire doing 65 down an expressway posted for less; let alone when it needs a change of filter, replacement of headlamp or a seasonal tuneup.

For many years, women were not supposed to know how to deal with these things. It was always presumed that a strong, knowledgable male was lurking somewhere around the corner (or behind the wheel) to take these matters out of her delicate little hands.

Not so. Today there are not only too few males of any age lurking around, there are more women than ever left on their own, alone, stranded on the expressway with their malfunctioning motor car.

A number of courses have sprung up to fill this obvious need.

Loosely referred to as "powder puff mechanics", the courses propose to teach women the fundamentals of car maintenance.

Some of the things which these courses teach range from the very fundamental checking your oil to the more sophisticated — giving your car a tuneup on your own.

They do not go into the "heavy stuff" like welding and bumping — but after this course any interested student will be able to go on and learn how to be an auto mechanic, if she so desires.

The whole point is familiarizing females with what's under the hood — what a carbeurator, radiator or battery looks like . . . . .

The local community colleges are offering these basic auto mechanics courses this fall, cheifly through the auspices of Community Service Programs.

Both Wayne County Community College and Schoolcraft College are offering the course this fall. So is the Wayne-Westland YMCA.

At Schoolcraft, the course is called "Automobile Fundamentals for Women," and runs Friday evenings from 8 to 10 p.m.

Residents of the district must pay $15 for the one-credit-hour course, plus three dollars for the fee, or $18.50 total. Non-residents must pay $26 plus the three dollars, or $29 to take the course.

For WCCC, the course will be offered at the new Downriver Regional Center in Taylor, at 21000 Northline Road.

In the Wayne-Westland area, the course is being aired by the YMCA, Tuesdays, from 7-8 p.m., fees from $9 to $18.

And these, at least ought to help the far-from-helpless female off the highway and back into the automobile — as far as the next service station anyway.

For most of us in snow belt areas, winter means time for snow tires. Have snow tires mounted early enough to save yourself the aggravation of long lines and long waits when the snow flies. And remember that frequent tire air pressure checks are needed during the winter as well as during warmer months. A tire loses one pound of pressure for every 10-degree drop in temperature.

Weather accounts for vehicle fatalities

Driving in inclement weather accounts for more than 30 percent of all vehicle accidents and more than 20 percent of all vehicle fatalities.

The odds of having an accident however, can be greatly reduced if the motorist follows a few simple rules of safe driving.

Whenever driving on slippery road surfaces, reduce speed accordingly and allow at least 50 percent more following distance behind the car in front of you. The stopping ability of any vehicle is reduced on slick pavements, and that extra distance may just be the margin of safety you need.

Maintain a smooth, even acceleration while traveling on slick pavements. Sudden braking can cause loss of vehicle control, and, taking your foot off the accelerator quickly can have the same effect as sudden braking.

Hydroplaning occurs when standing water on a road surface is deeper than the tread depth of tires, causing the tires to lose contact with the road. If this happens, do not apply the brakes. Ease back on the accelerator until contact between tires and road surface is restored. Hard braking can cause loss of vehicle control.

In wet weather, brakes get damp and lose effectiveness. Keep them dry and ready for instant use by lightly riding the brake pedal for several seconds and at regular intervals during wet weather driving. The heat produced by riding the pedal will dry the brake lining.

Have your vehicle's braking system inspected periodically, at least once a year. Even poor brakes sometimes perform adequately under normal driving conditions, but, should an emergency arise, poor brakes can fail. The only way to insure safe braking is to have the entire system inspected regularly by a qualified mechanic.

Beware of polished ice, made smooth by tires. This type of ice is usually warmer than surrounding ice, and ice at 30 degrees is twice as slippery as ice at 0 degrees.

Wet leaves can be as slippery as ice. Slow down accordingly.

Patches of ice or snow cause about one-third of all accidents on icy or snow covered roadways. Look for ice in shaded areas, and reduce speed. Partially melted ice or snow in sunny spots can be extremely dangerous. Water on top of ice makes it more slippery.

In snow, try to follow previous vehicle tracks. Alter speed and direction gradually. The probability of a skid increases with sudden movements—even during down-shifting and deceleration.

When stopping on a slippery pavement, pump brakes lightly and hold the steering wheel firmly. Apply steering only when foot is off brake pedal.

When starting from snow or ice, accelerate slowly and keep the front wheels straight. Back the car a few feet, then move forward in the same tracks so that the car can get over the humps of snow left by the rear wheels.

If stuck in snow, avoid sitting in the car with the windows up and the engine running. Carbon monoxide fumes from the exhaust can cause death. Remove snow and slush from behind and in front of wheels, and from tailpipe. Rock car gently forward and backward.

Women's winter worries

Snow's initial excitement turns to 'slush'

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

There's probably nothing that's going to make you feel exactly good about driving in the snow this winter. The exhilerating feeling you'll get that first morning you look out the window and see that first blanket of the white stuff will quickly turn to dread as you think of actually going out and driving anywhere in the stuff.

If there is anything at all that will at least ease the pain a bit, it is knowing that you and your car are equipped with the safety and first aid items that might help you out of a pinch.

You'll hope you never have to use them, but you'll always be glad to have them there.

It is common for women especially to feel insecure and unsafe while driving in the winter.

So take steps now to stock up with items on a safety check list, compiled from information distributed by experts, and by drivers who have been there and found their stockpile wanting.

(1) Any time of year, you need a first aid kit. It will include bandages and tape, antiseptic, salve, aspirin, smelling salts. Include a book of matches, and any other odds and ends (chapstick, lotion) that you may want sometime.

(2) In your glove compartment should be a flashlight in working order, and a recognized highway distress flag or signal. Some auto clubs or CB groups give out orange flags that the driver can attach to the car window or antennea signalling need for help. A red or white cloth could do the same.

If you want to get extravagant, you may want to stock flares in your trunk, but learn how to use them correctly to warn oncoming traffic, if your car is stalled at the side of the road. Women who are totally without knowledge of the car should also find out such basics as how to open the hood of the car (to signal motor trouble) and how to turn on the emergency flashers.

(3) Especially if you're a single person who frequently drives alone, but also in cases of families, a warm blanket tossed in the back seat is not only a good seat warmer, but a "security blanket" in case you're stuck in your car for any period of time. If being "snowed in" for a couple of hours during long distance expressway driving is on your mind, go ahead and stock some non-perishable food, such as candy bars or snack foods in your glove compartment. And always drive with at least a half tank or more of gasoline.

(4) Naturally, the quickest network for getting help, if you're in trouble, is through the Citizens Band radio. Even if you're not "into" CB lingo, if you have such a radio, keep it in the car for use in emergencies.

(5) It should go without saying, that your snow equipment should include a scraper for ice, and bruch for sweeping away snow from windshields and lights. These belong in the car, easy to reach. Get them before the first snow fall, so you're not caught with a couple inches of powdery snow on your car and no equipment to get it off. Some women go so far as to carry a snow shovel in the car or trunk, too. If nothing else, it's a good feeling to know that, if all else fails, you can dig your wheels out of the slush.

(6) If you drive a small compact car, light in weight, some extra weight in the trunk — bags of dirt or cement — can give you extra traction in the snow. And jumper cables in your trunk will always be a good idea. Learn how to use them, it's not difficult.

(7) Have in your trunk solvent for cleaning windows. Grimey slush on your window can be as hazardous as ice under your tires.

(8) Finally, a suggestion comes from one who's been there. Even if you're going only a short distance, or on your way to a special occasion, dress warmly. Take gloves, a warm hat, wear boots. No one ever "plans" to get stalled, stuck in a snowbank, involved in a fender bender or other mishaps where you may end up outside your car exposed to all the elements.

And it is likely that if you're well prepared for the worst, it will never happen. That's one of nature's laws.

There were times last winter when the streets of Northeastern metropolises resembled ski resorts. Heavy snow falls were just some of the conditions challenging motorists throughout the U.S. Only those car owners who had prepared their vehicles for the harsh weather were able to cope and keep going. A pre-winter check will help motorists avoid trouble during the coming months. Photo courtesy New York Daily News.

Perma-T Grippers

Legal studs available for winter

A growing number of motorists who want to get a better grip on winter roads this season will be depending on snow tires and chains rather than studs.

The only studded snow tires permitted on Michigan roads are radial-ply tires equipped with soft studs known commercially as Perma-T Grippers. Any other types of studded tires have been illegal in Michigan since 1975.

The firm that introduced Perma-T Grippers discontinued their manufacture in 1976 and says that they have not been manufactured since. The only known Michigan distributors say supplies of the legal studs are sufficient to meet demand this vear.

Approved studs may be used on Michigan roads north of a line from Mason to Arenac counties from Oct. 1 to May 1. Below that line, they are permitted from Nov. 15 to April 1.

Michigan motorists traveling state roads with illegal studs or with legal studs outside the set time periods are subject to a fine of up to $100, a jail sentence of up to 90 days, or both.

However, it is the practice of Michigan State Police to extend to out-of-state motorists traveling Michigan roads the same privileges for studded tires permitted in their home states.

Studs are illegal at any time in neighboring Wisconsin and Ontario. Ten other states in which studs are totally banned are Florida, Hawaii, Illinois, Louisiana, Minnesota, Mississippi, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas and Utah. (Minnesota permits out-of-state motorists with studded tires to drive on its roads for 30 days.)

Twenty-seven states allow studs, with varying time restrictions. The District of Columbia permits studded tire use from Oct. 15 to April 15. New Mexico permits studded tires, with no specific time limit, but law states they are permitted "only when required for safety because of...conditions causing a vehicle to skid," and the law is "subject to local interpretation."

Eleven states have no restrictions. They are Alabama, Colorado, Georgia, Kentucky, New Hampshire, North Carolina, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont and Wyoming.

The Canadian provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, plus the Northwest and Yukon territories, have no studded tire restrictions. British Columbia and Manitoba allow studs from Oct. 1 to April 30; New Brunswick, Oct. 16-April 14; Nova Scotia, Oct. 15-April 15; Newfoundland, Nov. 1-April 30, and Prince Edward Island, Oct. 1-May 31.

The province of Quebec allows studded tires on vehicles weighing under 5,000 pounds from Oct. 15 to May 1. They are banned on vehicles weighing more than 5,000 pounds, including buses and trucks.

Tire safety tips

In our mobile society, the automobile has become an indispensable element of suburban life. If, like 84 percent of Americans, you rely on your car for daily transportation to work, school, shopping or pleasure, you want to make sure that it's always in condition to get you there safe and sound. Yet each day, in every state, hundreds of commuter circuits, shopping trips and vacation outings end in accidents caused by improper vehicle maintenance.

One of the most important, and often neglected aspects of vehicle maintenance is tire condition. Several years ago, highway safety researchers at Indiana University conducted an in-depth study of traffic accidents for the U.S. Department of Transportation. Of the 1,305 accidents studied, 4.2 percent were caused by vehicular problems. In each of these cases, according to the study, vehicles with bald or under-inflated tires were involved. The other accidents were attributed to human error (83.2 percent), with environmental conditions responsible for 16.4 percent.

Driver training programs, public service announcements, eyewitness traffic accidents and plain common sense all serve as warnings to motorists of the risks of driving on bald tires. But time and time again the safety warnings go unheeded, and drivers continue to end up among the statistics.

Not only is driving on bald tires unsafe—in many states it is illegal. According to

Emission inspection programs such as the one in force in Phoenix, Ariz., are paying off in cleaner air. Complete Auto Center

Have you been going in five different directions to take care of your motor vehicles, getting gasoline here, washing the car there, taking the truck somewhere else for repair?

Well, now all that is available under one roof. The Complete Auto Center, at 25780 Joy at Beech Daly, Redford, has just opened its doors, and there are no less than five departments under the same roof.

Owner Harry Kief says this is the largest facility in this area and only the second one of its kind. He owns the other, in Detroit.

"We have a complete computer analysis center," he said, and a complete diagnostic checkout with a Dyno machine. "We also have a collision shop, glass and trim shop heavy truck repair, mobile home service, frame straightening, a car wash and full service gas pumping with diesel fuel included!"

They also have a complete auto parts retail store — all under the same roof, he said.

So, theoretically, you could bring in your car, truck or van for repair, buy a few trims while you wait, then after you drive it out, get a fillup and wash before you go.

Complete Auto Center held its grand opening the third week in September, beginning September 22, and offered specials in a number of departments, and washes for half off.

The center may be reached by calling 937-0770, or by just driving in. No appointment is necessary, Kief said.

Ping, ping, knock, knock, equals problem

By FRED W. KLINE

If you hear a ping or a spark knock emanating from your engine, the problem may be corrected without a great deal of difficulty.

First, of course, you have to determine what is causing the noise. It could be an overheating problem, in which case the cause of overheating must be determined and corrected. This could be as simple as a leaky radiator hose or something more complicated, such as a broken radiator or a faulty thermometer.

Or, the ping or knock could be caused by the use of gasoline with an octane rating too low for your engine. That's easy, obviously, shift to a higher octane fuel.

The cause could be that the timing is advanced excessively. Simply reset the timing to the manufacturers specifications.

Or there might be an excess of carbon deposits in the combustion chamber. In that case, add combustion chamber conditioner to the engine. If the problem still exsists, remove the cylinder heads and clean out the deposits.

Don't be too quick to blame the battery.

Cold weather does an interesting double-whammy to your car. When the outside temperature gets down to 40°, even a brand-new battery has only three-quarters of the power it had when it was 80°. And at the same time, your engine requires 35% more power to turn over. It gets worse. At 0°, that battery has only one-half of its power, and your engine needs 210% more power to turn over. Your spark plugs are in the middle. If they're worn they can require twice as much voltage to fire as new plugs. There may not be enough power left during cranking to fire the plugs. Result. A car that won't start. Solution. A tune-up with a fresh set of Champion spark plugs. It's one of the best ways to make sure your car starts. So, if you've got starting problems, don't always blame the battery. Replace those worn spark plugs with fresh Champions, the world's best-selling plug.

Try this quiz and see if you know how car's cooling system works

Among the most popular projects for home-mechanics is cooling system service. Most people have the mechanical aptitude to handle routine chores in this department.

Whether you do the work or have it done by your mechanic, you're ahead of the game if you have at least a basic understanding of the cooling system and how it works.

To test your knowledge, Automotive Cooling System Institute offers this quiz.

1. Replace a radiator hose whenever it
- a. turns a different color
- b. feels soft and mushy
- c. squeals or growls

2. A radiator cap is designed to
- a. keep water from sloshing out of the radiator
- b. keep the cooling system at a specified pressure
- c. last indefinitely

3. A broken drive belt can cause
- a. overheating
- b. loss of power steering
- c. your battery to go dead

4. In your cooling system the thermostat
- a. controls engine temperature
- b. works the air conditioner
- c. modulates the diodes

5. Antifreeze/coolant should be replaced
- a. only if it shows rust
- b. annually on most cars
- c. when the engine overheats repeatedly

6. The fan clutch is designed to
- a. reduce engine load and save fuel
- b. connect the water pump to the thermostat
- c. shift gears

7. If your radiator boils over,
- a. remove the cap at once and pour in cold water
- b. run the engine at fast idle
- c. pour in some anti-freeze

8. When replacing a radiator hose, hose clamps should be
- a. removed with a hack saw
- b. replaced with new ones
- c. oiled

9. Number one cause of breakdowns on the road is
- a. cooling system trouble
- b. battery failure
- c. running out of gas

10. The best way to have your cooling system checked for leaks is with
- a. a magnifying glass
- b. a pressure tester
- c. a vacuum gauge

ANSWERS

1. b. But you should have done so before it got in this condition.

2. b. And be sure you install the right cap for your system. Pressure recommendations vary. Also, look for a pressure cap with the safety relief lever or button.

3. a., b., and c. They're all correct, depending upon which drive belt breaks. Many cars have three belts under the hood.

4. a. The thermostat is intended to maintain very close temperature tolerances. NEVER remove the thermostat for summer driving. Your car needs one all year 'round.

5. b. The term "permanent" generally associated with antifreeze is a misnomer. Anti-freeze/coolant should be replaced annually after the car is two years old.

6. a. Free-wheeling fans and flexible blade fans are becoming more popular, especially with higher demands on cooling systems and with greater concern for fuel economy.

7. None of the three. Never open the pressure cap on an overheating engine. Instead, let the engine cool. Then, with a thick wad of cloth or toweling, carefully remove the cap to release the pressure gradually.

8. b. To assure a tight seal on your new hose, install new clamps.

9. a. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

10. b. Most mechanics are equipped with pressure testers and usually have a minimal charge for this service.

With 170,000 vehicles in its fleet nationwide, the Bell system is waging a major campaign to save on energy. By operating fuel efficient vehicles, training drivers to drive with fuel costs in mind and practicing good maintenance, Bell has realized a five percent saving in energy expenses.

Lubrication is not just a 'grease job'

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

There's nothing better for your care to keep it running right than preventive maintenance, and that's the classification that a "lube" falls under.

According to Westland mechanic Al Millyard, most automakers recommend a lube job about every 6,000 miles. He added that such work generally is done with an oil change.

A lube job involves the chassis of the car. The fittings are greased, and the rear end, transmission and brake fluids, tires, battery and radiator are checked in the process.

Millyard went on to say that in this preventive check-up, steering linkage, tie rods and ball joints should be checked. If they were to rust, a motorist very well could have the linkage break and lose control of the vehicle.

Another item that should be checked at the shock absorbers.

Millyard said there is no set millage or time period for when shocks should be checked, but a good test to see if your shocks are good is to bounce the car and see how fast it regains a level ride.

"One or two bounces generally means the shocks are pretty good," Millyard said.

Worn shocks can cause damage to a cars tires. Cupping, or worn spots or indentations on the tires, is one indication of bad shocks, as is leakage from the chamber itself.

Different types of shock absorbers are available, Millyard said. On the market today are double — and single — action shocks, load leveling types, some for trailer set-ups and even air shocks, in which the air pressure is adjusted to the kind of ride you want.

Millyard cautioned that tire wear is not the only damage that worn shocks can cause. They can lead to damage to the front end suspension and a possible loss of control of the car's rear end, making it difficult to keep a car in a straight line.

But the best recommendation Millyard has for motorists to avoid worn shocks and the problems caused by a lack of lube work, is preventive maintenance.

Bell calculated potential fuel savings from proper maintenance.

Some observers predict that by the end of 1982 more than 100 areas of the U.S. will require inspection and maintenance programs to make certain pollution control devices developed by car makers are kept in working order.

Batteries are dangerous

In a world of precautionary labels, put this one on your "must read" list: stating, simply, DANGER ... EXPLOSIVE GASES, the warning on your car's battery also says POISON ... CAUSES SEVERE BURNS.

Sound scary? Consider that the battery is a device which uses chemicals to produce electrical energy. In so doing, it creates an explosive mixture of hydrogen and oxygen.

The ill-fated dirigible Hindenburg was filled with hydrogen.

A battery explosion can cause blindness, among other injuries, so the Car Care Council lists six don'ts to remember when you are working around the battery:

1) Don't use a match or cigarette lighter to illuminate what you are doing.

2) Don't lean over the battery when working on it.

3) Don't connect the ground jumper cable to the run-down battery. Instead, hook it to the frame of the car, as far as possible from the battery.

4) Don't be careless when using tools around the battery. You might accidentally make a direct connection from the hot terminal to a grounded part of the car, creating a very hot spark.

5) Don't hook up your battery charger incorrectly. Instead, follow the directions on the charger and be sure to plug in the charger to 110 v. current after you've made your battery connections.

the Tire Industry Safety Council, 40 states and the District of Columbia have adopted minimum tread depth requirements of 2-32 inch. California requires 1-32 minimum.

Iowa was the first state to adopt the 2-32-inch law, way back in 1929. Not until 32 years later, when Louisiana adopted a minimum tread depth law, did some sort of regulation begin to become widespread. Between 1963-1977, all but nine states moved to adopt minimum tread depth standards and establish their own degree of enforcement.

Some states, such as Kentucky and Nebraska, have no formal law, but abide by federal standards and regulations from the National Traffic and Safety Administration Missouri and Arkansas also have no state minimum law, but require vehicles, including the tires, to be checked yearly at certified inspection stations. Montana, Arizona and Tennessee are among the few states which still have no minimum laws, and no inspection or enforcement.

In addition to annual vehicle inspections, spot checks conducted by state Highway Patrol officers are a widespread method of checking tires for safe, sufficient tread depth.

During the vehicle inspection, tread depth is checked visually or with a guage calculated in 32nds of an inch. The vehicle may be rejected if a tread depth of less than state minimum requirements is measured in any two major tread grooves, at three equally spaced locations around the circumference of the tire. Tire replacement also is indicated, if tread wear indicators contact the road in any two adjacent grooves at three equally spaced locations. Other tire-oriented reasons for vehicle rejection include:

— Bumps, bulges or knots which affect the tire structure.

— Breaks in the casing which have been repaired with a boot or patch.

— Tires that have been re-cut or re-grooved below the original tread depth.

— Tires that are mis-matched in type or size (not in brand or tread depth.

— Tires marked "not for highway use," "for racing purposes only," etc.

Although the minimum tread depth laws are not strictly enforced in every state, drivers are usually issued a warning and must show proof of having replaced the defective tires within a specified period of time. Failure to comply can result in several days in jail and fines of as much as $100.

If you're caught driving with four fully worn tires in Austria, for example, the police have the right to remove your car's registration plate, plus demand a considerable fine to be paid in cash. Also, drivers who are responsible for an accident caused by a worn tire can have their insurance annulled. Three offenses in Finland or Ireland will earn you the possibility of three months in jail, while in France or Great Britain, your license may be withdrawn. In Holland, the maximum penalty is seizure of the car, in addition to a heavy fine.

More important than fines and penalties however, should be your concern for your own safety and that of your passengers. For more information on how to spot tire problems, write AMF Tire Equipment Division P.O. Box 1142, Santa Ana, Calif. 92702.

Electronic ignition systems need periodic maintenance

Electronic ignition systems have been made standard equipment on late model cars to keep emissions low.

But they still need periodic maintenance, according to Champion Spark Plug Company.

Because of the requirements stemming from emission controls, car makers began using the electronic ignition systems to provide more voltage to fire a wider-gapped spark plug.

The new systems eliminate breaker points and condensers and replace them with magnetic components that trigger the system for secondary voltage. However, many of the components of the electronic system are the same as in conventional ignitions and maintenance requirements are not too dissimiliar, Champion says.

The condition of the coil, distributor cap and rotor must still be checked. Correct timing is critical to proper operation.

Spark plugs are still subject to fouling from contaminent present in the combustion process such as carbon, calcium, barium and similiar ingredients.

And ignition wiring can still deteriorate or suffer damage, causing misfire.

Therefore, an annual ignition system check-up and service is still recommended by Champion, electronic system or not.

RUSTPROOFING CHECKLIST

Before you spend one cent to protect your new car, follow this checklist to be sure you're buying real rustproof protection...

☐ Deal only with a professional rustproofer. While many car dealers sell so-called rustproofing service, very few qualify as professionals. Every Ziebart Dealer is factory trained.

☐ Check the guarantee. If the rustproofer only guarantees "those areas treated or rustproofed"—watch out! Go see your Ziebart Dealer.

☐ Ask if your make and model car is covered in the rustproofer's specifications. Your Ziebart Dealer has specifications on more than 450 different makes and models to assure coverage of all critical areas on each car he rustproofs.

☐ Be sure the rustproofer has the specialized tools and equipment required for rustproofing. Some rustproofers try to get by with 3 or 4 spray tools. Your Ziebart Dealer has 9 patented spray tools designed specifically to reach body areas that require rustproofing.

☐ Take your new car directly to your Ziebart Dealer. He's the professional rustproofer with the proven ability and experience.
